Wealthy Quaker City Man is Alleged Visitor in Girl's Apartment.

IDENTITY FIRST DENIED

Battery of Newspaper Men in Waiting for "Mr. Marshall to Appear

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 24.—Asstant District Attorney Pecora today announced that the mysterious
"Mr. Marshall" who was the last person known to see Miss Dorothy Keenan, slain model, before she was chloroformed was J. A. Mitchell of Philadelphia.

Mr. Pecora also identified the mysterious Mr. Wilson "Marshall's secretary," who is said to have accompanied the Philadelphia to her suite as John H. Jackson, a New York lawyer.

Mr. Mitchell is listed in Philadelphia's social register as J. Kenley Mitchell, president of the Philadelphia rubber works company and the husband of Mrs. Francisco Coder Mitchell prominent in Philadelphia and New York society.

Mr. Mitchell came to New York last night in response to a request from Mr. Pecora who wanted to question him further about the possibility that he might have written Miss Keenan a letter that could have been used as a basis for an effort to blackmail him. He returned to Philadelphia this afternoon
"for further data" after a telephone conversation with the assistant prosecutor.

The mystery of the identity of "Mr. Marshall" had been intensified just before Mr. Pecora broke his silence of more than a week when Nelson Olcott, counsel for the mysterious man, declared flatly that Mr. Mitchell was not "Mr. Marshall" and that he would not disclose his client's identity.

Mr. Mitchell is the son-in-law of Edward Townsend Stokesbury, who is a Philadelphia capitalist and a member of J. P. Morgan and Company of New York.

Newspaper Men Active.
A small army of newspaper reporters and photographers localized today in an effort to identify the "wealthy Mr. Marshall" of Boston who is expected to confer with district attorney Pecora and Police Inspector Coughlin.

Search for the true name of the man today again obscured the case with which he is linked, the chloroforming murder of Dorothy Keenan, in an effort to find out if "Mr.
Marshall" was connected with the woman's death.

The interview postponed from last evening was to take place either at the district attorney's office or at the headquarters of the inspector, and between the two places the expectant army waits or the "Mr.
Marshall" to appear.

After a heavy assault from reporters repeating their demands that the man's identity be made public Mr. Pecora intimated that they might prevail today.

The interview was arranged, Mr.
Pecora said, to see if "Mr. Marshall" cannot shed light on the fugitive blackmail plot which the most accepted theory holds that she was murdered because she would not aid in defrauding the Bostonian.

Dairy Department Be Organized By Chamber Commerce

A meeting of a few interested in dairying was held Friday afternoon and it was decided to add a department of dairy development to the activities of the organization.

It was furthermore decided to hold a number of conferences with the citizens of various communities with a view of ascertaining the sentiment of the farmers towards the proposition of increasing their dairy output and what those who desired to increase their herds were prepared to do in the way of handling the cows. In cases where conditions are satisfactory, it is said that no difficulty will be had in getting the money with which to pay for the cows, the farmers to be consulted about what kind of cows they wanted.

It was stated that the ice factory would open a cream station to care for customers until it is certain that there are enough cows in this trade territory to supply a creamery at Ada.

Utilities to Organize Portland, Maine, March 24.—
Plans for the consolidation and reorganization of about ninety public utilities property valued at about $200,000,000 were approved at an adjourned meeting of stockholders of the Illinois Traction company here late today.

Was She Blackmailer?

Miss Dorothy Keenan.

Will the discovery of the identity of the "Mr. Marshall" lead to the solving of the mysterious chloroform death of Miss Dorothy Kennan, white light favorite? Police once decided that her case was suicide.

ASK PARTICULARS IN INNES FRAUD

Judge Sustains Two Points in Petition Over Question.

(By the Associated Press)

ATLANTA, March 24.—Government prosecution officials are required to furnish attorneys for Victor E. Innes, with a bill of particulars setting forth specifically the facts they expect to prove when he comes up for trial on a charge of using the mails to defraud under an order issued late today by United States Judge Sibley.

The judge sustained the first two points in the petition which calls for specific information as to whether Innes was in Carson City, Nevada, or Atlanta when the alleged fraudulent letter was mailed and whether Innes or some agent of his wrote the letter. He overruled a request for a complete copy of the letter, saying however that a complete copy would be produced at the trial.

The case is to come up for trial
Monday. Innes and his wife Mrs.
Ida May Innes were jointly accused of the murder of the Nelms sisters some years ago in Texas but because of the inability of the prosecution to produce the bodies of the girls the case was dismissed. Innes and his wife were later convicted in Atlanta of larceny and Innes completed this sentence several months ago. He was immediately rearrested on a charge of using the mail to defraud. Mrs. Innes was unable to come here because of poor health and is said to be now living in Portland, Oregon.

Members of Michigan Colony to Appear to Testify in Charges

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 24.—Members of the "inner circle" of the Israelites of the House of David and other followers of Benjamin "Purnell" cult to the number of forty are to be called by the defense when suit for accounting brought by John W. Hensell is resumed here Monday, it was learned today.

The list will include two sisters of Mrs. Esther Hensell, star witness for the plaintiff and former private secretary of Purnell as well as several "high priestesses" of the House of Shiloh, where it is testified, immoral practices were engaged in.

IOWA HOUSE VOTES TO KEEP OFF MASK IN STATE

(By the Associated Press)

DES MOINES, Ia., March 24.—
Without a dissenting vote the Iowa house of representatives today passed the Yenter anti-mask bill.

Previous to the final vote a substitute offered by the author of the measure was adopted, which is practically the Tennessee law, which is said to have operated very satisfactorily in that state in connection with Ku Klux Klan activities.

Knights Templar To Attend Easter Services in Body

In conformity with their custom Ada Commandery Knights Templar will observe Easter by attending divine worship in a body next Sunday.
This year the service will be held at the Episcopal church and the sermon will be preached by Rev.
C. L. Widney, rector of the church.

The Ada Commandery worships each Easter with some church of the city, usually a local pastor preaching a sermon appropriate to the occasion and to Christian knighthood.

The News is advised that the Knights in Ada will gather at the Masonic hall in full dress uniform next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and will march in a body to the church.

Charles Deaver is the Eminent Commander of the local organization this year and F. C. Sims is the secretary.

Workmen to Tell Of Discord From Railroad Strike

NEW YORK, March 24.—Testimony as to discord and damage inflicted upon railroad property during the recent railroad shop-men's strike was given today by officers and workmen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford, and Long Island railroads.

The hearing arranged for the taking of depositions to be used by the government in an injunction suit against the shopmen's union, was conducted by representatives of the attorney general's office.
Federal reports of the complete testimony will be sent on the termination of the hearing to Chicago, where on May 2 the government will seek a permanent injunction against railway employees department of the American federation of labor.

President's Party Return to Florida City After Cruise

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 24.—Concluding their houseboat cruise, along the Florida east coast resident and Mrs. Harding and their vacation companions arrived in St. Augustine late today and received an enthusiastic reception of hundreds of old friends.

The people of St. Augustine know the president and his wife perhaps more intimately than the people of any other city in the United States, except Marion, Ohio, for the Hardings have been coming to this old Spanish founded city for nearly twenty years. For that reason the arrival of the president's party here differs from that of various other east coast cities he has visited. It seemed something like a homecoming.

Harding's Cousin Dies

SEBRING, Florida, March 24.—
Dr. B. F. Harding of Mansfield, Ohio, cousin of President Harding, and who with his wife had been spending the winter here, died today following a long illness. Mrs.
Harding left here for Mansfield tonight with the body after a brief service.

ANGER PAST IN MISSOURI RIVER ICE GORGE JAMS

Engineers Spend Night on Inspection Tour on Both River Sides.

LOWLANDS THREATENED

Prize Lands of Iowa in Path of Threatened Rush of Water.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, March 24.—
All danger is past unless very severe and unusual weather conditions set in soon, according to a statement made tonight by R. J.
Anderson chairman of the board of supervisors of Woodbury county, and J. C. McLean, county engineer, who spent all day today in the danger zone on both sides of the Missouri river investigating the situation.

Their statement declared that a drop of two feet in the water stage at low points of the gorge on the Iowa side about three miles south of Sergeant Bluffs, Iowa, had occurred in the past twenty-four hours. A recession of seven inches was noted at Dakota City, Nebraska, they said, this fall having occurred since morning.

The ice flow in the channel is melting rapidly.

OMAHA, Neb., March 23.—Mammoth ice gorges in the Missouri river near Vermillion, South Dakota, Sioux City and Ottawa, Iowa, and Dakota City, Nebraska, this morning precipitated conditions that present an overflow menace in all the lowlands between Vermillion and Omaha and threaten inundation of part of Sioux City and flooding of thousands of acres of rich farm land in South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska, as well as the destruction of hundreds of farms homes.

An ice gorge reported early this morning with a length of eleven miles and a width in some places of seven miles near Brasfield Iowa, south of Sioux City is strangling the Missouri River. The stream is strengthened by thaws and is disappearing its strength by overflowing into the lowlands.

A drop in temperature helped hold the retaining ice but at any moment the terrible pressure might triumph and then the dammed up waters would race down the valley.
A conservative estimate places the number of farms in the path of such a torrent at 2000.

Counties in South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska would bear the brunt of the onslaught. Among the southern counties of Iowa are to be found some of the choicest corn lands of the corn belt. Last night a gorge formed near Ottawa, Iowa and a flood stage developed so that residents of the lowlands were forced to flee. Authorities at Ottawa gave up hope of shattering the gorge with explosives.

McCook Field Fliers To Attempt Records In Endurance Meet

DAYTON, Ohio, March 24.—
Verification of the report that Lieutenant Oakley G. Kelley and John A. McReady of McCook field were aiming at more than one record when they next attempt an endurance flight was made by officers of the post late today.

Preparations are going ahead to make another attempt for the flight April 1. Whether or not the attempt succeeds depends upon the weather and ground conditions at Wilbur Wright field where the take off will be made, officers declared.

The plans for this performance include ten trials at ten new records for endurance, distance, and speed while flying in an attempt to record forty-four hours of continuous flight.

RELATIVE CLAIMS MRS. BUZZI, SCHNEIDER SLAYER

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 24.—William
Ture, brother-in-law of Mrs. Anna Buzzi, who is held on a charge of homicide in connection with the slaying of Frederick Schneider, wealthy Bronx contractor, today told district attorney Glenn that Mrs. Buzzi had confessed the slay-ing to him.

Ture, held in high bail as a material witness, declared that Mrs.
Buzzi made the confession when he visited her after the shooting to reclaim the pistol he loaned to her two days before the shooting.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Mrs.
Katherine Elkins Hitt, daughter of the late Senator Stephen Elkins of West Virginia, was married at Atlantic City today to her former husband, William R. Hitt of Washington, from whom she was divorced in Paris in the summer of 1921.

Naughty-Naughty Legislators

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24.—
Behind locked doors and with the utmost secrecy, the house devoted itself this morning to the conduct of a handful of solons who were alleged to have held a "crap game" in the house cloak-room.

When the roll had been called upon convening Speaker Gibbons announced that he would entertain a motion that the house conduct further proceedings in executive session. Without further ado visitors, newspaper men and others were barred from the chamber and the doors locked.

The second session continued throughout the morning, corridors and lobbies buzzing with speculations bordering on the spectacular. It was rumored that certain high officers had been called into conference on some matter of momentous importance.

Despite the secrecy to which the members were pledged before leaving the chamber the story leaked out. It seemed to have all been a "tempest in a teapot" over the alleged "crap game."
Several members of the day before having tired of the uneventful proceedings and sought new recreation in "rolling the bones" for dimes and nickels in the cloak room.

One story had it that a certain house wag held up the games-men with a revolver and then called in the assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Some thirty dollars were on the floor, according to the story, and two pages figured in the play, it is said, in addition to four house members.

SAUNDERS FLAYS WALL STREETERS

Denounces Stock Exchange As Dangerous to Any Man Who Opposes It.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 23.—
Shares of class A, Piggly-Wiggly company stock held by Clarence Saunders, president of the Piggly-Wiggly stores, incorporated, were caught in a jam Tuesday when a bear raid on Wall Street was launched.

From the statement yesterday by Saunders, Piggly-Wiggly shares were $100 dollars per share Thursday, $150 until Thursday afternoon, and for a time thereafter at $250. Mr. Saunders declared in his statement utter defiance to Wall Street.

"I have no price of any kind to offer for your interests. Even 1000 shares would not buy a single certificate. My offer was for one day only and has not been extended."

Mr. Saunders denounced Wall Street and its "tactics" bitterly and declared that he expected to enter suit against the New York stock exchange, which he characterized as of all institutions in America, the worst for the men in power can ruin all who dare oppose it.

"Wall Street got licked bad," Saunders continued, "and then called for help, of course, from the New York stock exchange." Out of approximately 25,000 shares, which Mr. Saunders said were due him just 140 were delivered to him Friday.

Mr. Saunders said he would hereafter dispose of stock by selling "direct to the people—they trust me but they don't trust Wall Street." He would not allow his stock to be sold in the curb market he insisted.

"I am not afraid. Let Wall Street get me if they can. It is because most people are afraid that something must be done about this kind of business."

Jaywalkers Pick up Bombs in District On New York City

NEW YORK, March 24.—Two cast iron bombs loaded with explosives and carrying twelve-inch fuses were found today in front of the Union Methodist church half a block from Broadway and West 48th street, in the heart of the theatrical district.

The bombs were found at the height of the matinee rush when the street in front of the church was jammed with pedestrians and taxicabs.

Jaywalkers picked up the explosives in the middle of the street.
They were about the size of baseballs with shells of cast iron. The fuses had not been lit.

RAILROAD DETECTIVE GETS TWENTY YEARS FOR CRIME

BLOOMFIELD, Missouri, March 24.—John Harp, detective for the St. Louis and Southwestern railroad and former policeman of Little Rock, Arkansas, was found guilty of second degree murder in circuit court here late today and sentenced to twenty years imprisonment. He is charged with shooting Irvin Shanks, 19, of Crystal City, Kentucky, about a year ago.
Shanks is said to have been stealing a ride on a train.

EXPLOSION CAUSES DEATH OF WORKMAN AT CLAREMORE

CLAREMORE, March 24.—Explosion of thirty sticks of dynamite at the south end of Tiava tunnel ten miles south of here late today resulted in the death of one workman and the serious injury of three others.

William Deese, holsterman, was instantly killed. The injured are:
M. A. Terrence, William P. Keller and L. L. Griffin. Terrence is not expected to live.

COMMUNISTS RIOT IN GERMAN TOWN

French Seize Shipments of Machinery from Germans
At Dusseldorf.

(By the Associated Press)

ESSEN, March 24.—Bands of unemployed men wearing green shirts have been terrorizing the country at night in the Mothhausen district near Essen and the French are sending additional troops to this region to end the trouble.

German officials say that most of the men are communists, being led by a Russian miner. The Germans declare these bands, which circulate after nightfall are armed.

At least eleven Germans have been wounded in the last few nights in consequence of the activities of the bands, according to Berlin officers.

BERLIN, March 24.—An order has been issued by the ministry of railways forbidding railway men in the occupied areas to obey or cooperate with the Franco-Belgian railway administration.

DUSSELDORF, March 24.—Thirteen hundred tons of machinery and tools were seized here today by order of the restitution officers in Wiesbaden. The seizure was in accordance with two ordinances "promulgated by the inter-allied Rhineland commission a week ago with a view to resumption of reparations taking from Germany. The goods will be divided between France and Belgium. Orders have been given for a similar seizure at Siegburg.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 24.—
Attempts to tamper with the jury trying William Z. Foster on a charge of criminal syndicalism have been frustrated and the trial will proceed, county officials stated today.

First confirmation from an official source that an apparent effort to influence the jurors had been detected came today following the publication of details of Judge Charles White's hurried conference with lawyers for the state and with jury after court adjourned last night.

Attempts to Tamper With Jury Hinders Trial of Foster

FIRE IN OIL FIELDS
THREATENS DAMAGE NOW

MUSKOGEE, March 24.—A fire that threatens extensive damage is burning in the Cromwell oil fields in Hughes county, according to advices received here today.

A gas well in 4-9-10 came in last night and caught fire. Tonight, according to the dispatch, an oil well offset came in and immediately ignited.

COLORADO SENATOR DIES FROM CANCER TROUBLE

DENVER, March 24.—Samuel Nicholson, United States senator from Colorado, died here tonight at 9:15. Cancer of the liver caused his death. He was ill nearly a month.

Senator Nicholson was unconscious when he died. He had lapsed into a state of coma shortly before the end and did not regain consciousness before he succumbed.

TWO SOLUTIONS OUTLINED FOR MERCHANT MARINE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 24
Two solutions for solving of the national merchant marine problem, one providing for government operation and control of government owned ocean ships, and the other looking forward toward disposal of government tonnage to private interests, will be laid before President Harding upon his return to Washington by the shipping board, Chairman Lasker, who is a member of the president's vacation party, announced today.

WALTON PASSES TEXT BOOK BILL AFTER WRANGLE

Appropriations for University Of Oklahoma Decided on.
By Senate Action

BOOSTED BY $80,000

Carlock Pleased When Purse Strings are Pulled in After Hand Outs

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24.—
The $950,000 free text book bill became a law when Governor Walton affixed his signature to the measure late today.

Purchase of the text books teaching the theory of evolution or the "materialistic conception of history" is prohibited under the act.

The $950,000 appropriation carried in the bill as finally enacted represents a reduction from the original figure of $2,250,000 proposed by J. W. Bremer, author of the bill.

The state banking department is re-established under a bill by Representative J. B. Harper of La Flore county, which was passed by the house today. Positions of state bank commissioner and banking attorney are created and fourteen examiners authorized.

These additions and other provisions of the bill are designed to assist in materially strengthening the state banking department. Salaries for the positions thus created are to be paid from licenses exacted for examinations as provided by law.

Two bills sponsored by the municipal league were passed.

Two bills got the air, W. A.
Cunningham's measure declaring dogs to be personal property and the Burgher-Rossiter-Case bill requiring state examiner and inspector to audit the books of cities, towns and certain school districts.

The Barnum bill amending the co-operative laws passed the house 65 to 25 after provisions legalizing cooperative banks had been stricken out.

Co-operative Bank Bill Killed House bill 437 authorizing the establishment of co-operative banks which was voted down Friday gained reconsideration today and will be called for a second chance Monday.

House bill 254 relating to the regulation of cotton gins by the corporation commission was adopted after an attempt was made to substitute an entirely new bill.

The senate's first round over the big institutional appropriation bill ended tonight with a boost of $80-000 allowed in the section providing for the upkeep of the University of Oklahoma.

University Appropriation Up
The salary item for the university was the only one changed despite numerous amendments both to increase and to reduce.

The measure came before the senate as revised by the senate appropriation committee which sliced more than $2,000,000 from the total of appropriations of $16,400,000 voted by the house.

Consideration at the afternoon session was confined solely to appropriations for the university.

Senator Jod Johnson of Walters presented an amendment increasing the salary appropriation for 1924, placing it at $700,000, and for 1925 at $720,000, as against $650-000 and $680,000 recommended by the appropriation committee.

Chairman Carlock on behalf of the appropriation committee acceded to the increase.

An amendment by Senator Ross Lillard of Oklahoma county brought most consideration, urging the appropriation of $200,000 with which to construct a building in Oklahoma City for the medical college of the university. The proposal was defeated.

As appropriated by the senate, the university section carried the following items: salaries, $700,000 for 1924, $720,000 for 1925; support and maintenance, $220,000 and $230,000; equipment, $50,000; pharmacy building, $100,000; natural science building, $100,000; gymnasium, $100,000; engineer building, $100,000 for 1924 and $100,000 for 1925.

Pleased with Appropriation Chairman Carlock, the watchdog of the treasury, expressed satisfaction with the day's work at the end of the session.

"We have come through the hardest part of the fight and there has been only one change made in the committee's recommendations," he said. "The appropriations that the committee recommended will be fought all along the line. However, and it will

IN SOCIETY

MRS. BYRON NORRELL, Editor
Phone 998 between 10 a. m. and 12; 307 between 1 p. m. and 3.

Circle Number 2 of the Presbyterian Church will meet with Mrs. Hugh Norris, $20 E. 12th street, Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

Loyal Daughters Entertain
The Loyal Daughters Sunday School class of the First Christian Church entertained with a dinner Wednesday evening at the Harris Hotel. The members of the class with a few invited guests assembled at 7:30 and were escorted to the banquet room where covers were laid for eighteen. The room was tastefully decorated in green and white and with potted plants and cut flowers. A four course dinner was served. After the dinner, Mrs. A. Linscheid, the teacher of the class, entertained with a theatre party.

WEDNESDAY BRIDGE WITH MRS. E. C. HUNTER
The regular Wednesday Bridge met with Mrs. E. C. Hunter at her home on Hunter's Hill Wednesday afternoon when high score was made by Mrs. W. K. Chaney. A delightful plate course was served to Misses J. McKinley, B. McKinley, Simpson, Boggan, Drummond, Chaney, Taylor, Sparks, Bayless, Gowing, King and Blake.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB
The Fortnightly Study Club met with Mrs. Dr. Ed Granger as hostess Thursday afternoon, March 22. The program was varied in that two plays dealing with symbolism and mysticism were read by Mrs. A. Linscheid and Mrs. Ed Granger. Mrs. Linscheid made a few introductory remarks in which she deplored the fact that there are still people, either very young in science or very ignorant in religion who fancy there is a conflict between science and religion; whereas, true science which is the knowledge of facts and true philosophy which is the knowledge of principles are always allied to true religion which is the harmony of the soul with both facts and principles. Saying if we would be properly balanced—live the life abundant we must open our minds as Jesus did to both words—this visible world of fact, science and rational knowledge and the invisible world of soul, faith and intuitive knowledge. She then read Yates' philosophical allegory "The Hour Glass." The central thought about which the play is built is that the world invisible alone is real; that it is better to have been born a fool and retain your vision of the invisible than the type of philosopher who denies everything except what his senses tell him and is left to wander helplessly in the perishable realms of the visible. This reading made a very fitting setting for Hauptmann's dream poem "Hannele," a poem of heart rending pathos read by Mrs. Ed Granger. After listening to Mrs. Granger's perfect interpretation of this pathetic drama one could easily understand why in one of the great European cities the actors are said to have been so profoundly affected that they refused to repeat the representation. The club trusts that the public may soon have the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Granger give the tender poetic drama. The members felt the need of the relaxation that came with the serving of refreshments.

MISS JACKSON HONORS GUEST

Miss Estelle Jackson entertained in her home 130 East 12th, with a slumber party in honor of Miss Gladys Rogers of Holdenville. The guests arrived at 8:35. A delightful evening was spent at the McSwain theatre, after which the party gathered at home at a late hour. Then a two course luncheon was served to the following: Misses Gladys Rogers, Daisy Hawkins, Nelma Morgan, Mildred Robertson, Louise Morgan, Lervern Lasater, Wilma Chilcutt, Nell Kent and hostess, Estelle Jackson.

WHAT THEY SAY

THE COMMUNITY CHORUS

The promoters of the community chorus are to be congratulated on their good work. This movement will undoubtedly do much towards developing the musical talent in Pontotoc county and its influence will be felt for many years to come wherever good music is to be rendered.

Again this organization will be of great help in bringing high class musical attractions to Ada. The first of these will be on the evening of April 12 when Josef Konceny, the noted Bohemian violinist, assisted by Esther Luella Lash and Margaret Gary will appear on the program of the first concert given by the choral club. This combination of home talent and artists is hard to beat.

In order that everyone may have an opportunity to hear this concert, a matinee will be given in the afternoon at the high school at a price that will make it possible for one and all to hear, a special price being fixed for the school children.

Let us all turn out and give this movement our hearty support.

Ordinarily when some fellow is ranked up in court for making combustible corn liquor from oil cans, tomato cans, old wash tubs and other unmentionable utensils, I feel no remorse in seeing him get the full extent of the law.

Others brought before the court for selling samples of the same product that would kill any one of Xona's collection, I would not hesitate in reviewing his case without malice.

Others brought before the court for being in a state of coma as a result of over-consumption of this dynamic beverage, have only my pity.

—but when they bring a farmer in for making excess charges for the sale of corn liquor, I say let the farmer have a chance to make his money even if the sale is in liquid portions.

—for—the boll weevil gets his cotton, the weather man his fruit, the drouth his vegetables, the cholera his hogs, and the grafter his money—so why not.

My girl's name is Niagara. She falls for everybody.

"It is high time" said the militant reformer on the platform, "that we have a moral awakening in this town. Let us arise in our might. Let us gird our loins. Let us take off our coats. Let us bare our arms. Let us—"

"Hold on now," exclaimed a tall thin woman near the platform. "If this is going to be a moral awakening, don't you dare propose our taking off another thing."

It was reported by police that out of three slumber parties last night two of them had to be told to go to bed.

After hearing some of the long-haired boys, who look soulful, beat a piano to death, choke a fiddle and throw a fit otherwise, we don't blame the girls for pruning theirs.

TIGERS PREPARE FOR TRACK MEET

Several Candidates Show Up in Tryouts for Place on Team.

The track team which will represent the local school and will also be the best ever produced by the local school next year, according to Arty Scheinberg, who is in charge of the track athletes. Scheinberg expects to have a full squad of about twenty men out for competition for places on the team. Of these a large number are green as to training by Scheinberg is looking forward to next year's team as well as training men for the team this year.

Practice has been going on about a week now and some of the men are showing great improvement. The team this year will be led by Capt. J. H. Martin of Pontotoc, who will enter school about next week. Martin has been training all winter and promises to be the champion hurdler in the state this spring. Last year he took second place in a close race at the state track and field meet and he expects to be in much better form this year.

Coach Scheinberg states that the squad is weak in high jump, broad jump, and pole vault, and that inexperienced men must be developed to represent the school in these events.

The schedule of meets this year begins with a handicap meet with the Ada high school in the first week in April. Next will be the local meet about April 24, which will serve as an occasion for selecting the team. The quadrangular meet with Oklahoma Baptist University, Oklahoma City College, and Southeastern Teachers College, will be held this year at Shawnee, will be held April 27. The state interscholastic meet comes May 9, and the team may participate in an invitation meet May 20.

Among candidates for berths on the team are Campbell, Frank Keltner, and Farris Willingham are showing up well in the sprints. Distance events will probably be taken care of by Aubrey Bowman, Omar Brandon, and Norman Hildebrand. Aubrey and Travis Kerr will offer competition for the hurdles. Ben Hatcher and G. M. Dean are showing good form in practice but have not been assigned to any particular event. Dean will probably make an excellent hurdler man, according to Scheinberg. Brownell Coffman will handle the weights, with Coffman going well with the discs.

Coach Scheinberg himself has an enviable track record. Following all-around athletic service in high school at St. Louis, he was a member at Purdue university for three years. In winning his first medal he beat Orrie Mucks, world champion in weights, in throwing the javelin. His best records, however, are on the hurdles.

He ran second to Bob Simpson, world champion hurdler, when Simpson established the world record for the 120 yard high hurdles in 1916. In 1917 he was chosen a member of the American team, but never participated as such because of the war.

Since that time his only athletic activities have been in connection with the Illinois Athletic Club.

Homer E. Ezzell, taken at Browns' camp at Mobile, Ala.

Lack of a good third baseman was the principal cause of the Browns' failure to win the American league bunting last year. If Fohl can start the coming campaign with that hole plugged the pennant is his, with a fair break. The Brown manager is pinning his faith on one man, Homer Ezzell to fill that position in pennant winning fashion. Ezzell comes from the Shreveport club in the Texas league with a reputation as a hitter and fielder.

Tigers Out for Baseball

College Contenders Mix for Berths on Season's Baseball Nine

The sprinkling of diamond dust on the East Central College campus has claimed its usual horde of followers and again the Tiger clan promises to put out a line that will carve its name into the baseball history of intercollegiate games in Oklahoma and elsewhere.

Unusual interest is being taken in the daily workouts that have been going on for the past two weeks and several youngsters from the soda fountains and from the deep woods are threatening the positions of old timers on the diamond in Ada sopitdom.

Coach Milam, who has taken charge of the baseball crew expects to put out the best team in the history of the school despite the loss of two of the best regulars on the team, Paul Wanner and Eddie Miller.

Milam has not picked a possible lineup for the opening game here during the latter part of this month but let it be known that he has an abundance of material to pick from and Milam should know a bit about material since he has played quite a lot of the game himself.

The Tiger nine will miss Paul Wanner, reputed to be the best college twirler ever to make a debut in the state collegiate conference. Wanner is playing with the Seals at San Francisco. Eddie Miller, fast at short and an all-around athlete will be missed from the lineup this year, their places will be hard to fill with the material on hand.

Approximately thirty men are reporting regularly for practice now and from this number will be picked the Tiger nine and the list of substitutes. Little chance for contenders to show their best effort has been possible with weather conditions and the large delegations on hand. Some of the men, however, have shown up so well in the practice games that they will be used on the town club during the summer months.

Following are the possibilities for the nine positions:

CATCHERS—Josh Lee is said to be one of the best men behind the bat in state college baseball. He is a regular talking machine and a hot shot for the rest of the players on the infield sacks. He bats left handed and can handle the willow with some degree of certainty. He can be used on the mound if needed.

Claire is also a good prospect for a catcher but has not the experience of Lee. He is a top notcher at receiving behind the bat and at taping the sacks.

Shipman is also a comer in the receiving line and is said to be the future prospect of Coach Milam, who says that another year of experience will make him a candidate among the best. Shipman can also use the stick and is considered good in the outfield.

PITCHERS—George Morrison is the veteran twirler for the squad and can fill in at first or outfield. Morrison, who is a southpaw, is rated among the best and much will be his lot in the season at hand.

Willows is a right-handed twirler and has shown quite a few curves to boost his rating with the team during the past workouts. He backs his curves with plenty of control and is one of the best hitters under prospect.

Bill Crawford, left-hander and big six-foot boy with everything in the game but experience. Milam hopes to see Crawford pan out to be one of the dependables on the club and believes that his rise in the game will be phenomenal.

Strohm is a young right-hander and has the making of a valuable member of the squad. He can be used at any position on the diamond as a utility man.

FIRST BASE—Kelly is claiming the edge on the first sack and apparently has a good shot for a home berth on the initial sack.

SECOND BASE—Kirkpatrick is one of the best shots of the prospective team and from point of service and ability one of the best men of the squad. His hitting spree make him the prospective lead man for the club. He plays a dependable game at his position.

Kirk is considered the best base runner since Ty Cobb broke his leg. Montgomery is also bidding for the second base position but can handle a clever glove in infield or outfield.

THIRD BASE—McCoy has shown the stuff that makes him stand out as the premier contender for the hot box of the diamond. He is a new comer on the team but making an enviable record.

SHORT STOP—Johnson, an all-around athlete, is the strong contender for the pivot position. He likes them hot or slow and takes his place at the bat with the poise of a veteran. He is conceded to be the club's board rattle.

FIELDERS—Thompson is a new comer to the Tiger lot but looks like a veteran in action in the

MANY ENTRIES CONTEND FOR TIGER TENNIS CREW

Sixty-five students have enrolled for the course in tennis being offered for the first time at the college this spring. Of these forty are girls and twenty-five boys. Work in this line gives the students credit of an hour each quarter, and promises to be one of the most attractive courses yet offered.

Those taking work in tennis are assigned regular hours when they are to be on the courts. This is necessary to accommodate the large number of students on the three courts.

M. B. Molloy tennis coach, is planning to select a girls team for matches with surrounding schools. In addition to this team will be the regular boys team, for which several matches have been tentatively arranged.

The tennis class offers an opportunity for exercise to a large number of students and gives the tennis coach an opportunity to observe the respective merits of players who are candidates for the teams.

KINDERGARTEN EXPERTS CONDEMN BABY TALK

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 24.—Baby talk defined as "an expression of self-vibrating with parenthood," is condemned as a dangerous and ludicrous practice by Miss Marion Lanphier, Ph.M., instructor in essentials of speaking at the National Kindergarten and Elementary College.

Exhorting young fathers and mothers to "ware of 'litta darlin'" and "wittle wambkins" and kindred terms of parental endearment, Miss Lanphier points out that only six out of every ten children escape detrimental impressions "from the absurd language of their parent's affection."

Says Miss Lanphier: "There is a serious side to baby talk which is forcefully presented to the students at the National Kindergarten and Elementary College. During the first six years of the average child's life he passes from the isolated syllable stage to the full sentence stage of language development. From there on the process is an intricate elaboration of all the twists and idiosyncracies of English expression."

"Woe to the child who has been a bit weak in language development and who has had in his ears incorrect auditory imagery from early babyhood to the primary grade periods. There is constant danger that this child may be either weak in his language development or so precocious in some other development that the language process, not weak in itself, is simply retarded before the stronger growth, mentally or physically. In either case the practice of baby talk is a distinct danger. Furthermore, baby talk is frequently groundwork for a development in stammering, a handicap which may continue throughout life."

field. He covers his part of the outfield like a blanket and wields a hard willow facing the battery.

Kratz is also a new man, but when in action he shows merits of an old timer. His knowledge of the game makes him a valuable annex. He is a hard worker in field and at bat.

Harrison is a regular of last year but is showing fight to retain his old position in the lot. He is one of the best hitters on the club and Milam values him as a dependable man.

Tinkle is valuable because he can be used at most any place on the lot as well as an outfield position. He has shown a willingness to work for a place on the nine.

Many others are showing up well in practice and will have plenty of opportunity to show their merits in the games on schedule for the spring months.

BABE HOPES TO PLAY DIFFERENT TUNE

Babe Ruth trying his hand at chauffeuring a hurdy-gurdy in camp.

While Babe Ruth, Behemoth of Swat, is just now nursing an attack of the flu, which will hold him up a week in his training, he is happy in the thought that right now he is in better condition than he was in mid-season—or at any time during the campaign of last year. Ruth seems sincere in his decision to get away to a flying start this year, maintain it and redeem himself.

Ivey and Cooper Again Fight to Draw in Bout Under Legion Auspices

Arche Cooper, local participant in many ring bouts, and Battling Ivey of Wilson again fought to a ten-round draw and their second no decision bout here Friday night at the armory ring when Referee Jack Edwards showed no favoritism in his award.

Decision from the ringside boosted Cooper as having a shade of preference over the invading contender, but Referee Edwards considered the fine points of the game and could not waver from his belief that the advantage shown by either of the fighters was sufficient for the decision.

Ivey was cautioned on several occasions for holding in clinches and using the kidney punch which had been barred through the announcement of Referee Edwards. Ivey took advantage of several other breaks which conflicted with the ringside idea of clean sportsmanship although within the eligibility of the ring.

Cooper early took the offensive and easily outpointed his opponent in the first round. The fighting was mixed and no round decisions could be taken until the later rounds of the bout when Ivey gained two rounds. Cooper came back in the last rounds of the match and proved the antagonist in the finish of the fight. Cooper still showed strength at the last gong, while Ivey appeared groggy and most of his swings and jabs went wild.

Rd. 2—Cooper left jabs and then fights in clinch with Ivey returning body blows. Both men clinch and then mix in close quarters. Ivey sends in a series of jabs and Cooper clinches and lands heavy right to face on break. Both men clinch and break and then clinch again. Cooper left jabs and clinches again. Draw.

Rd. 3—Both men exchange blows and then clinch with exchange of blows in clinch. Cooper sends in left jab with Ivey returning left jab following by a swing that landed effectively Cooper jabs, then clinch and Ivey follows with jab and clinch. Ivey rushes Cooper to ropes and takes the advantage. Cooper fights from ropes and lands terrific right to face. Ivey jabs then goes into clinch and follows again with jab after break. Round draw.

Rd. 4—Ivey rushes Cooper to ropes and lands several effective

blows while Cooper is rushed to a corner Cooper comes out jabbing with left followed by terrific right swing that meets Ivey's face. Both men clinch and Cooper jabs after break. Ivey takes offensive and rushes Cooper to ropes. Ivey jabs and then clinches and jabs again on break. Both men fight hard in clinch and exchange blows freely with Cooper taking the heavy end of the exchange of blows. Cooper jabs and is again leading the fighting as the gong sounds. Cooper's round.

Rd. 5—Ivey takes the offensive and rushes Cooper to the ropes where he sends in a series of heavy blows Cooper returns the fight by rushing Ivey to the ropes and mixing the fight. Cooper lunges at Ivey and falls into ropes with Ivey following the lead. Both men clinch and Ivey follows break with left jabs. Cooper comes back after clinch with left jabs. Ivey jabs and then clinches with Cooper, who mixes fight. Cooper leads fight but is rushed to the ropes by Ivey in a series of jabs and right swings. Ivey's round.

Rd. 6—Both men rush to clinch and Cooper assumes lead forcing Ivey to the ropes but Ivey returns lead with terrific swings and then to a clinch. Cooper is again pushed to ropes where Ivey sends in body blows. Ivey is cautioned about kidney punches and Cooper drops guard to appeal to referee while Ivey takes advantage and lands right. Cooper rushes Ivey to ropes where mixed fighting follows. Cooper again rushes Ivey to ropes but Ivey returns strong with jabs. Ivey jabs again and Cooper takes to clinch. Ivey jabs Cooper and forces him to ropes where he rains in series of body blows. Ivey again rushed Cooper to ropes and men clinch. Ivey's round.

Rd. 7—Contenders spar in exchange and then clinch and Ivey takes lead by rushing Cooper to ropes in a series of blows. Clinch and Ivey follows in new lead rushing Cooper to ropes. Cooper comes back with face jabs but Ivey returns but body blows. Ivey assumes lead and lands body blows and Cooper retreats with jabs. Ivey rushes to clinch and Cooper returns with heavy blows to body and then left jabs to face. Ivey jabs to face and then to body. Cooper jabs and falls to clinch. Ivey sends in right to body after series of jabs and follows swings with jabs to face. Cooper fell to defense while Ivey showed new life. Ivey's round.

Rd. 8—Ivey and Cooper mix fighting and Cooper comes back strong in taking the offensive and rushing Ivey to the ropes where he sends in a series of body and face blows. Both men resort to clinching and Ivey misses two right swings and clinches again. Cooper takes on new life and leads fighting by series of jabs and swings. Cooper rocks Ivey by two terrific left jabs and then follows with heavy right swing

CONLEY RATTLES SWORD FOR FIGHT

With the proposed match between Arche Cooper, local fighter and Billy Conley, Pacific coast champion, Ada sport fans are promised a fistie encounter that borders on big league stuff and will assure local followers of the ring of seeing the best of the county in the local ring.

Conley, who is managed by Sergeant Leo C. McMahon, blind fight promoter of Oklahoma City, issued his challenge here Friday night before the main bout between Cooper and Ivey. The draw between Cooper and Ivey leaves local enthusiasts to choose their contender for Conley, could the fistie encounter be arranged.

Conley came to Ada for his challenge to the winner of the Cooper-Ivey match highly recommended his records showing 30 knockouts to his credit, most of which were fought on the Pacific coast where he hung up his claim for championship in that community.

Conley further showed his worth in an exhibition bout with Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion of the world at End recently, where sport writers accredited him with a good showing against the heavyweight comeback.

The Conley-McMahon combination is a recently organized one in the state and is reputed to be one of the strongest alliances in the state ring. McMahon who is totally blind, was at one time welterweight champion of the Allied Armies, before being blinded by mustard gas while serving with the Canadian army in the World War. McMahon claims Wisconsin as his home prior to his enlistment in the Canadian army and prior to that time claims to draw fights with Jack Britton, while he was at his best.

OKMULGEE WINS JUNIOR BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

OKMULGEE, March 24.—Okmulgee annexed the state junior high school 1923 basketball championship here tonight defeating Mounds 26 to 22 in the finals of the first annual state-wide basketball tournament.

Okmulgee has previously trounced Henryetta and Council Bluffs. Tonight's game was a fast and spirited contest, marked by keen rivalry on both sides. Seven schools took part in the tournament.

to body. Cooper jabs and rushes Ivey to ropes and then takes lead in mixed fighting in clinch. Ivey shows effect of Cooper's offensive. Cooper's round.

Rd. 9—Cooper jabs to face and then to body before Ivey resorts to clinch. Cooper shows new strength and rushes Ivey to ropes with a series of jabs and heavy right swings. Both men miss heavy swings. Cooper takes advantage of fighting in clinch and break. Cooper jabs to face and staggers Ivey, who regains lead and rushes Cooper to ropes where he sends in series of effective blows. Ivey takes lead after clinch and rushes Cooper to ropes. Draw.

Rd. 10—Cooper lands right swing and follows with left jabs to face and body. Cooper slips under ropes and Ivey takes the advantage and lands right as Cooper is regaining poise. Cooper takes offensive but Ivey clinches. Cooper uses right effectively and then jabs to body. Ivey is groggy and misses swings. Cooper again takes lead with jabs and then follows with swings. Ivey is swinging wildly at end of round. Cooper's round.

Cooper's weight was announced at 154 pounds and Ivey at 160 pounds.

An exhibition match was staged by Billy Conley, Pacific coast champion and Claude Sparks, local boxer, as semi-finals, the negro fighters having called off their match because of injuries of Battling Silk. Conley showed all the stuff of a superior fighter and his ability in outwork and offensive lighting proved his contention for ring honors. Conley challenged the winner of the Cooper-Ivey match.

Two local youngsters fought to a four-round draw.

WHAT IS GREATNESS?

What is greatness? We speak of the great men of the age, and as a matter of fact we do not know who the great men of the age are. Can you point to a single individual at present and really say he is a great man? You might do so, but your judgment might be as far wrong as the south pole is from the north.

Who are the great men of history? Christ naturally stands first among men, granting that you would not object to his being spoken of as a man. He was despised, forsaken, and killed. He was not considered a great man in his age.

Aristotle was a great man of Greece, but he did not receive the applause of the multitudes. Rome produced no really great man, unless it were Caesar, and he died by the assassin's blows and the citizenry rejoiced over his murdered body.

How do you determine the great men of history? Here is a rule that will work. Take any particular age, find the man who has most unmistakably affected the lives of succeeding generations, and you will find the greatest man of that age. Scan the pages of history, with this as a guide, and you will find very few so-called statesmen, few warriors, and few wealthy men. The men who have made their lives felt in history, as we read it, are those who have lived with a vision ever before them, those who have felt they had a message to give to the world and cared not particularly what handicaps were in the way, those whose hearts beat with a fervor to do something good and help others. In others words, to use a much overworked term, the men who have done most are those who have served best.

Christ has marched across the pages of history like a colossus, while the rich, the rulers and the high priests of that time have been forgotten.

Queen Elizabeth, Sir Walter Raleigh, King James I and others about the close of the sixteenth and the beginning of the seventeenth centuries were before the people and received the applause and the day by day honors, but in history they must give way to Shakespeare and Milton.

These illustrations are given to bear out the Biblical saying that he "who would save his life shall lose it." It is the same today as in the days of old. The man in business who sees the immediate dollar and ignores the great end of service, not only fails to serve but he also misses the dollar.

We do not believe that any great business which depends upon good will and value rendered can prosper when service does not go before profit. Naturally profit there must be, but when service is made the paramount thing, generally the profit will follow, granted, of course, that the management is efficient.

John Wanamaker is often spoken of as the prince of merchants. People have marveled at his great success. Below we give a few extracts from some of his writings, as we find them quoted in the Dearborn Independent. They remind one of the writings of Franklin, and they give an insight into the nature of the man who was able to build a great retail business. Is there not a message in the following extracts for all of us? We believe there is.

"We can only reach each other with sympathy, the biggest word among the three or four big words in the world.

"Let us be citizens first, and not merely bankers, lawyers, merchants and manufacturers.

"There are many croakers upon the edges of lakes and creeks; there they sit croaking and croaking; but they are only frogs after all.

"A man's true estate is not in houses, railroads, bonds and the like; it is in himself.

"I believe it is true that every baby is born with a song in its mouth.

"To stay by the lesson until it is learned and stay by the work undertaken until it is completed is the real thing.

"Why should people get old and cease to smile and sing the whole way through?

HOW ADA GROWS.

When one makes a survey of the building operations now under way in Ada he is really surprised at the extent of the building program, especially under present conditions.

However, this is in keeping with the history of the city. It is one place that has never experienced a boom. From the beginning there has been a steady, solid growth which has never stopped. At times this has been more rapid than other periods, but all the time some building has been going on and Ada was being spread over more of the map. Being built on a solid foundation of this kind Ada has never gone through the nerve-destroying experience of towns that experienced mushroom booms which collapsed and left everything flat.

Yes, Ada is doing some building and the census of 1920 gave her fourteenth place among Oklahoma towns in point of population. During the preceding ten years she passed Durant, Frederick, Hugo and El Reno. Okmulgee was the only town that passed Ada during that decade. The population of Ada increased 85 percent in ten years and has not yet stopped growing.

Better Not Say It.

(Sulphur Times)
Bad news travels faster than good news. There is an old saying, "No news is good news." Let a man be converted at a church service and there is not much of a stir, but let a resident be convicted of some crime and the news leaps by word of mouth from one end of the community to the other. Sometimes are when neighbors of ours suffer misfortune! Troubles are bound to come to us all in some shape or form and what we say about our friends and acquaintances today may apply to us tomorrow. News is no respecter of persons.

We are prone to consider the ways of others not our ways when we should be watching our own step. What folks say of one another sometimes hurts more than anything they could have done. News, either good or bad, grows and becomes exaggerated and distorted with peddling. But bad news, given wings, may bring sorrow and ruin upon people who certainly are not deserving of a punishment beyond the penalty of their mistake. More charity for others will mean more charity for ourselves and we will gradually come to take a keener delight in reporting something good of some person than something bad. Good is constructive, bad is destructive. Just before you are about to let out a bit of "bad news," stop and think of something good to say in place of it. The chances are ten to one you can and that you will.

Too Many Laws—A Menace

(Chickasha Express)
"Fewer and better laws" is a slogan that has often been used in political campaigns, and the average citizen who sees it doesn't hesitate to say, "That's exactly right—I'm for it." But in the face of this popular approval, congress and state legislatures go right on ahead grinding out laws by the ton and the quality is not improved. Good citizens and cranks respectable bodies of business men and radicals, reformers with more zeal than common-sense and politicians bent upon riding into office by pleasing the popular ear—all have their pet ideas which they insist should be embodied in law in order to "save the country," and hence the law-mills keep on increasing their output. The menace of too much law—too many statutes insufficiently considered and hastily enacted—merits much more attention than it receives. The Chicago Tribune says:

"In 624 days the national legislative body enacted 931 laws. During the same period many state legislatures were grinding out more.

"There are already so many laws on the statutes, federal and state, that they cannot be enforced, and the result is we are in effect deprived of the constitutional guarantee which declares that no one shall be denied the equal protection of the laws. The most conscientious attorney-general cannot perform his whole duty, for none has means enough to enforce all the laws against all offenders. He must pick and choose, and if he is not singularly disinterested he will pick and choose for political or personal reasons.

"The multiplication of laws is one of the gravest dangers encountered in our history, and, unhappily it is a danger little regarded, either by legislators or laymen. On the contrary, there seems to be an increasing tendency to resort to law-

making as to the most trivial. Encroachments upon liberty of private judgment are feebly or not at all resisted, except by extremists and cranks, and there seems very little moral courage to withstand any hue and cry set up in the name of morality.

"It is futile to complain of non-enforcement of law while legislatures will pass almost any measure not vigorously resisted. The contrary rule should be followed; that is, no measure should be enacted unless the legislature is confident it is the expression of a general public demand, or unless the legislators are themselves convinced that it is required by the public good and can be effectively enforced.

Plays in Screen Version of "The Beautiful and Damned"

Life at its wildest and New York at its best—which means its worst—figure in the plot of Warner Brothers latest production, "The Beautiful and Damned," which comes to the McSwain Theatre, for Monday and Tuesday.

Marie Prevost, admired by thousands, both as a bathing beauty queen, and also as a star of screen-dam, has the starring role in this picture. She acts the part of a beautiful but selfish and cold flapper, the kind seen everywhere on the main streets of any American town.

"The Beautiful and Damned" was adapted for the screen from F. Scott Fitzgerald's "best seller" novel of the same name, which has been enjoying unusual popularity because of its treatment of flappers and the fast set, and which critics consider a great story.

It concerns Gloria Gilbert, a lovely flapper, and Anthony Patch, a young member of the idle class, who is waiting for the death of his grandfather, old Adam Patch, a millionaire and social reformer. He falls in love with and marries Gloria, and the two adopt as their motto, "wait 'till Grandpa Patch dies. Gloria is married but still a flapper. They begin a course of life which leads to dissipation and costly pleasures. Grandfather Patch, happy at the marriage of the confident that it means a new and pure life for Anthony, gets the surprise of his life when he pays him an unexpected visit and finds the home of the newlyweds the scene of reckless revelry and debauchery. He is so overcome with grief and rage that he dies a week later.

Gloria and Anthony attend the reading of the will, wondering how many millions they have inherited. Their confidence changes to con-

DEAR PEGGY:

I was down town today and saw the cutest things for Easter. The dearest little place cards in many different designs to hang on the glass—in butter fly, chicken and lilies and some crepe paper for Easter decorations and paper napkins. And such a wonderful line of Easter cards including some parchments.

You must go down and see them.

Drawn-Thread Work on Voile of Reseda Green

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

THIS voile frock of cool almond green leaves little to be desired for midsummer afternoon wear, for its simple design seems almost as refreshing as its color and material. Drawn-thread work is used for decoration and to mark the top of the deep hem.

Groups of pla tucks placed at each shoulder give a little surplus fullness across the front, which is desirable in a material as sheer as voile. In the skirt, side plaits dispose of an abundance of fullness with very pleasing results.

The sash is of narrow ribbon tied at the center back and trimmed across the front with ribbon rosebuds.

the senate amount to $28,367,660. J. Carlock, chairman of the senate appropriations committee announced today.

Senator Carlock included in the total the appropriation of approximately fourteen million dollars provided in the institutional bill as it came from the senate appropriations committee.

if the institutional bill should pass the senate with house figures the total appropriations would amount to more than thirty million dollars, Senator Carlock said.

There is every indication that items in the institutional bill will be increased over the amount fixed by the appropriation committee. The first first section measure adopted today boosted it by $80,000.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24.—There is no cause for censure of any public servant of the state in connection with the recent release of Xenophon Jones from the state penitentiary under guard, the special house investigating committee reported today.

PALESTINE NOT FERTILE LANDS

Consul Claims Soil is not in Paying Condition for Agriculture.

(By the Associated Press)
JERUSALEM.—Addison E. Southard, American Consul here, has just completed an exhaustive survey of the commercial and agricultural resources of Palestine. He has also investigated the subjects of port development, hydro-electric resources, irrigation and banking. In view of the optimistic reports issued by those seeking to make the Jewish National Home in Palestine a success, it is interesting to note that the American Consul entertains serious doubts regarding the agricultural and industrial resources of the country.

"Approximately one-third of the area of Palestine proper," says he, "or roundly 3,000 square miles, is barren land capable of little, if any agricultural development. Fully an additional fifth of the total area, or more than 3,000,000 acres, has definite agricultural possibilities; but irrigation and other more or less expensive requirements will considerably prejudice the profits to be obtained from farming. The country is sparsely settled, and much of the land has been left fallow for centuries. At the present time the estimated area under cultivation in all Palestine amounts to fewer than 1,000,000 acres."

American business men who recently visited Palestine have found confirmation of Mr. Southard's observations in the great stretches of rocky and barren land. Only in the broader valleys and plains is it at all fertile, and the Arabs who form 85 percent of the population, have a difficult time eking out an existence. It can hardly be expected, therefore, these American travelers believe, that the Jews of the world will be attracted to the so-called "National Home" set up in the Holy Land by Great Britain.

The number of Hebrews who have come to settle here from the United States and other countries is relatively small. Of the 700,000 population of Palestine, only 11 percent is Jewish. Those particular callings for which Hebrews throughout all times have shown an especial predilection—clothing manufacture, merchandising, banking and money-changing—are singularly lacking in the Holy Land. Industrial activity is almost negligible. Fruit-growing and souvenir-making are the principal pursuits.

Most of the Jews who have left America for what they believed to be "The Promised Land" have found life in Palestine difficult and expensive. Many of them have engaged in small farming and fruit culture. Others have set up small retail stores in Jaffa, Haifa and other large towns. The main streets of Jerusalem and Jaffa now resemble busy retail centers in the East Side of New York. The Hebrew and English languages vie with Arabic as the prevailing tongues in the commercial markets.

"Palestine," says Consul Southard in his report, "is a small country without demonstrated natural resources of any particular importance. Its population is small and will not for some years possess any considerable purchasing power. Within its own limits it will produce or consume little as compared with the average world political or commercial unit."

The Consul's statement that the local population neither produce nor consume much explains why the world Jew has such reluctance in colonizing the Holy Land. The Arab population is proverbially poor and produces little beyond a few staples of the farm and vineyard. The Jew, who is essentially a merchant and trader, finds it impossible to live off the Arab, and he finds it equal-

Oil News

That Ada is the center of an oil developing campaign seldom equalled for scope of territory and intensity of drilling appears from the number of producing wells, the number of wells going down in proven territory, and the number which are drilling and are to drill in wildcat territory.

The new wells in Seminole county are only thirty-five miles from Ada and only about fifteen miles north of the northern part of this county. These producers from deep sand have increased the interest in deep drilling south of the river, and indications are now several deep tests will go down this spring and summer.

Arrangements for the deep test northwest of Francis have been held up for the present. Whether these will be perfected immediately cannot now be determined.

Forde Harrison of Allen says a deep test is to be made between Allen and Calvin, though he did not know the name of the company. Hole is to start 24 inches. The hole is to go 4,000 feet if necessary.

The Coal county territory is to get a good play present activity indicates. Most of this territory is only from twenty to thirty-five miles from Ada.

In the Allen field, the Homaoka company has the rig up and is moving the tools in for a well in section 33-5-8.

In Coal county, Bearman has a well 790 feet deep in section 34-2-9, which is reported to be making 10,000,000 feet of gas daily. This well is further south than any well in southeastern Oklahoma to cause any interest for two or three years.

Just north of this well in section 30-3-10 on the Childs farm, the Columbia Oil company has a good showing of gas at 900 feet.

R. C. Morrison and others in section 11-3-11, north of the old gas field, have a fifteen inch hole 890 feet. The well has been shut down for months. It is reported that this company has bought the old gas field and will put in a carbon plant either in the field or in Coffeyville.

The Kimberly interests are drilling in section 35-5-11 at 935 feet in Hughes county.

ly impossible to exploit his own people.

American visitors usually leave Palestine with the conviction that if it were not for its historical and Biblical associations and traditions, the Holy Land would figure little in the world's life. There is a firm belief among disinterested Americans that Great Britain would willingly withdraw from its costly occupation of the country if it were not for security of the Suez Canal, which is only 200 miles away.

King Tut's Vault May Yet Have Written History of Days of Pharaohs of Nile

VALLEY OF THE KINGS, LUXOR, Egypt.—Among the wealth of antiquities found in the tomb of Tutankhamun no trace has yet been discovered of a single scrap of papyrus that will throw any light on the obscure history of Egypt during that monarch's reign. Indeed, not even the hieroglyphic inscriptions and pictorial legends on the walls of the mortuary chamber reveal any intelligible facts concerning the life and achievements of the King who ruled the Nile 1,350 years before Christ.

Most of the 30 or more other royal tombs in the valley of the Kings are adorned with innumerable sculptures, bas-reliefs, paintings and tablet illustrative of the periods in which the Pharaohs reigned. These inscriptions and paintings are, moreover, of a much higher merit than the few which have been found in Tutankhamun's death chamber. They have been of invaluable service to the American and British archaeologists in piecing together, with the aid of papyrus documents found in the tombs, the fragmentary history of the Old and New Empire.

Perhaps next in value to the mummy and sarcophagus of Tutankhamun himself are some thirty-five sycamore chests found in the funeral repository. The archaeologists are hopeful that some of these may contain documents of papyrus which will reveal some new facts regarding the little known events of the departed sovereign's short reign. If found, they will be given to Prof. James Breasted, the great Egyptian scholar of the University of Chicago, for decipherment and interpretation.

heretic sovereign, with high sloping head and wearing a helmet and a leopard skin. This has formed the subject of much study and speculation by Howard Carter and his American associates. There is no indication that Tutankhamun adhered to Akhnaton's new faith—the worship of Aten the god of the solar disc—nor anything to controvert the known fact that he led Egypt back to the old faith—the worship of Amon, the great god of Thebes. Tutankhamun is represented in the painting as worshipping Osiris, god of life and resurrection, in the traditional manner.

The news from London that the influence of the British government may be exerted to prevent the removal of Tutankhamun's body from its burial place to a museum was received here with satisfaction and relief by Egyptians and others who are averse to what they term "body catching" by foreign invaders. They declare there is as little justification for disturbing the ashes of the ancient Pharaoh as there would be in removing the dead from one of the royal tombs in Westminster Abbey.

In this connection it is pointed out that King Amenophis, who is interred a short distance from Tutankhamun, specially requested, by a written tablet in his sepulchral chamber, that his ashes be not disturbed. The plea, however, was not observed until the British authorities in Egypt intervened and succeeded in having the King's body returned from the Carlo museum to its original resting place in the Royal Necropolis. It is now the only royal mummy visible to tourists. It rests in the heart of the living rock of the Libyan mountains, through which a great tunnel was pierced by the ancients.

HOPE HIGH OVER STATE CROP AREA

Claim Prosperity Rides Over Agricultural Oklahoma Reports Show

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 19.—Hope rides high over agricultural Oklahoma. A new season is at hand, and the farm work it brings is already under way. Crops are being sown in practically all sections of the state, according to a report made public today by Carl H. Robinson, federal agricultural statistician attached to the state board of agriculture.

Corn planting has begun in some places, and will become general over the state by the end of the month, Robinson said. What crop prospects are good. Oats are practically all in the ground, except in very dry districts, he added, and some are already showing green.

Larger acreages than last year are expected in corn, cotton and broom corn, according to the report. Hay supplies are getting low and native pastures have not yet started to grow, except in favored localities, Robinson said, but alfalfa is "greening up" and feed is expected to prove ample to carry the stock along.

An increase in the corn acreage this year is predicted in the report because of an increase in the number of hogs on farms and the small supply of corn on hand. It is noted that "the soil is in fine shape and the moisture content is sufficient in most corn sections to bring the crop above ground quickly."

Recent state-wide rains are noted as having been beneficial to the wheat crop, although an exception is made of the northwest section of the state, where it is still too dry. Greenbugs are reported in Blaine, Kingfisher, Logan and Kiowa counties, the most damage having been reported in Kingfisher.

OBITUARY

ROBERT H. FULLER

Robert H. Fuller, the 16-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Fuller, 830 West 8th street, died Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the effects of burns received a few days before. Funeral services will be held from the family home this morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Rosedale cemetery.

McALESTER, March 25.—Boy scouts here are serving as extra arms, legs and eyes of the city administration, having pledged to report to all departments of the city government all matters which should come to the attention of those departments. They report non-collection of garbage, holes in pavements or side-walks, livestock running loose, leaking fire hydrants, leaking water or gas mains, absence of red lanterns on street obstructions, and violation of law of every nature.

Every man, however humble his station, exercises some influence on those who are about him for good or evil.

Details of Annual Confederate Meet To Be Announced

Capt. Wyatt Webb is in receipt of information that the fare for Confederate Veterans to the New Orleans Convention of April 11, 12 and 13 will be a one-way fare for the round trip. It had been previously announced that a one cent a mile fare would be given, but this was in error.

Captain Webb also says the arrangements for the route have not been made. It was first thought they would go to Fort Worth and go with the rest of the Oklahoma delegation from that point. This arrangement may not be carried through, however. An announcement of the route will be given as soon as it is learned.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Today is the fourth anniversary of the present pastor and we are very anxious to have all the members present to hear the message. These have been happy years to me and it has been a joy to have been associated with such a splendid body of Christians in a common task. The subject today will be "Looking both ways four years." We will glance backward this morning and look at some of the accomplishments during the past four years and then look forward to some of the things we expect to accomplish during the next four years.

The Sunday School will begin at 9:45. We are expecting to have above five hundred people today and extend to you a cordial invitation to be one of them.

The Men's Bible Class will meet at the McSwain theatre at 9:45. Mr. L. A. Ellison is the teacher and you will greatly enjoy hearing him. Let's greet him with more than a hundred men this morning. If you have not been in the habit of attending Sunday School make a start today.

Mr. Longly Pentem will have charge of the choir at the church services. We emphasize congregational singing. If you sing we would be delighted to have you become a member of the choir.

The Sunbeams will meet at the church at three o'clock this afternoon with Mrs. O'Neal in charge.

The B. Y. P. U. will all meet at 6:30. They have arranged splendid programs and all the young people are urged to attend. A part of the time will be given in hearing from our messengers who attended the recent State B. Y. P. U. Convention at Tulsa.

The evening services will begin at 7:45. The pastor will speak on the subject, "The Mode and the Significance of Baptism according to the New Testament." We are very anxious to have all the new members present and all others who would like to hear free and frank discussion of this subject without any abuse of those who hold views differing from ours. At the close of the services we will baptize thirty people.

The public is cordially invited to attend any or all of our services.

Clyde Calhoun Morris, Pastor.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

The Twelfth Annual Meeting of the Woman's Missionary Conference will convene in Okmulgee, Wednesday, April 18, 1923. There will be executive meetings in the morning of the 18th and the Conference will open at 2 p. m. closing on Friday after the evening program.

Mrs. L. B. Norton, 315 E. 7th Street, Okmulgee, is the general chairman and all delegates names are to be sent to her.

Mrs. C. E. Castle, Pres.

Mrs. S. L. Smith, Secy.

A memorial to Miss Bennett will be built at Scarritt. This school was peculiarly her own work largely, and it will be fitting that Southern Methodism should let the Memorial to this great leader take the form of some building at Scarritt that will more greatly carry on the work to which she gave so richly of her time, talent and prayers.

The Mission Study Circle of the east side will meet with Mrs. Butcher at 721 E. 9th, Monday at three. The South side circle will meet with Mrs. R. C. Jeter at the same hour. The Young Matrons will meet at Mrs. J. L. Barringer with Mrs. Turner as hostess. There will be a meeting of the executive committee at Mrs. Jeter's at 2.

HOLSTEIN COWS COP NEW RECORD

General Average Taken of Feats Accredited to Holstein Herds.

Chicago, March 24.—The 1922 leaders in the seven classes of different ages of pure-bred Holstein cows produced an average of 29,055 pounds of milk and 1,250 pounds of butter in one year. In the full age and senior four-year classes previous records were broken. According to a report of the national headquarters of the Holstein-Friesian Association.

During the year, 18,000 cows were tested for production and since the establishment of the official test 95,000 cows have passed the production required for their age, the report stated. All tests are supervised by state colleges of agriculture. Last year, 113,772 Holsteins were registered with the association.

In the full age class, May Walker, Olvie Homestead, owned by the Minnesota Holstein Company at Austin, displaced Dutchess Skylark Ormsby, a Washington state cow, with a production of 31,610 pounds milk and 1,523 pounds butter. Grahamholm Colantha Pauline Segis, a Minnesota cow displaced another Minnesota cow in the senior four-year class with a record of 34,291 pounds milk and 1,426 pounds butter.

In the junior four-year class, Mamell Johanna, owned by C. L. Spaulding of Warren, Minnesota, stood highest for the year with a record of 31,515 pounds milk and 1,317 pounds butter. Countess Matador Segis, the senior three-year champion from Washington, produced 25,817 pounds milk and 1,159 pounds butter. Junior three-year champion, Princess Maida Veeman, owned by Earl Graham of Compton, California, produced 23,629 pounds milk and 1,154 pounds butter. Colony Grebega Valdessa, senior two-year champion produced 23,371 pounds milk and 1,095 pounds butter. She is owned by Colony farm, Essondale, B. C. In the junior two-year class Daisy Aggie Ormsby, owned by John Erickson of Waupaca, Wisconsin, was high cow for the year. She produced 22,151 pounds milk and 1,088 pounds butter.

BUILD NOW

Ada Enjoys Building Progress

Over Million Dollars to be Spent Here in Gigantic Program for City and Residence Buildings To be Erected During Season

APPROXIMATELY a half million dollars worth of construction work is now under way in Ada, according to the best information available. If forecasts by those who are close to building affairs can be taken as an index of what is to be done this Spring and Summer, the 1923 building program for Ada will exceed a million dollars and approach a million and a half. This, it is believed, will exceed that of any city in the state under twenty thousand inhabitants excepting the big oil centers.

The work at the cement plant is the largest single piece of construction work. The Memorial Hall, the Presbyterian church building, the paving of West Main and many residences make up the bulk of the present program.

What is in the immediate future? The Christian church congregation is planning to begin a new house of worship. This will run in the neighborhood of $75,000. The Baptist expect to begin work on their new $100,000 structure before the end of the year.

A compress which will cost many thousand dollars is to start in a short time and be ready for us this Fall. This will mean the addition of several families to the city and new residences will be required.

If the new glass factory locates here, from 100 to 150 new families will come in at once, necessitating the largest number of residences to be erected at one time in the history of the city. Of course, there is a possibility that the factory will not come, but the indications are quite encouraging.

The East Central State Teachers College is scheduled to get a new building from the present legislature. This appropriation will be available after July 1, and this building ought to be pretty well along before the "frost is on the pumpkin."

The oil developments continue at a fair pace, and the gross production of the county is on the upgrade. With the bringing in of the new pool at Wewoka, interest in the deep sands here has been intensified. Already arrangements have been made for a deep test at Bebee, and several deep tests are to be made in the northern and northeastern part of the county. The oil activity is adding much to the industrial and commercial life of the city, and as it grows this city will grow and more building will result.

The exact form of the new highway bill now before the legislature is not yet known, but it is generally believed that as a result of that measure considerable road building will result. This county will be in line for a good road building campaign. Especially desirable will be a bridge across the Canadian river, but it cannot be ascertained at this time whether this will be possible in 1923.

If enough cows are put on the farms of the county, a creamery will be erected by the Southern Ice and Utilities Company. This will mean more building not only in a plant, but in homes for the workers as well.

The Frisco railroad is increasing the force at the local yards, this number already running about seventy. It is believed more will be added from time to time.

The local brick plant has been enlarged and improved until it is one of the best in the state. This same company is anxious to put in a plant to manufacture a superior grade of face brick, but the right kind of shale has not yet been located.

These are but a few of the building project in sight. It all means that Ada is to grow, instead of standing still or going back. Real estate has slumped little even during the years of general business depression. Real estate men say the values cannot be expected to depreciate any more, but on the contrary will rise faster than in the past.

This section of The News was arranged to give you a comprehensive view of the situation as it is now. The advertisers are giving your their message to reinforce ours. We believe that 1923 will be a banner year for the little queen city of Southern Oklahoma, and also that a building program of homes at this time would be wise and would help the city as well as every person who builds a home of his own.

LUMBER DEALERS SAY SALES GOOD

Managers Claim Business Now Better Than at Same
Period Last Year.

The lumber dealers of Ada report that business is better, than at this time last year, although the town cannot be said to be on a boom. A great many minor improvements are being made by property owners and considering the general business conditions, the number of dwellings in course of erection is all that could be expected. Also, some building is going on in the rural districts. Of these the residence of Mrs. Bruno Mayer near Conway, is probably the best. This is a modern bungalow with electric lights, plumbing and running water that it is said will cost around $4,000.

The total cost of building projects now in course of construction in Ada and those already assured, runs well up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The improvements at the cement plant, the convention hall and Presbyterian church, already in progress together with the Waples-Platter wholesale house and compress already assured, besides the residences make a total that runs well into six figures. If to this is added the Hale-Halsell wholesale house recently completed, the figures are still more impressive. Indications are that both the Baptist and Christian churches will have new buildings under way before the end of the year.

Just what the new buildings at the cement plant will cost is not known. The memorial hall will cost $110,000, the Presbyterian church $50,000, the compress $75,000 and the Waples-Platter building may cost some $40,000 or $50,000. This building will probably be under construction within the next two or three weeks, the lots west of the Santa Fe tracks having already been cleared for it.

Many Residences Started.
Of the residences under construction, the West home on East 12th will contain some 6 or 7 rooms. A. T. McNally is building a 4 or 5 room house on West 7th.

W. C. Woods is building a 5-room residence in Arlington addition. A. D. Bevel completed a 4 or 5 room house three or four weeks ago. J. G. Witherspoon is building a two-story home on East 12th.

Fred Bowles completed a 5 or 6 room house on East 15th last week. Charley Johnson recently completed a 5-room residence on West 15th.

Roy Givens is building a 5-room house on East 13th.

Where Oklahoma Teachers Are Trained

A visit to East Central Teachers College at Ada last week was almost a revelation. The present condition of that popular institution is a part of the miracle wrought here in Oklahoma during the past fifteen years. The most noticeable change is the remarkable increase in enrollment, but there are many other evidences of progress and improvement.

When the student body assembles in the college auditorium for chapel exercises it looks very much like a Summer term meeting, inasmuch as the Summer enrollment has always been the peak enrollment. The enrollment just now registers at 960—the largest by far that East Central has ever enjoyed. This does not include the pupils in the Training School nor students taking correspondence or extension work. If all these are included the school has an enrollment of more than 1600 for the present year. And this for a teachers college that is less than fifteen years old.

Another noticeable change apparent to one familiar with East Central and its past history is the marked difference in the average age of the students. A few years ago—only four years ago in fact—the students were men and women. Now as a rule they are boys and girls. President Linscheid states that the average age today is 19 years and 2 months. This change is largely due to the heavy increase in high school graduations in Oklahoma. It is also partly due to the fact that students now take their normal training before beginning to teach, whereas they formerly taught for a number of years before beginning or finishing their professional training.

Not only is the attendance greater than ever before, but the proportion of students taking advanced work is greater than ever before. Both the senior and junior classes are the largest that ever enrolled in the Ada institution. More teachers are now doing practice work in the training department than ever before. And apparently the proportion of men enrolled is greater than ever before.

The low average age of the students might possibly tend to force the old argument heard so often from the uninformed that our state schools are nothing but local high schools for the communities in which they are located. Indisputable figures explode this argument insofar as East Central is concerned. The city of Ada maintains one of the best high schools in Oklahoma, and figures on file in the office of the state superintendent of education in Oklahoma City show that in proportion to population Ada has more students in her high school than are enrolled in Ardmore, Guthrie or Sapulpa.

cities that have no state institution and that are similar in population to the city of Ada.

The bulk of East Central's students come from the East Central District, which is composed of the counties of Pontotoc, Johnson, Coal, Garvin, McClain, Pott, Seminole, Hughes, Okfuskee, Murray and Oklahoma. But every section of Oklahoma and a number of other states have representatives in the present student army at East Central.

The schedule of classes for the second semester shows a total of 102 classes daily. The number of pupils enrolled in each department is as follows: Agriculture 269; Drawing 69; Botany and Zoology 141; Chemistry and Physics 25; Education 384; English 585; Foreign Languages 64; History 394; Home Economics 40; Mathematics 173; Music 65; Physical Education 231; Penmanship 38.

The above figures are illuminating if one will only bear in mind that East Central has today practically the same teaching force that she had ten years ago. Recent figures showed that while the enrollment in this school for teachers had increased nearly 300 per cent the faculty had been increased only 11 per cent. The 585 English students mentioned above, were until a few weeks ago taught by two teachers. And this at a time when the study of English is being neglected the country over and in a state that made no ad valorem tax levy for 1922. It is worthy of the tax payers' consideration that not one of them paid one penny of ad valorem taxes to support East Central for the current year.

The ancient proverb of the Swedes that "the teacher is the school" finds abundant demonstration in the administration of President Linscheid at East Central. Not only is he the normal school man par excellence of Oklahoma; he is one of the great school men of the country. Beginning his professional career as a teacher in a back school district in Lincoln County quite a quarter of a century ago, he has taken a prominent part in raising the educational standard of Oklahoma. His masterly abilities are shown in the remarkable increase in the enrollment of his institution. But they are shown far better in the flawless organization he has built up in his school and in the high standard for work he has set and is maintaining at East Central. And bear in mind this is only his third year as president of the Ada institution.

This story is not propaganda. It is not inspired. It was not solicited. It was not suggested. It is but a simple notice of one of the remarkable achievements we have seen in the most remarkable state in the Union.—Holdenville Democrat.

AMERICA'S GREATEST POLITICAL FESTIVAL PICTURE COMING

Official Walton Inaugural Barbecue Screen Production to be Shown Monday and Tuesday at the American Theatre

A marvelously complete, amusing and absorbingly interesting pictorial history of practically every event leading up to and including "Jack" Walton's now world-famous inaugural barbecue, a picture production produced by Dan V. Lackey, will be presented Monday and Tuesday at the American theatre. It is a moving photoplay of ourselves and our neighbors as we participated in these ceremonies which were the most unique in America's political record.

Demonstrations that took place during the final days of the general election campaign, stupendous affairs, thrilling rabbit chases and "porrum" hunts in which hundreds of animals were slain for the barbecue feast; events in which whole towns and communities took part in preparation for the climactic ceremony; the feast itself at which scores of thousands of persons were fed; the governor's inauguration; Indian dances, contests, parades and pageants—the countless multitudes of things that were done preliminary to and at the inaugural ceremonies are shown in this production with well-nigh perfect photography.

Some of the shots are superior from an artistic standpoint, and in one or two instances the cameraman injected rich comedy into the theme.

BRITISH SPINNERS NOW AT WAR WITH DYERS

MANCHESTER.—A protest has been made to the Master Cotton Spinners Association by British dyes against the action of the spinners in sending their goods to Belgium to be dyed. The trade has been affected seriously in Lancashire.

The manufacturers claim they are able to send the goods to Belgium to be dyed and then send them back to England at less cost than to have the work done here, and refuse to change their plans unless the price is decreased.

NEW ENGLISH BIBLE IN OLD ENGLISH BIBLES

BOSTON, March 22.—Bibles that date back three hundred years are not uncommon in New England, where families here treasured the volumes for many generations. One of these bibles was printed in England in 1599 by "the deputies of Christopher Barker, printer to the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty." It is owned by Clarence Chesney, of Norwood, and has been in his family for generations.

Another bible, owned by Fred H. Harris, of Norfolk Downs, and published in London by "Robert Barker, printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty," in 1614, has been in the Harris family since 1630. Mrs. P. B. Laskey, of Marblehead, has a bible 292 years old, and Samuel J. Wilde, of Boston, has in Cambridge, England, in 1648.

MEMORIAL HALL CITY MONUMENT

Convention Building to be
in Early Fall.

The erection of the Memorial Convention Hall is one of the largest building projects now under construction and boosts the expenditures for building purposes by $110,000. In the end it will furnish a fitting monument to the sacrifices of Pontotoc county's World war heroes.

The hall will be completed during the latter part of July or early August. Legion officials have been assured and plans have been arranged for the use of the hall on dates following the completion of the building.

At present brick masons are making rapid strides on the walls of the structure, the basement and first floor work having been practically completed. The remainder of the month and most of the next will be required to erect the walls of the building and add finishing touches.

A full crew of employees have been kept busy constantly during the favorable weather of the past weeks and it is believed that the contractors will not be further delayed by inclement weather during the month.

Several days of working time were lost during the latter part of February and early in March because of rains, which prevented the contractors in the plans for completing the hall late in June or early July as it had been originally stated.

The erection of the Memorial Convention Hall followed an active campaign in the city and was pushed through by the efforts of loyal members of the American Legion. Further delay was caused in the letting of the contract.

While the property of the Convention Hall will be placed in the hands of the Norman Howard Post American Legion, other municipal organizations will have a part to play in the affairs of the municipal building. Public entertainments, speakings and other affairs will be held there. The Norman Howard Post, American Legion will establish club and meeting rooms in the building, which will cost approximately $3,000.

Excavation for the construction of the Memorial Convention Hall began in December but work was delayed at the offset by inclement weather. Work is being done under the supervision of Hill and sons contractors.

Few cities in the state can boast of convention halls or a municipal building to compare with the Ada structure and people of the city of Ada are to be complimented on the forward step they are taking to creating a closer municipal gathering spirit and also in erecting a fitting memorial to the ex-service man.

TULSA, March 25.—High school commencement here will begin May 25, when the senior class play will be presented, it has been announced. According to Miss Isabella Roman, director of dramatics, the play to be given will probably be "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Tryouts for the play are to be held early in April. Two performances will be given she said.

Build With Brick

"The Everlasting Material"

Dollars that Do Not Shrink

"What is my home going to be worth in 5 years, 10 years, or 20 years?" the shrewd home builder asks himself today.

"It may be necessary for me to sell. What will my house be worth when I have to dispose of it?"

These are questions every home builder should consider. Don't look at home building in the light of today only—look ahead.

Consider your home as you would a savings bank—a sound place in which to put your money and out of which you can get your money any time, if the need arises.

The Brick home is the safest investment. Depreciation is the least. None at all for the first five years, then only 1% a year thereafter. Think of this saving as compared with 2 to 3% for frame houses from the day such homes are built.

The Ideal Brick Hollow Wall —Its Saving

Ideal Wall is a new method of laying brick, which produces a hollow, dry wall and saves one-third of the expense of wall construction.

Without losing any of the advantages of solid masonry, such a permanence, stability, fireproofness, resistance to heat and cold, the Ideal Wall is the only masonry wall ever conceived that may safely be plastered directly on the Brick without the need for furring and lath.

The Ideal Brick Hollow Wall is made of standard brick.

CEMENT PLANT TO HAVE ADDITIONS

Bag House and Storage Tanks to be Building Program of Local Plant.

Legislation or no legislation, the Oklahoma Portland Cement company of Ada is looking to the future with optimism and in the spirit building expansion.

The construction of a new bag house and twelve cement storage tanks is added proof to their assertion that they are looking to the future with the expansion of progress to be enjoyed by the city of Ada.

Although no definite figure can be obtained on the exact expense of the improvement at the cement plant, it is known that the improvement will mean an enormous expenditure and during its period of construction will make room for the employment of between 55 and 150 men and this in itself spells much in the prosperity felt through building.

The construction work now being done at the cement plant is under contract with the MacDonald Engineering company, with central offices at Chicago.

Superintendent Twichell stated that the project now under plans here is one of the largest projects for the year and at no other place in the entire southwest is there another project which equals in size and cost one under construction here.

While construction of twelve cement tanks will be postponed until the bag house is completed, plans are practically ready for the work and the blue prints indicate that the tanks will each be 35 feet in diameter and 80 feet high, an enormous construction needed only in a modern and busy plant, represented in the Oklahoma Portland Cement plant here.

The bag house now under construction measures 80 feet by 180 feet with an ample storage capacity. The structure will be one story high and made of concrete. Excavation of 18 feet was necessary for the construction of the bag house.

Construction of the bag house was begun January 15 but has suffered several set backs since the work was first started. Approximately 55 men are employed at the present job.

The construction of the cement storage tanks will depend on the rapidity in which the bag house is completed, owing to the fact that the storage tanks will be erected on the ground formerly occupied by the old bag house. It is believed that the bag house will be completed within the next three months, barring bad weather.

The construction of the cement storage tanks will require the employment of approximately 150 men, who will have an opportunity to work regularly through the period of the construction of the tanks.

The sliding mould process will be used in the construction of the tanks, which makes the progress of the construction much faster. Frame work or the mould for the cement is raised after the concrete sets in this process until the top of the structure is reached and the base made.

The cement plant is making other improvements on their premises by the beautification of the grounds. Several men have been employed during the past few weeks to beautify the grounds and otherwise improve the general looks of the plant.

Hawaiian Press Comment on Labor Situation Stirs Jap Critics Make Angry Retort

HONOLULU, T. H.—The report of the federal commission, which recently investigated labor conditions in the Hawaiian Islands in connection with the resolution pending in Congress to permit the importation of otherwise ineligible aliens to counteract an alleged labor shortage, was subjected to considerable criticism by the Japanese language newspapers here, according to translations on file with the territorial attorney-general.

The report said the commissioners had found no labor shortage in the pineapple or sugar industries, but that a shortage was apparent in the rice industry. The Japanese newspapers objected, particularly in their editorials, to the paragraph of the report which stated that attention should be called "especially to the menace of alien domination, and that the present policy of parental adoption and the importation of 'picture brides' by the Japanese should be stopped because these practices have defeated the purpose of the 'gentleman's agreement' to curtail common labor by augmenting the supply to such an extent that it will soon overwhelm the territory, numerically, politically and commercially. The menace from a military standpoint can be verified fully by referring to the records of related federal departments. If these islands are to remain American, an assured control of political, industrial, commercial, social and educational life must also be American."

The Nippon Jiji expressed regret that "the members of the labor commission have swallowed the wicked propaganda of the interests and have harped on the alleged Japanese menace in their report. We did not believe that the commission which investigated the actual conditions would make such a report. This is another instance of the result of reckless propaganda, of men who care only for the end and not for the means." The Hawaii Hochi said that the report will "please the capitalists, and it impresses one that Chinese coolies will be imported." Like the Nippon Jiji it believes that the commission "swallowed the materials fed to it by the agents of the sugar planters."

The Hochi continues: "The fact that the labor probers have distorted the facts and presented the false argument of Japanese domination has completely shattered the writer's strong faith in the labor leaders who, he believed, would never misrepresent the truth. In all classes there are honest and dishonest men. But the writer did not believe this applied to the leaders of labor organizations, which style themselves the creators of a new age."

The Hawaii Shimpo attacked the declaration of the report that the Japanese control the building trades as well as most of the small stores of Hawaii.

"It was pointed out that there are 177 Japanese merchandise stores as compared with 56 American and 29 Japanese theaters—comparing against 6 American," the Shimpo said. "How ridiculous to compare an American firm like American Factors, or T. H. Davies and Co., with a small Japanese store, or to compare the new Hawaii or Parkess theater with the Asahi or Prink Japanese theaters."

"The report, after all, is nothing but misrepresentation, as far as the Japanese problem is concerned. Laborers in Hawaii can rest assured that the labor organizations on the mainland will not sanction a measure which will be of great advantage or benefit to the capitalists. The so-called Japanese menace is most annoying to the Japanese laborers here, but since the report has no material effect on the laborers they should not be restless and should keep up their movement for higher wages."

ROME.—Doctors of medicine of all nations to the number of 200 have been invited to join an excursion this summer to the principal thermal resorts of Italy. The journey will last a fortnight, begin in northern Piedmont, and end at Naples. Interpreters will accompany the medical men, who will have a special train at their disposal and be housed in the best hotels.

The tallest trees known are the Australian eucalyptus.

"Home Builders in Ada Since 1903"

Tomorrow Depends on Today

Your standing in the community, business success, friendship, happiness, influence, individual character and ability and even the store-house of memories for leisure hours in the after years—all hinge on the present.

Tracing every attainment back to its basic element—all paths lead to HOME.

The Home is the "background" of the individual, the taining school in the virtues and the mould that shapes the attitude towards life. The child reared in a home that is consistently furnished and fit for inspection develops a sincerity that nothing can gainsay. The memories of home largely influence a child's respect and affection for his parents.

Your ability to think clearly—to "dream true"—to build rightly—depends on your attitude towards HOME. For whatever theories and doctrines may rise and fall—the home is ever the foundation of real culture and progress.

Your business status is largely determined by the success of your home. There you gain both relaxation and inspiration. Those who know you judge you by it—not so much as expressive of your finances as of showing your inherent taste and good judgment.

If you have a friend that you have known for years, who has visited you in your home and entertained you in his—one who is bound to you by the ties of intimacy and held by mutual respect—truly you have a real friend. Are you choosing the friends of the future by your friendliness in the present?

When Today has merged into the Land of the Past—your backward thoughts in idle moments should be the happier, your outlook on life should be the more inspired, your material success the greater, because of your HOME now.

BUILDERS OF ADA ADD MANY HOMES

Residence Growth Phenomenal Since Founding of City,

The true growth of any city is measured by the building prosperity in its residence section and this fact has led to the contention that Ada is claiming its record for prosperity in a steady addition of residence buildings.

The steady growth of residence sections of the city has been especially noticeable of late, while building permits issued during the past three months have not exceeded the general run many buildings have been postponed and started during the past month while others have been completed recently.

On the outskirts of Ada, where building lots are sold far reasonable prices, bungalows are making their appearance like magic and add to the home-owning population of Ada.

Practically the entire list of new homes under construction and completed recently have been built from material purchased exclusively in Ada and from Ada merchants. Lumber yards have made attractive offers to prospective home builders and furnishers and decorators have helped pave the way.

Most of the homes erected in the city have been built by men working on salaries and through the financial aid of local building loan associations, which makes the venture purely a business matter-transacted by and through Ada people.

The growth of the Ada residential districts have been nothing short of phenomenal since the early founding of the city. From a covey of small boxed houses to a thriving city of hundreds of beautiful homes is the record in a score and few years.

The first houses in Ada were not very elaborate in those days. Number had to be hauled from Ada or Wynnewood and Ada was just like dozens of other country villages.

However, with the coming of the Frisco railroad building operations took on real life. Few of the early settlers of the town had much money and they had to content themselves with modest cottages until their finances improved. As the town grew in importance and money became easier to obtain, the enterprising citizens improved their surroundings accordingly. Larger and better houses began going up and the improvement in the class of residences kept pace with the increasing prosperity of the young city.

The building of concrete sidewalks began the latter part of 1908 and that in itself added much to the comfort of the citizens as they made their way to and from their places of business.

In as much as many people are very much interested in the double program which we tried to give at Colbert school house we will say that it was not a success. The trouble lay in improper connection and not in the theory. Prof. J. O. Wood of the Teachers College was handicapped in that he had not noticed how the aerial had been put up and because he did not know several other things, which he would have known had the scout executive not had another program on hand at the same time. We know, however, that it will be possible to phone programs out to school houses through the amplifiers, connected with the radio receiving set that it will be a success. We will try this in at least two places in the county on Easter Sunday. We appreciate very much Mr. E. A. Steansons assistance in this matter. A large crowd of people was at the school house and we were sorry to disappoint them.

Troop One had a good meeting this week and they will go to the lodge next Friday night.

Troop Two met at the church with the mass meeting of Scouts.

Troop Three now has 34 boys enrolled and they had about 26 boys out at the meeting. They will plan on going out to the lodge soon.

Troop Four and Five had a meeting Thursday night and several of the boys took their second class tests. This troop will go to the lodge Saturday night.

The court of Honor meeting at the Baptist Church was very well attended. Lewis Thomas, Stanley Dean, N. T. Heard, Jr., Geo. Kitchell, and Donald Montgomery were awarded merit badges. The following men were present to attend the Court of Honor meeting: Prof. J. L. German and O. E. Parker of the high school and Prof. E. C. Wilson and Prof. John Hatchett of the Teachers College and Mr. R. L. Holcomb.

Prof. E. C. Wilson awarded second class badges to Marvin Goddard, L. Malcolm Graves and Raymond Young and made a very appropriate speech.

Grateful Refugees in Greece Given Food, Garments, Medicine Would Erect Statue to America

The Piraeus, port of Athens, has had sections for the past several months which would have seemed American except for the aspect of the laborers. Eight American Red Cross warehouses have handled more than $2,600,000 worth of food, blankets, clothing and medicine for the relief of the 1,000,000 refugees who fled before the Turks and came in literal helplessness to the shores of Greece.

The photograph above shows Captain Paul H. Vincent, of Erie, Pennsylvania, director of the warehouse operations of the Red Cross in Greece, and a group of Athenian laborers carrying bundles of blankets, weighing 200 pounds each, for trans-shipment to the islands of the Aegean.

Under the direction of Colonel William N. Hackell, the emergency situation, so far as the actually needy are concerned and with the provision that American aid is tendered only where concentration is too great for local aid to suffice, is being fully met. Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, ordered the initiation of the program when the first large bands of refugees were reported as arriving last autumn, and the extent of American help has increased steadily with the need.

An example of the appreciation

proper speech. Prof. J. L. German gave a very interesting talk to the scouts receiving their merit badges.

Prof. Hatchett gave a very fine and helpful talk on birds of Oklahoma. It is mighty fine of these teachers and business men to give of their time to the scouts.

The Odd Fellows Lodge at Fitzhugh assisted by the Rebeccas gave a very fine banquet to the Boy Scouts of Lawrence and of Fitzhugh at their lodge rooms Wednesday night. Prof. Oliver Johns of the Fitzhugh schools, who is scoutmaster had the scouts give a demonstration of scouting and put on an initiation of tenderfoot scouts before a large group of people.

The boys did fine in their demonstration and received compliments. Prof. Johns has done a lot of fine work for those scouts. Eleven tenderfoots were initiated and received their badges. Cosby Huddle of Lawrence and Sterling Price also were awarded merit badges by the Court of Honor.

The Francis scouts had a good meeting Thursday night. E. L. Paine, troop committeeman was present and made the scouts a talk. The Francis scouts are keen to take on some troop in a baseball game.

Mr. W. G. Moser says that he knows a fine place for the scouts to camp this summer near Reagan Oklahoma. Sounds good doesn't it scouts?

The Allen scouts will give a public program soon. These scouts are in the harness all the time and they will sure have the record for work this year. Mr. Snipes is giving much time to them.

We will have something interesting for the scouts next week on Friday night. Be sure and reserve the date for scouting.

COUNTY SCHOOLS EMPLOYING TEACHERS

Supt. Floyd states that a number of school districts have employed teachers for the coming year.

The school board of Colbert high school signed contracts with W. W. Jones, Mrs. Jones, their daughter, Miss Mabel and Miss Eunice McAnnally. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have taught at non Valley for the past eight years and Miss Mabel has been teaching there for the past few years.

Rocky Chapel has employed Prof. Howard and Miss Tiny Creech for another year.

Earlin Haskins and wife will be at Summers Chapel again next year. The Bebee board has contracted with Roy Stegall for another year.

A. S. Graham and wife, now at Maxwell, will be at Pecan Grove next year.

L. G. Harris and wife will remain at Blue Mound.

Mr. Floyd reports a good meeting at Blue Mound Friday night in the interest of forming a union graded school in conjunction with Franks and another school the central high school to be at Franks. A number of signatures were placed on a petition in favor of the plan.

The eighth grade examinations will be held April 12 and 13 in the schools of the county having the largest eighth grade classes.

The tenth annual county track and field meet will be held at Ada April 13 and 14. The rules, regulations and program have been out for sometime and from responses received Mr. Floyd anticipates a vousing time as the number of schools participating has grown year by year.

RUSH SPRINGS, March 25.—The Oklahoma state chamber of commerce organized the Rush Springs chamber of commerce here this week, under the direction of W. T. Larimore, representative of the state organization. A membership campaign in the local organization is to begin April 1. Officials of the local organization are J. I. Riddle, president, John W. Riley, Jr., vice-president; A. D. Dunn, treasurer; T. A. Murphey, secretary.

Driftwood on the Stream of Life

By SYLVIA D. BELL

Though it was a hot Sunday morning in June, the bedroom curtains were drawn. Evidently the girls intended sleeping late to make up for what they had lost during the week. A thin stream of sunlight pushed its way between the curtains and the window; lazily crossing the room, it lightly touched the meager furnishings, resting for a moment on the silken hosiery and crepe dresses hastily flung on a chair, then passing on to the faces of the sleepers. Pretty girls, they were; the one a vivid auburn type, the other a decided brunette.

The humble room, contrasted with the silken garments and bobbed heads, spoke of lightness of character. The furniture was cheap and plain, the walls were bare of pictures and the two or three books on the table were of the dime novel variety. Evidently, every penny the girls earned was spent for clothes and amusements.

Someone in the next room was playing a phonograph, and strains of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," filtered through the thin partition. Susie, of the auburn hair, stirred restlessly, then hastily grabbing a book from the table next to the bed, threw it at a door which at one time connected the two rooms.

"For the luvva Mike," she cried angrily, "can that prayer meetin' stuff, will yer? Don't you know that any self-respecting person wants ter sleep on a Sunday mornin' after jazzin' all the week?"

The music stopped as suddenly as if the book had really hit the machine and destroyed it. Susie expected an angry retort, but, instead, there was absolute silence. In the painful stillness that followed, it seemed as if someone had been hurt. She almost felt as if she had killed something, and waves of deep emotion filled her. She remembered feeling that way once when, as a child, in a moment of anger, she had stamped her feet on a beautiful rose, crushing out all its beauty and fragrance.

She tried to sleep again, but now that her rest had been broken she could not seem to compose herself. Finally, her restlessness getting the better of her, she roused her companion.

"Did you ever hear of such an ignoramus?" she complained, "trying to pull that Billy Sunday stuff on two jazz hounds like us."

"I'll say he doesn't know what sort of a cabaret he's roomin' at," yawned Felice. "But have you seen him, Susie?"

"Oh, it's a 'him,' is it? Bald head and wooden leg, I suppose, or else one of those 'a-de-da' chaps."

"You're on the wrong track, my dear," laughed Felice. "He's as spiffy a looking lad as you'd want to see."

"Well, spiffy or not, he'd better not step foot in my back yard," warned Susie. "There's no room for any angel face around me."

After a long pause, during which she completed her toilet and had started breakfast, she turned to regard Felice, who was rousing her cheeks and penciling her eyebrows.

"Say, Felice. Don't you ever get tired of this?" She flung her arms apart in a gesture which took in the emptiness of the room.

"Depends on what you mean by 'this,'" retorted Felice.

"Why, livin' in one room, gettin' meals on a one lung gas stove and bein' cooped up away from the birds an' butterflies an' flowers."

"Birds an' butterflies don't mean anything in my young life," Felice answered. "It's poached eggs that holds my interest just now. I'm hungry enough to eat a leather flapjack."

"But, Felice, you don't understand. You've never lived in the country. You don't know what a glorious feelin' it is to sit on the cool green grass at night an' watch the fireflies an' listen to the hum of hundreds of small insects. You feel so peaceful an' calm, an' the little breezes that come feel like the touch of angel wings."

"Guess that hymn rather got on your nerves, didn't it, dearie?" Felice paused in her rather elaborate toilet. "Your prayer meetin' leader went by the door just as you were recitin' your little ditty. Guess he took it in, all right. If you look out the window you might get a chance to give him the once over."

Susie looked out and saw a neatly dressed young man of medium height. As he passed below her, she noted that he was not handsome, though he was of the type that had some "style and pep," as she expressed it.

The girls were not troubled any more with hymns being played; but one morning a week later as Felice opened the door to go to work she discovered a large bunch of lady's-slippers and Solomon's-seals. On it was pinned a note. "For one who is fond of the country!" it said.

"Here, my charming Cinderella," laughed Felice. "I guess this is meant for you."

"Oh, how wonderful!" exclaimed Susie. "Where do you suppose they came from? We used to have some just like these in the woods back of our house."

"Woman's intuition tells me," smiled Felice, "that 'angel face' has been snoopin' around here."

"Do you really think so?" Susie faltered. "Do you think he would be so nice after me being so horrid to him?"

"Evidently he goes by the Bible and believes in returnin' good for evil." Felice moved toward the door. "Well, if I don't get a move on I'll be losin' my job. And, Susie, dear, don't do too much day dreamin' today or you'll lose yours. By-by, dearie."

Many times that summer, Susie found flowers outside her door; and there were chance meetings, too, by which she learned that the giver's name was Charlie Ellison and that he had lived with his aunt in the country until he came to the city to work.

"And he always goes to church on Sundays," marvelled Susie in a confidential chat with Felice. "I told him if he played hymns 'cause he was lonesome that we wouldn't mind hearin' 'em once in a while, only for goodness sake to wait until after 9 o'clock Sunday mornin'."

Somehow, Felice began to feel that there was something back of the friendship between Susie and Charlie. Susie did not accompany her to dances now. She said they did not interest her and she got worse and worse, according to Felice, until one Sunday morning she announced that she was going to church with Charlie.

"Now, look here," Felice began when Susie returned. "I want to know about this Charlie business. If you're goin' to hitch up with him I want to know it. I don't want to be left in the lurch like a discarded shoe."

"Felice, dear, did you ever hear of driftwood?" Susie questioned. "That's what the minister preached about this mornin'. I couldn't quite get what he was aimin' at so I whispered to Charlie an' asked him, an' Felice, that's what you an' I are—driftwood—driftwood on the stream of life. An' by an' by, if we keep on goin', we'll get caught on the reefs an' go to smash, an' no one'll know or care what becomes of us."

"So I made up my mind I wouldn't be driftwood any longer. I am goin' to be good, strong wood with a sound heart, so when the right time comes I can make a bright, cheery fire on Charlie's hearth. An' I want you to stop driftin' toward the reefs, too, Felice. There's some one waitin' for you to provide light an' warmth for him, an' you can't do it if you're not sound an' true."

Felice turned toward Susie and smiled. "Those hymns an' sermons certainly do have a queer effect on you, but you sure have got a way of reachin' a person's soul if they've got any. So I'll try to stop driftin', Susie. An' send out a few green leaves an' blossoms instead, for I know that driftwood is dead—at the heart."

Ancient Stone Writings.

The site of one of the earliest Christian monasteries in Ireland has been found at Mahee Island, Strangford Lough, near Belfast. The ruins have been identified as those of Nendrum monastery, mentioned in Mulreha's "Life of St. Patrick," writing before 699 A. D.

Extensive excavations have been carried out and valuable material, including some stones with writing, the exact meaning of which has not yet been ascertained, have been unearthed. Some of the writings are believed to be of Danish origin.

In Gede's "Ecclesiastical History" it is recorded that in 634 Pope Honorius wrote to certain bishops of the Irish church about the Paschal controversy and Pelagian heresy, and one of the bishops mentioned in this letter is Cremonus, bishop of Nendrum. The island of Nendrum was afterwards named Mahee, after a bishop of the monastery.

Over in Virginia on the golf course of the Washington Country club is a particularly harassing hole. It is one of those complex, nerve-racking, plaguing stretches of ground that are replete with trouble-making conditions. Some time ago the writer, while playing with Charlie Michaelson of the New York World, asked his colored caddy if he had ever served in like capacity for a certain very distinguished official. The youngster replied that he had, and when the scribe asked him what Mr. So and So had said when he came to that particular hole he replied: "Deed, boss, I'm sorry, sah, but mah muther don't let me use that kin' of language."—Washington Star.

FRISCO RAILROAD HAS LARGE FORCE IN ADA

The Frisco railway is now employing approximately seventy men and women for its various lines of activity in Ada. The freight and passenger departments have fifteen employees, the three train crews have sixteen, and the three section gangs working out of Ada carry about thirty men. The mechanical department, which now does considerable shop work here, employs eight men.

Auditors and others drop into the city every few days, and this really amounts to one or two other employees.

I. McNair, the agent, says it is impossible to give any accurate estimate of the payroll, as the number varies and the rate of pay also varies.

Other work is to be added in the near future, it is believed, and this item in the industrial life of the city will continue to grow.

The roadmaster and his secretary also make their home here now.

CUSHING, March, 25. Jewelry valued at $1,500 found spread on the ground in a downtown alley on a recent morning, marked the return of luck to S. V. Rigby, traveling salesman, here. Rigby left his sample cases in his automobile while he called on a customer. When he returned to the machine, one case, his personal property and the only un-insured case of the lot, was missing. Police said they believed their arrival frightened the robbers from the scene while in the midst of a division of the jewelry.

MARIE WANTS TO VISIT IN U. S.

Rumanian Queen Would Accept Invitation to Visit in United States.

(By the Associated Press) *
BUCHAREST.—Queen Marie of Roumania hopes some time in the near future to realize her long-cherished wish to visit the United States. While political and economic conditions in Roumania are not so encouraging as they might be, the queen believes her people can spare her for a few months to enable her to accept the oft-tendered hospitality of the American people. Heretofore the marriage of her three eldest children, her own coronation and the continued unsettlement of internal affairs in Greater Roumania have kept the queen from crossing the Atlantic.
"I do not desire my visit to your country to be a hurried one," she said to the correspondent. "I want the Americans to feel I have come to see as many of them as possible, without distinction. And I want to see the United States from coast to coast. I have received hundreds of the most generous letters urging me to come. It is a journey upon which I have set my whole heart, and I hope before long that my ambition will be fulfilled."
"I have many American friends, and have kept in my heart an eternal gratitude for the way their Red Cross and other organizations helped us during and after the war. I learnt through them to know America's great heart, her sympathy and her ideals. I have worked hand in hand with the devoted American women, you have sent to Roumania, and the remembrance of their aid to my people is a blessed one."

The queen extended a warm invitation to Americans to visit her country, saying they would be given a most cordial welcome at her hands. She said the mutual interest which America and Roumania feel in each other should be made a vital living thing, and that she was eager to be the channel through which the sentiment of trust and affection between the two peoples should be maintained.

Samuel J. Hill, the road-builder of the Pacific Northwest, and Colonel Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., have offered to conduct the queen on a tour throughout the United States. Mr. Hill accompanied the king and queen of the Belgians on their journey to America and also piloted Marshal Joffre around the world. Colonel Anderson is an old-time friend of Queen Marie, having been identified with her in Red Cross work in Roumania during and after the war.

STREET TRAFFIC PLAN IS TALKED

Commission May Segregate Traffic of Chicago in New Plan.

CHICAGO, March 23.—Technical experts of the Chicago Plan Commission are working out a comprehensive street plan for the city that will segregate various kinds of traffic and provide specific streets for specified varieties of traffic.

One system of thoroughfares will be restricted to light, rapid-moving vehicles and another to heavy slow-moving ones. The width of the streets will be adjusted to the types and volume of traffic they will be called upon to bear, and pavements of all streets will be especially designed to accommodate the kind of traffic that will use them.

An ingenious color scheme has been proposed which will compel traffic to use the proper streets. By this scheme anyone at any time can tell instantly whether a vehicle is on the proper street, and, if not, can report the violation of the ordinance to the proper city authority. The idea is that all trucks of similar capacity shall bear easily distinguishable signs of the same kind. For instance, all vehicles of five tons capacity would bear a red plate or sign. The streets over which such a truck could pass would be marked by signs bearing the same color. All concerns using vehicles of any description would be furnished with a city map showing by similar colors the classification of every thoroughfare in the city, and the allowable weight of loads on the different classes of pavements.

The cost of installing street signs, and of maintaining an adequate force to compel compliance with such regulatory measures until the system becomes self-operative, would be but a small fraction of the annual sum now alleged to be wasted by the destruction of pavements long before they should outlive their usefulness, according to the plan.

Light traffic streets would be paved with less expensive pavement than now demanded to bear their traffic, and often the width of the pavement could be decreased, resulting in still more saving to the taxpayer and the city in general.

At the same time the commission believes, the traffic and other needs of the city and its people could be much better served than is possible at present.

Ancient Pillars Support Flapping Refugee Rags; American Red Cross Aids

Between the pillars of the Temple of Theseus, in Athens, said to be the most perfectly preserved of all the beautiful edifices erected by the ancients, Greek and Armenian refugees cook and wash and hang their clothes to dry. All Greece today presents strange contrasts of glorious relics and modern misery. More than 1,000,000 homeless, jobless refugees have inundated the port towns of Greece.

The American Red Cross has accepted full responsibility on behalf of American charity for aiding in the refugee emergency. Out of its disaster emergency fund the organization has purchased $2,600,000 worth of food, medicine, blankets and other supplies and sent them to Greece.

A staff of experienced American executives is handling the distribution of America's gift through the Red Cross to the stricken refugees. American doctors, using Red Cross supplies, have thrown a sanitary cordon around the port towns and have successfully warded off the invasion of cholera, typhus and smallpox that menaced all Greece.

Judge John Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, has put the entire Greek program under the direction of Colonel William N. Haskell, who gained a world reputation for efficient administration of the American Relief Administration program in Russia and other great American charitable efforts.

Colonel Haskell and his associates in the field report that all of the needy among the refugees are being aided, that actual suffering has therefore been virtually obliterated and that the problem will rapidly resolve itself into one of permanent solution rather than charity. When the summer harvest comes in, Colonel Haskell believes, America will have done a generous

Wolves Now Haunt Dreary Plains of Republic of Tartar

KAZAN.—The wolves have come back to the steppes. In the cold winter nights on the wind-swept plains of the Tartar republic, the nomadic tribes report, more wolves have been seen this year than for decades past. They have grown so bold that they howl at the very doors of the dug-outs or mud houses that the wandering Tchuvash and Bashkir people inhabit in the winter in place of their summer tents.

In the Tartar Republic, the Tschetchen and Bashkir territories, more than 40,000 head of cattle have already been destroyed by the wolves this winter. This destruction among live stock, already depleted by the famine, is so serious that the government has launched a campaign throughout the province to kill the wolves. Huge hunts are being organized. The population has very few rifles, and little or no ammunition on hand, therefore it is considered probable that soldiers of the Red Army will be used in a wolf drive.

GERMANY BUILDS UP TRADE PLAN

Despite War and Loss of Island Possessions Her Trade Increases.

(By the Associated Press) *
BERLIN.—Germany is rapidly regaining its trade in the Far East in spite of the fact that its islands in the Pacific were taken away by the Versailles Treaty, and business was interrupted for years by war conditions and the deportation and internment of its business men.

For the first nine months of 1922, Germany sold Japan goods valued at $6,500,000 yen. In 1913 German exports to Japan for the entire twelve months aggregated only $5,000,000 yen. The yen is worth about fifty cents.

In 1921, Germany sold China goods valued at 20,000,000 taels. An increase is anticipated in the figures for 1922 which German exporters believe will make the year's business greater than that of 1913 which has 28,300,000 taels. The tael is worth about one dollar and forty cents.

Before the war Germany had between four and five thousand citizens in China engaged in various commercial pursuits. It is estimated now that two-thirds of these are again in China, endeavoring to re-establish their business connections. German consuls have been back in all the principal business centers of China for some time, including the Tsingtau concession which Japan wrested from Germany at the beginning of the great war, and which has recently been evacuated by the Japanese and turned back to China.

Germany's ambitious plans for vast territorial possessions in the Pacific, which might form the basis for great naval and commercial power, have been defeated, at least for the present, by the loss of Tsingtau, the Marshall and Caroline Islands, New Guinea and other South Sea possessions. But German steamship lines have resumed their sailings to the Orient and are making an effort to regain their lost business.

Siberia Cooperates to Bring Monopoly of Trade to Soviet

VLADIVOSTOK.—Mr. L. Serebriakoff, former assistant minister of communications, has been sent here as the representative of the department of labor and defense. This is the highest department of the state and comprises the most highly placed communists.

On January 30, the customs house was closed for all commercial operations, and no goods can be imported until it has been proved that they are not in the category of those whose import has been forbidden by order of the Soviet government.

The opinion was expressed at a meeting of the Far Eastern board of communications that the monopoly of foreign trade by the government as political weapon against the capitalistic countries, would not give the same result in the Far East as it would on the Western front, owing to the fact that the one nation whose frontiers march with those of Russia is China, and "the political opinion of China is dictated by the Western World."

CITIZENS WANT ISLAND DOMAIN

People Have Misconception of Life on South Sea Islands.

HONOLULU, T. H.—The United States harbors a large number of citizens who would be kings, according to letters applying for royal jobs which have found their way to Governor R. Farrington. They come as a result of an apparently widespread misconception of the South Seas.

The applicants got busy after reading a mainland newspaper article headed "Rulers Wanted for Islands in South Seas," and the erroneous information that "details might be obtained from the American Consul at Honolulu." The deluge of letters that followed found their way, in the absence of an American Consul at Honolulu, to the American governor of the American Territory of Hawaii.

The newspaper article was part of a series entitled "Life as it Really is in the South Seas." The first article, according to information here, began with the question: "How would you like to be the ruler of a South Sea Island?" Apparently the number of American citizens who crave to don royal paraphernalia in some far-off palm-lined, tropic island is legion. The applicants included insurance salesmen, farmers, university students, oil men, cowboys, clerks and bankers. The position of king was described as not arduous, hours not long, and with continued series of "tall glasses of amber rum punch" always at the elbow of the monarch. The only disadvantage to the job was given as "the loneliness, which grows."

in said islands? What part of the islands are men wanted, what experience is necessary, if transportation is furnished, what salary is paid, and under whom does the applicant work if awarded a position? Is it a U. S. Government position, or is it a local concern? Any other information you can furnish will be appreciated."

Another applicant states his qualifications in these words: "My dear Consul: This story appeals to the writer, and if there is anything to it, it would be pleased to get in touch with the makers of kings. Have had lots of experience handling men and conducting business, and am sure I could learn how to make copra. If you know anything about this, put me next and the favor will be appreciated."

Governor Farrington will answer all the applicants.
OKLAHOMA CITY, March 25.—Peach and pear crops in Oklahoma, although hard hit by recent cold weather, will survive in some parts of the state, according to a report being received by John A. Whitehurst, president of the state board of agriculture. Early reports were to the effect that both crops were practically a total loss. An estimate of $2,000,000 damage to the two fruits is approximately correct, Whitehurst said.
That oats which had already sprouted were in some sections of the state severely damaged, was also shown by recent reports, other sections reporting that a loss had been escaped because the seeds had not begun to grow.

Ada Builds New Churches

City Falls in Line With Program to Erect Three New Temples of Worship

Three new church spires will lift their imposing example heavenward in testimony to the building growth of the city of Ada in the near future as a result of the progressive spirit of Presbyterian, Christian and Baptist church congregations.

These three church edifices will testify to the willingness of the citizens of Ada to invest $215,000 in the future in order that they may offer this and other generations a more fitting place of worship.

Heads of the three church congregations have all devised different methods of obtaining funds for the erection of their church buildings but funds in every instance must come from the pocketbook of the church members and the progressive citizen, who believes that the erection of better churches is an investment for better community life.

While only one church is at have view of their goal before the end of the year. The Presbyterian church is the only one at present under construction.

Presbyterians Building Now

Building operations on the Presbyterian church began last June, some six weeks after the arrival of Dr. Whitwell as pastor. He jokingly states that he had to build in order to restore the harmony in the neighborhood, which was being destroyed by the croaking of the numerous frogs that inhabited a pond on the site of the new structure.

Often the erection of a church means a vigorous drive, but realizing the financial condition prevailing here at the time, he stated that his plan would be to go ahead without asking pledges, each member contributing monthly whatever he could. This has averaged about $1,000 per month and the work has never stopped, except when the weather made it impossible to carry on.

No contract was let. The pastor donned his overalls and has personally supervised every detail of the work. Workers on the building have made liberal donations of labor and all dealers in building materials have made very favorable prices. The result will be that the denomination will have a $50,000 house at an actual outlay of $40,000.

The first money spent in the operations was a fund that had been built up by the Ladies Auxiliary. Dr. Whitwell hopes that the financial condition of the community will be such that the building may be completed by January 1, and the work is going forward with that end in view.

For several months the basement has been used for the purposes of worship and the roof will be put on before there is any lessening of the activities. Meanwhile the contributors will continue their monthly payments and in course of time pay off every obligation not one being put into a strain.

Christian Church Next

The Christian church was next to follow with the building bug. With Reverend F. G. Davis, pastor of the First Christian Church, leading his congregation in their decision to strike in the interest of an adequate building as a fitting place of worship.

Quietly and deliberately the followers planned their new church and at the following Sunday services announced to Ada that they were ready to turn and start plans for construction of a new church after almost a score of years of worship in the old church, which had long been considered past its zenith of service.

The Christian congregation decided on purely business methods in the raising of funds for their church and that of financing on a building loan proposition. Money for the construction of the church is borrowed with payments monthly for a period of ten years, after which time the interest is taken up and the church made the permanent property of its followers.

No outside subscription has been asked for at the present time and no call visits have been made to members of the church.

The completed structure will cost approximately $75,000, of which amount $37,000 has already been pledged and $2,000 in cash in the hands of the building committee.

The proposed structure will be 90 by 130 feet and will seat 1,200 people when the balconies are filled. The main auditorium will seat 50 persons. Thirty Sunday school rooms and assembly rooms with complete gymnasium and janitor quarters will constitute one of the most modern churches possible for the money expended.

While no date is set for the beginning of the construction of the church, it is believed that excavation will be started within the next two months.

Baptists to Build

The Baptist congregation, not to be outdone by other churches which caught the building fever, recently decided on plans that will eventually leave them with a church costing approximately $100,000 and stand out as a monument to the city in years to come.

The congregation, under the leadership of Reverend C. C. Morris feel that there is no time like the present for building churches and rely upon the pride of the Baptist denomination to carry out the financial end of the church building project.

Reverend Morris has been considering pushing the building idea for some time and feel that now is the time to strike for a better temple of worship for his congregation.

No definite plans have been outlined for raising the funds for building the new church but this matter will be ironed out in the near future.

The church will be started in October of the present year, Reverend Morris said.

Luxor Awakens to Greet Tourists of all Nations After Sleep of Many Ages

VALLEY OF THE KINGS, LUXOR, EGYPT.—(By the Associated Press)—Luxor, like King Tutankhamun, has been roused from its repose of 3,000 years and is taking on something of the habits and characteristics of a twentieth century town. For ages a conventional stopping place for Nile excursion steamers and tourists, it has lately become a center for people of all classes, including students, college professors, antiquarians, doctors, undertakers, dressmakers and souvenir hunters. The newly-found tomb of Tutankhamun is the magnet that draws them all. Tourists are attracted here out of curiosity, but professional men and women, undertakers, embalmers, dressmakers and milliners, come in the hopes of getting new ideas for their business from the mummy chamber of the ancient king.

To modern undertakers the skill of the ancient Egyptians in preserving their dead against the ravages of the ages is a source of amazement and mystery, and many of them have applied to Howard Carter, discoverer of Tutankhamun, for the privilege of examining the Pharaoh's body when it is divested of its garb of gold and its bituminized bandages.

Embalming in ancient times was a much more elaborate and expensive process than it is today. It required three months for its completion and cost $1,500. It was a luxury that could be afforded only by the rich. The ancients believed that mummifications in this life was the only sure means of their resurrection in the next. Pictorial efforts were made by the poor to secure eternal life to their dead. American archaeologists in Luxor have lately found skeletons of humble peasants placed near the graves of the royal dead. Their relatives, it appears, too poor to pay for embalming, placed the bodies near the graves of the nobles in the hope that their poor frames would partake of the sacredness of the nobility and thus rise with them in the next life.

The first step in embalming a body in Pharaonic days was to place it in a powerful saline solution for three months. The intestines were then removed by means of a sharp-edged stone, the brain, heart and liver were taken out and the body impregnated with myrrh, accacia, bitumen and aromatic oils. It was then wrapped in hundreds of yards of linen soaked in preservative. The anointing of the mummy was accompanied by prayers and incantations to the gods, led by the high priests.

Herbert E. Winlop, director of excavation at Thebes for the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art, showed the correspondent a 4,200-year-old Egyptian princess that he unearthed last week in the Valley of the Queens. Allowing for natural emaciation and shrinkage, the body is amazingly well preserved. The teeth and hair are intact. The neck, wrists and ankles bear a series of slight indentures, indicating, according to Mr. Winlop, that her ancient highness wore a necklace, bracelets and anklets which undoubtedly had been stripped from her by tomb-robbers soon after her interment.

The royal mummy, Mr. Winlop said was that of a woman of 22 or 23, who undoubtedly had been a favorite in the court of one of the Amenhotep kings. Her bosom and arms were delicately tattooed with heraldic figures, indicating her noble lineage. Over the lower part of the abdomen was a long scarred brand which the American expert said probably had been inflicted with a red-hot iron by the doctors of that time as a counter-irritant to relieve the pain due to an organic malady from which the princess suffered.

In one flood in Holland in the 15th century 72 villages were inundated and about 100,000 persons drowned.

A giant tree recently found in New Zealand has a trunk 22 feet in diameter. Its age is estimated at 2,000 years.

Build That Home of CONCRETE And it will be as "Everlasting as Its Memory"

There's no word in the language that is more beautiful than HOME; no word that brings to mind such wonderful memories and associations. First thoughts are of the home of our childhood, its structure and general appearance; the surroundings each of which recalls some incident of bygone days.

In time the children grow to men and women and take their places in the world's busy life. Many must cast their lot in distant places, but few are privileged to remain around the old home hearth. Yet, no matter where they roam, there is always the longing for another glimpse, for a few more hours, back in the home of the long ago. The impulse quickens into action. A long journey again into a world of childhood, and what a sight to greet the eye.

The old house, weather beaten and almost fallen down, can but bring a pang of keenest sorrow. The home of childhood days has become a prey to the ravages of time, it presents a picture that haunts the memory; one that would be banished from the mind, were it possible.

You who plan to build a home in these modern times can build of a material that defies the wear and tear of time; of a material that grows stronger and more durable with each passing year.

The ancients learned its secret when the world was young and their buildings have stood thru the ages, for for CONCRETE is synonymous with PERMANANCY.

CONCRETE is a combination of cement, stone and sand. CEMENT is manufactured from limestone, shale and gypsum; the other two are used just as Nature furnishes them. The mind of man cannot conceive the distant age of their creation. What Nature spends untold years in building cannot be destroyed in a brief few years. AND EVERY INGREDIENT OF CONCRETE is of Nature's oldest work.

Build that HOME of CONCRETE, and in after years there'll be no pang of sorrow for the tots now at your knee. The HOME will still present the old appearance—the very sight of it will bid the wanderer welcome—it will indeed be HOME again.

Wealthy Quaker City Man is Alleged Visitor in Girl's Apartment.

Battery of Newspaper Men in Waiting for "Mr. Marshall" to Appear

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 24.—Assistant District Attorney Pecora today announced that the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" who was the last person known to see Miss Dorothy Keenan, slain model, before she was chloroformed was J. A. Mitchell of Philadelphia.

Mr. Pecora also identified the mysterious Mr. Wilson "Marshall's" secretary, who is said to have accompanied the Philadelphia to her suite as John H. Jackson, a New York lawyer.

Mr. Mitchell is listed in Philadelphia's social register as J. Kersley Mitchell, president of the Philadelphia rubber works company and the husband of Mrs. Francisco Code Mitchell prominent in Philadelphia and New York society.

Mr. Mitchell came to New York last night in response to a request from Mr. Pecora who wanted to question him further about the possibility that he might have written Miss Keenan a letter that could have been used as a basis for an effort to blackmail him. He returned to Philadelphia this afternoon "for further data" after a telephone conversation with the assistant prosecutor.

The mystery of the identity of "Mr. Marshall" had been intensified just before Mr. Pecora broke his silence of more than a week when Neilson Olcott, counsel for the mysterious man, declared flatly that Mr. Mitchell was not "Mr. Marshall" and that he would not disclose his client's identity.

Mr. Mitchell is the son-in-law of Edward Townsend Stokesbury, who is a Philadelphia capitalist and a member of J. P. Morgan and Company of New York.

Newspaper Men Active. A small army of newspaper reporters and photographers localized today in an assault on the identity of the mysterious man known as the "wealthy Mr. Marshall" of Boston, who is expected to confer with district attorney Pecora and Police Inspector Coughlin.

Search for the true name of the man today again obscured the case with which he is linked, the chloroforming murder of Dorothy Keenan, in an effort to find out if "Mr. Marshall" was connected with the woman's death.

The interview postponed from last evening was to take place either at the district attorney's office or at the headquarters of the inspector, and between the two places the expectant army waits or the "Mr. Marshall" to appear.

After a heavy assault from reporters repeating their demands that the man's identity be made public Mr. Pecora intimated that they might prevail today.

The interview was arranged, Mr. Pecora said, to see if "Mr. Marshall" cannot shed light on the fugitive blackmail plot which the most accepted theory holds that she was murdered because she would not aid in defrauding the Bostonian.

Dairy Department Be Organized By Chamber Commerce

A meeting of a few interested in dairying was held Friday afternoon and it was decided to add a department of dairy development to the activities of the organization.

It was furthermore decided to hold a number of conferences with the citizens of various communities with a view of ascertaining the sentiment of the farmers towards the proposition of increasing their dairy output and what those who desired to increase their herds were prepared to do in the way of handling the cows. In cases where conditions are satisfactory, it is said that no difficulty will be had in getting the money with which to pay for the cows, the farmers to be consulted about what kind of cows they wanted.

It was stated that the ice factory would open a cream station in care for customers until it is certain that there are enough cows in this trade territory to supply a creamery at Ada.

ASK PARTICULARS IN INNES FRAUD

Judge Sustains Two Points in Petition Over Question.

(By the Associated Press)

ATLANTA, March 24.—Government prosecution officials are required to furnish attorneys for Victor E. Innes, with a bill of particulars setting forth specifically the facts they expect to prove when he comes up for trial on a charge of using the mails to defraud under an order issued late today by United States Judge Sibley.

The judge sustained the first two points in the petition which calls for specific information as to whether Innes was in Carson City, Nevada, or Atlanta when the alleged fraudulent letter was mailed and whether Innes or some agent of his wrote the letter. He overruled a request for a complete copy of the letter, saying however that a complete copy would be produced at the trial.

The case is to come up for trial Monday, Innes and his wife Mrs. Ida May Innes were jointly accused of the murder of the Nelson sisters some years ago in Texas but because of the inability of the prosecution to produce the bodies of the girls the case was dismissed. Innes and his wife were later convicted in Atlanta of larceny and Innes completed his sentence several months ago. He was immediately re-arrested on a charge of using the mail to defraud. Mrs. Innes was unable to come here because of poor health and is said to be now living in Portland, Oregon.

IOWA HOUSE VOTES TO KEEP OFF MASK IN STATE

DANGER PAST IN MISSOURI RIVER ICE GORGE JAMS

Engineers Spend Night on Inspection Tour on Both River Sides.

LOWLANDS THREATENED

Prize Lands of Iowa in Path of Threatened Rush of Water.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, March 24.—All danger is past unless very severe and unusual weather conditions set in soon, according to a statement made tonight by R. J. Anderson chairman of the board of supervisors of Woodbury county, and J. C. McLean, county engineer, who spent all day today in the danger zone on both sides of the Missouri river investigating the situation.

Their statement declared that a drop of two feet in the water stage at low points of the gorge on the Iowa side about three miles south of Sergeant Bluffs, Iowa, had occurred in the past twenty-four hours. A recession of seven inches was noted at Dakota City, Nebraska, they said, this fall having occurred since morning.

The ice flow in the channel is melting rapidly.

OMAHA, Neb., March 23.—Mammoth ice gorges in the Missouri river near Vermillion, South Dakota, Sioux City and Ottawa, Iowa, and Dakota City, Nebraska this morning precipitated conditions that present an overflow menace in all the lowlands between Vermillion and Omaha and threaten inundation of part of Sioux City and flooding of thousands of acres of rich farm land in South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska, as well as the destruction of hundreds of farms homes.

An ice gorge reported early this morning with a length of eleven miles and a width in some places of seven miles near Braasfield Iowa, south of Sioux City is strangling the Missouri River. The stream is strengthened by thaw and is dissipating its strength by overflowing into the lowlands.

A drop in temperature helped hold the retaining ice but at any moment the terrible pressure might triumph and then the dammed up waters would race down the valley. A conservative estimate places the number of farms in the path of such a torrent at 2000.

Counties in South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska would bear the brunt of the onslaught. Among the southern counties of Iowa are to be found some of the choicest corn lands of the corn belt. Last night a gorge formed near Ottawa, Iowa and a flood stage developed so that residents of the lowlands were forced to flee. Authorities at Ottawa gave up hope of shattering the gorge with explosives.

McCook Field Fliers To Attempt Records in Endurance Meet

DAYTON, Ohio, March 24.—Verification of the report that Lieutenant Oakley G. Kelley and John A. McReady of McCook field were aiming at more than one record when they next attempt an endurance flight was made by officers of the post late today.

Preparations are going ahead to make another attempt for the flight April 1. Whether or not the attempt succeeds depends upon the weather and ground conditions at Wilbur Wright field where the take off will be made, officers declared.

The plans for this performance include ten trials at ten new records for endurance, distance, and speed while flying in an attempt to record forty-four hours of continuous flight.

President's Party Return to Florida City After Cruise

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 24.—Concluding their houseboat cruise along the Florida east coast, President and Mrs. Harding and their vacation companions arrived in St. Augustine late today and received an enthusiastic reception of hundreds of old friends.

The people of St. Augustine know the president and his wife perhaps more intimately than the people of any other city in the United States, except Marion, Ohio, for the Hardings have been coming to this old Spanish founded city for nearly twenty years. For that reason the arrival of the president's party here differs from that of various other east coast cities he has visited. It seemed something like a homecoming.

Harding's Cousin Dies

SEBRING, Florida, March 24.—Dr. B. F. Harding of Mansfield, Ohio, cousin of President Harding, and who with his wife had been spending the winter here, died today following a long illness. Mrs. Harding left here for Mansfield tonight with the body after a brief service.

Naughty-Naughty Legislators

(By the Associated Press) OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24.—Behind locked doors and with the utmost secrecy, the house devoted itself this morning to the conduct of a handful of soldiers who were alleged to have held a "crap game" in the house cloak-room.

When the roll had been called upon convening Speaker Gilchrist announced that he would entertain a motion that the house conduct further proceedings in executive session. Without further ado visitors, newspaper men and others were barred from the chamber and the doors locked.

The second session continued throughout the morning, corridors and lobbies buzzing with speculations bordering on the spectacular. It was rumored that certain high officers had been

SAUNDERS FLAYS WALL STREETERS

Denounces Stock Exchange as Dangerous to Any Man Who Opposes It.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 23.—Shares of class A, Piggly-Wiggly company stock held by Clarence Saunders, president of the Piggly-Wiggly stores, incorporated, were caught in a jam Tuesday when a bear raid on Wall Street was launched.

From the statement yesterday by Saunders, Piggly-Wiggly shares were $100 dollars per share Thursday, $150 until Thursday afternoon, and for a time thereafter at $250. Mr. Saunders declared in his statement utter defiance to Wall Street.

"I have no price of any kind to offer for your interests. Even 1000 shares would not buy a single certificate. My offer was for one day only and has not been extended."

Mr. Saunders denounced Wall Street and its "tactics" bitterly and declared that he expected to enter suit against the New York stock exchange, which he characterized as of all institutions in America, the worst for the men in power can ruin all who dare oppose it.

"Wall Street got licked bad," Saunders continued, "and then called for help, of course, from the New York stock exchange." Out of approximately 25,000 shares, which Mr. Saunders said were due him just 140 were delivered to him Friday.

Mr. Saunders said he would hereafter dispose of stock by selling "direct to the people—they trust me but they don't trust Wall Street." He would not allow his stock to be sold in the curb market he insisted.

"I am not afraid. Let Wall Street get me if they can. It is because most people are afraid that something must be done about this kind of business."

Jaywalkers Pick up Bombs in District On New York City

NEW YORK, March 24.—Two cast iron bombs loaded with explosives and carrying twelve-inch fuses were found today in front of the Union Methodist church half a block from Broadway and West 48th street, in the heart of the theatrical district.

The bombs were found at the height of the matinee rush when the street in front of the church was jammed with pedestrians and taxicabs.

Jaywalkers picked up the explosives in the middle of the street. They were about the size of baseballs with shells of cast iron. The fuses had not been lit.

No arrests have been made.

RAILROAD DETECTIVE GETS TWENTY YEARS FOR ORIME

BLOOMFIELD, Missouri, March 24.—John Harp, detective for the St. Louis and Southwestern railroad and former policeman of Little Rock, Arkansas, was found guilty of second degree murder in circuit court here late today and sentenced to twenty years imprisonment. He is charged with shooting Irvin Shanks, 19, of Crystal City, Kentucky, about a year ago. Shanks is said to have been stealing a ride on a train.

EXPLOSION CAUSES DEATH OF WORKMAN AT CLAREMORE

CLAREMORE, March 24.—Explosion of thirty sticks of dynamite at the south end of Tiava tunnel ten miles south of here late today resulted in the death of one workman and the serious injury of three others.

William Deese, holsterman, was instantly killed. The injured are: M. A. Terrence, William P. Keller and L. L. Griffin. Terrence is not expected to live.

WALTON PASSES TEXT BOOK BILL AFTER WRANGLE

Appropriations for University Of Oklahoma Decided on By Senate Action

Carlock Pleased When Purse Strings are Pulled in After Hand Outs

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24.—The $950,000 free text book bill became a law when Governor Walton affixed his signature to the measure late today.

Purchase of the text books teaching the theory of evolution or the "materialistic conception of history" is prohibited under the act. The $950,000 appropriation carried in the bill as finally enacted represents a reduction from the original figure of $2,250,000 proposed by J. W. Bremer, author of the bill.

The state banking department is re-established under a bill by Representative J. H. Harper of La Flore county, which was passed by the house today. Positions of state bank commissioner and banking attorney are created and fourteen examiners authorized.

These additions and other provisions of the bill are designed to assist in materially strengthening the state banking department. Salaries for the positions thus created are to be paid from licenses exacted for examinations as provided by law.

Two bills sponsored by the municipal league were passed.

Two bills got the air, W. A. Cunningham's measure declaring dogs to be personal property and the Burgher-Rossiter-Case bill requiring state examiner and inspector to audit the books of cities, towns and certain school districts.

The Barnum bill amending the cooperative laws passed the house 65 to 25 after provisions legalizing cooperative banks had been stricken out.

Co-operative Bank Bill Killed. House bill 437 authorizing the establishment of co-operative banks which was voted down Friday gained reconsideration today and will be called for a second chance Monday.

House bill 254 relating to the regulation of cotton gins by the corporation commission was adopted after an attempt was made to substitute an entirely new bill.

The senate's first round over the big institutional appropriation bill ended tonight with a boost of $80,000 allowed in the section providing for the upkeep of the University of Oklahoma.

University Appropriation Up. The salary item for the university was the only one changed despite numerous amendments both to increase and to reduce.

The measure came before the senate as revised by the senate appropriation committee which sliced more than $2,000,000 from the total of appropriations of $16,400,000 voted by the house.

Consideration at the afternoon session was confined solely to appropriations for the university.

Senator Jed Johnson of Walters presented an amendment increasing the salary appropriation for 1924, placing it at $700,000 and for 1925 at $720,000 as against $660,000 and $680,000 recommended by the appropriation committee. Chairman Carlock on behalf of the appropriation committee acceded to the increase.

An amendment by Senator Ross Lillard of Oklahoma county brought most consideration, urging the appropriation of $200,000 with which to construct a building in Oklahoma City for the medical college of the university. The proposal was defeated.

As appropriated by the senate, the university section carried the following items: salaries, $700,000 for 1924, $720,000 for 1925; support and maintenance, $220,000 and $230,000; equipment, $50,000; pharmacy building, $100,000; natural science building, $100,000; gymnasium, $100,000; engineer building, $100,000 for 1924 and $100,000 for 1925.

Pleased with Appropriation. Chairman Carlock, the watchdog of the treasury, expressed satisfaction with the day's work at the end of the session.

"We have come through the hardest part of the fight and there has been only one change made in the committee's recommendations," he said. "The appropriations that the committee recommended will be fought all along the line. However, and it will probably be warmer of the A. & M. College and Chickasha college sections." Further consideration of the bill will be resumed Monday. Appropriations already passed by (Continued on Page Five)

Loyal Daughters Entertain
The Loyal Daughters Sunday School class of the First Christian Church entertained with a dinner Wednesday evening at the Harris Hotel. The members of the class with a few invited guests assembled at 7:30 and were escorted to the banquet room where covers were laid for eighteen. The room was tastefully decorated in green and white and with potted plants and cut flowers. A four course dinner was served. After the dinner, Mrs. A. Linscheid, the teacher of the class, entertained with a theatre party.

WEDNESDAY BRIDGE WITH MRS. E. C. HUNTER
The regular Wednesday Bridge met with Mrs. E. C. Hunter at her home on Hunter's Hill Wednesday afternoon when high score was made by Mrs. W. K. Chaney. A delightful plate course was served to Miss J. McKinley, B. McKinley, Simpson, Boggan, Drummond, Chaney, Taylor, Sparks, Bayless, Gowing, King and Blake.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB

The Fortnightly Study Club met with Mrs. Dr. Ed Granger as hostess Thursday afternoon, March 22. The program was varied in that two plays dealing with symbolism and mysticism were read by Mrs. A. Linscheid and Mrs. Ed Granger. Mrs. Linscheid made a few introductory remarks in which she deplored the fact that there are still people, either very young in science or very ignorant in religion who fancy there is a conflict between science and religion; whereas, true science which is the knowledge of facts and true philosophy which is the knowledge of principles are always allied to true religion which is the harmony of the soul with both facts and principles. Saying if we would be properly balanced—live the life abundant we must open our minds as Jesus did to both worlds—this visible world of fact, science and rational knowledge and the invisible world of soul, faith and intuitive knowledge. She then read Yates' philosophical allegory "The Hour Glass." The central thought about which the play is built is that the world invisible alone is real; that it is better to have been born a fool and retain your vision of the invisible than the type of philosopher who denies everything except what his senses tell him and is left to wander helplessly in the perishable realm of the visible. This reading made a very fitting setting for Hauptmann's dream poem "Hannule," a poem of heart rending pathos read by Mrs. Ed Granger. After listening to Mrs. Granger's perfect interpretation of this pathetic drama one could easily understand why in one of the great European cities the actors are said to have been so profoundly affected that they refused to repeat the representation. The club trusts that the public may soon have the opportunity of hearing Mrs. Granger give the tender poetic drama. The members felt the need of the relaxation that came with the serving of refreshments.

MISS JACKSON HONORS GUEST

Miss Estelle Jackson entertained in her home 130 East 12th, with a slumber party in honor of Miss Gladys Rogers of Holdenville. The guests arrived at 8:35. A delightful evening was spent at the McGowan theatre, after which the party gathered at home at a late hour. Then a two course luncheon was served to the following: Misses Gladys Rogers, Daisy Hawkins, Norma Morgan, Mildred Robertson, Louise Morgan, Lorrain Lasater, Wilma Chilcutt, Nell Kent and hostess, Estelle Jackson.

WHAT THEY SAY

The promoters of the community chorus are to be congratulated on their good work. This movement will undoubtedly do much towards developing the musical talent in Pontotoc county and its influence will be felt for many years to come wherever good music is to be rendered.

Again this organization will be of great help in bringing high class musical attractions to Ada. The first of these will be on the evening of April 12 when Josef Konecny, the noted Bohemian violinist, assisted by Esther Luella Lash and Margaret Cary will appear on the program of the first concert given by the chorus club. This combination of home talent and artists is hard to beat.

In order that everyone may have an opportunity to hear this concert, a matinee will be given in the afternoon at the high school at a price that will make it possible for one and all to hear, a special price being fixed for the school children.

Let us all turn out and give this movement our hearty support.

Ordinarily when some fellow is yanked up in court for making combustible corn liquor from old cans, tomato cans, old wash tubs and other unmentionable utensils, I feel no remorse in seeing him get the full extent of the law.

Others brought before the court for selling samples of the same product that would kill any one of Noah's collection, I would not hesitate in reviewing his case without malice.

Others brought before the court for being in a state of coma as a result of over-consumption of this dynamic beverage, have only my pity.

—for—the boll weevil gets his cotton, the weather man his fruit, the drought his vegetables, the cholera his hogs and the grafter his money—so why not.

My girl's name is Niagara. She falls for everybody.

Climate is what people boast about from other states and weather is what a man fusses about at home.

Edgar Allen Poe says that when he was a kid he thought that men who worked in offices and parked pencils behind their ears had soft jobs.

Sampson lost his power when someone clipped his locks and to think that so many Ada girls are taking their spring pruning.

A few they hadn't seen before.

"It is high time," said the militant reformer on the platform, "that we have a moral awakening in this town. Let us arise in our might. Let us gird our loins. Let us take off our coats. Let us bare our arms. Let us—"

"Hold on now," exclaimed a tall thin woman near the platform. "If this is going to be a moral awakening, don't you dare propose our taking off another thing."

It was reported by police that out of three slumber parties last night two of them had to be told to go to bed.

After hearing some of the long-haired boys, who look soulful, beat a piano to death, choke a fiddle and throw a fit otherwise, we don't blame the girls for pruning theirs.

TIGERS PREPARE FOR TRACK MEET

Several Candidates Show Up in Tryouts for Place on Team.

The track team which will represent the local school and will also be the best ever produced by the local school next year, according to Arty Scheinberg, who is in charge of the track athletes, Scheinberg expects to have a full squad of about twenty men out for competition for places on the team. Of these a large number are given as to training by Scheinberg is looking forward to next year's team as well as training men for the team this year.

Practice has been going on about a week now and some of the men are showing great improvement. The team this year will be led by Capt. J. H. Martin of Pontotoc, who will enter school about next week. Martin has been training all winter and promises to be the champion hurdler in the state this spring. Last year he took second place in a close race at the state track and field meet and he expects to be in much better form this year.

Capt. Scheinberg states that the squad is weak in high jump, broad jump, and pole vault, and that inexperienced men must be developed to represent the school in these events.

The schedule of meets this year begins with a handicap meet with the Ada high school in the first week in April. Next will be the local meet about April 24, which will serve as an occasion for selecting the team. The quarter-mile meet with Oklahoma Baptist University, Oklahoma City College, and Southeastern Teachers College, to be held this year at Shawnee, will be held April 27. The state interscholastic meet comes May 9, and the team may participate in an invitation meet May 20.

Among candidates for berths on the team are Campbell, Frank Keltner, and Harris Willingham are showing up well in the sprints. Distance events will probably be taken care of by Aubrey Bowman, Omar Brandon, and Norman Hildebrand. Aubrey and Travis Kerr will offer competition for the hurdles. Ben Hatcher and G. M. Dean are showing good form in practice but have not been assigned to any particular event. Dean will probably make an excellent hurdle man, according to Scheinberg. Brown, Coffman and Hoffman are doing well with the discus.

Capt. Scheinberg himself has an enviable track record. Following all-around athletic service in high school at St. Louis, he was a member at Purdue university for three years. In winning his first medal he beat Orle Mucks, world champion in weights, in throwing the javelin. His best records, however, are on the hurdles.

He ran second to Bob Simpson, world champion hurdler, when Simpson established the world record for the 120 yard high hurdles in 1916. In 1917 he was chosen a member of the American team, but never participated as such because of the war.

Since that time his only athletic activities have been in connection with the Illinois Athletic Club.

(By the Associated Press)

PUTNEY, England, March 24.—Twenty-year old W. P. Mollen of New York struck Oxford's crew up the Thames to triumph today in the 75th Oxford-Cambridge race over the four and a quarter mile course from Putney to Mortland.

The American stroke pushed a dark blue eight ahead of Cambridge at the start of the grind and held them in front all the way answering with fine judgment every challenge of his opponents.

TUTTLE STILL SURVIVES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Lack of a good third baseman was the principal cause of the Browns' failure to win the American league bunting last year. If Fohl can start the coming campaign with that hole plugged the pennant is his, with a fair break. The Brown manager is pinning his faith on one man, Homer Ezzell to fill that position in pennant winning fashion. Ezzell comes from the Shreveport club in the Texas league with a reputation as a hitter and slider.

Tigers Out for Baseball

College Contenders Mix for Berths on Season's Baseball Nine

The sprinkling of diamond dust on the East Central College campus has attracted a usual horde of followers and again the Tiger can promise to put out a line that will carve its name into the baseball history of intercollegiate games in Oklahoma and elsewhere.

Unusual interest is being taken in the daily workouts that have been going on for the past two weeks and several youngsters from the soda fountain and from the deep woods are threatening the positions of old timers on the diamond in Ada's sportland.

Capt. Milam, who has taken charge of the baseball crew expects to put out the best team in the history of the school despite the loss of two of the best regulars on the team, Paul Wanner and Eddie Miller.

Milam has not picked a possible lineup for the opening game here during the latter part of this month but let it be known that he has an abundance of material to pick from and Milam should know a bit about material since he has played quite a lot of the game himself.

The Tiger nine will miss Paul Wanner, reputed to be the best college twirler ever to make a debut in the state collegiate conference. Wanner is playing with the Seals at San Francisco. Eddie Miller, fast at short and an all-around athlete will be missed from the lineup this year, their places will be hard to fill with the material on hand.

Approximately thirty men are reporting regularly for practice now and from this number will be picked the Tiger nine and the list of substitutes. Little chance for contenders to show their best effort has been possible with weather conditions and the large delegations on hand. Some of the men, however, have shown up so well in the practice games that they will be used on the town club during the summer months.

Following are the possibilities for the nine positions:

CATCHERS—Josh Lee is said to be one of the best men behind the bat in state college baseball. He is a regular talking machine and a hot shot for the rest of the players on the infield sacks. He bats left handed and can handle the willow with some degree of certainty. He can be used on the mound if needed.

Claire is also a good prospect for a catcher but has not the experience of Lee. He is a top notcher at

Sixty-five students have enrolled for the course in tennis being offered for the first time at the college this spring. Of these forty are girls and twenty-five boys. Work in this line gives the students credit of an hour each quarter, and promises to be one of the most attractive courses yet offered.

M. B. Molloy tennis coach, is planning to select a girls team for matches with surrounding schools. In addition to this team will be the regular boys team, for which several matches have been tentatively arranged.

The tennis class offers an opportunity for exercise to a large number of students and gives the tennis coach an opportunity to observe the respective merits of players who are candidates for the teams.

KINDERGARTEN EXPERTS CONDEMN BABY TALK

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 24.—Baby talk defined as "an expression of self-vibrating with parenthood," is condemned as a dangerous and ludicrous practice by Miss Marion Loughier, Ph.D., instructor in essentials of speaking at the National Kindergarten and Elementary College.

Exhorting young fathers and mothers to "ware of 'tita darlin'" and "wittle wambkins" and kindred terms of parental endearment, Miss Loughier points out that only six out of every ten children escape detrimental impressions "from the absurd language of their parents' affections."

PITCHERS—George Morrison is the veteran twirler for the squad and can fill in at first or outfield. Morrison, who is a southpaw, is rated among the best and much will be his lot in the season at hand.

Willows is a right-handed twirler and has shown quite a few curves to boost his rating with the team during the past workouts. He backs his curves with plenty of control and is one of the best hitters under prospect.

Bill Crawford left-hander and big six-foot boy with everything in the game but experience. Milam hopes to see Crawford man out to be one of the dependable on the club and believes that his rise in the game will be phenomenal.

Strohm is a young right-hander and has the making of a valuable member of the squad. He can be used at any position on the diamond as a utility man.

FIRST BASE—Kelly is claiming the edge on the first sack and apparently has a good shot for a home berth on the initial sack.

SECOND BASE—Kirkpatrick is one of the best shots of the prospective team and from point of service and ability one of the best men of the squad. His hitting prowess make him the prospective lead man for the club. He plays a dependable game at his position. Kirk is considered the best base runner since Ty Cobb broke his leg.

Montgomery is also bidding for the second bag position but can handle a clever glove in infield or outfield.

THIRD BASE—McClay has shown the stuff that makes him stand out as the premier contender for the hot box of the diamond, the third sack. He is a new comer on the team but making an enviable record.

SHORT STOP—Johnson, an all-around athlete, is the strong contender for the pivot position. He likes them hot or slow and takes his place at the bat with the poise of a veteran. He is conceded to be the club's board ratter.

FIELDERS—Thompson is a new comer to the Tiger lot but looks like a veteran in action in the

Arche Cooper, local participant in many ring bouts, and Battling Ivey of Wilson again fought to a ten-round draw and their second no decision bout here Friday night at the armory ring when Referee Jack Edwards showed no favoritism in his award.

Decision from the ringside boosted Cooper as having a shade of preference over the invading contender, but Referee Edwards considered the fine points of the game and could not waver from his belief that the advantage shown by either of the fighters was sufficient for the decision.

Ivey was cautioned on several occasions for holding in clinches and using the kidney punch which had been barred through the announcement of Referee Edwards. Ivey took advantage of several other breaks which conflicted with the ringside idea of clean sportsmanship although within the eligibility of the ring.

Cooper early took the offensive and easily outpointed his opponent in the first round. The fighting was mixed and no round decisions could be taken until the later rounds of the bout when Ivey gained two rounds. Cooper came back in the last rounds of the match and proved the antagonist in the finish of the fight. Cooper still showed strength at the last gong, while Ivey appeared groggy and most of his swings and jabs went wild.

Cooper came out with a new style of fighting in his bout Friday night, leaving a stationary defense for an aggressive offense with a mixture of commendable footwork to follow his leads.

The match by rounds:

Rd. 1—Cooper starts out with a series of left jabs, which takes Ivey to the ropes and clinch. Cooper breaks clean and again left jabs to face. Ivey takes offensive and rushes Cooper to ropes and then clinches but misses terrific right swing and Cooper connects with a left jab. Fighting in clinch. Cooper's round.

Rd. 2—Cooper left jabs and then fights in clinch with Ivey returning body blows. Both men clinch and then mix in close quarters. Ivey sends in a series of jabs and Cooper clinches and lands heavy right to face on break. Both men clinch and break and then clinch again. Cooper left jabs and clinches again. Draw.

Rd. 3—Both men exchange blows and then clinch with exchange of blows in clinch. Cooper sends in left jab with Ivey returning left jab following by a swing that landed effectively Cooper jabs, then clinch and Ivey follows with jab and clinch. Ivey rushes Cooper to ropes and takes the advantage. Cooper fights from ropes and lands terrific right to face. Ivey jabs then goes into clinch and follows again with jab after break. Round draw.

Rd. 4—Ivey rushes Cooper to ropes and lands several effective

blows while Cooper is rushed to a corner. Cooper comes out jabbing with left followed by terrific right swing that meets Ivey's face. Both men clinch and Cooper jabs after break. Ivey takes offensive and rushes Cooper to ropes. Ivey jabs and then clinches and jabs again on break. Both men fight hard in clinch and exchange blows freely with Cooper taking the heavy end of the exchange of blows. Cooper jabs and is again leading the fighting as the gong sounds. Cooper's round.

Rd. 5—Ivey takes the offensive and rushes Cooper to the ropes where he sends in a series of heavy blows. Cooper returns the fight by rushing Ivey to the ropes and making the fight. Cooper lunges at Ivey and falls into ropes with Ivey following the lead. Both men clinch and Ivey follows break with left jabs. Cooper comes back after clinch with left jabs. Ivey jabs and then clinches with Cooper, who mixes fight. Cooper leads fight but is rushed to the ropes by Ivey in a series of jabs and right swings. Ivey's round.

Rd. 6—Both men rush to clinch and Cooper assumes lead forcing Ivey to the ropes but Ivey returns lead with terrific swings and then to a clinch. Cooper is again pushed to ropes where Ivey sends in heavy blows. Ivey is cautioned about kidney punches and Cooper drops guard to appeal to referee while Ivey takes advantage and lands right. Cooper rushes Ivey to ropes where mixed fighting follows. Cooper again rushes Ivey to ropes but Ivey returns strong with jabs. Ivey jabs again and Cooper takes to clinch. Ivey jabs Cooper and forces him to ropes where he rains a series of body blows. Ivey again rushed Cooper to ropes and men clinch. Ivey's round.

Rd. 7—Contenders spar in exchange and then clinch and Ivey takes lead by rushing Cooper to ropes in a series of blows. Clinch and Ivey follows in new lead rushing Cooper to ropes. Cooper comes back with face jabs but Ivey returns but body blows. Ivey assumes lead and lands body blows and Cooper retreats with jabs. Ivey rushes to clinch and Cooper returns with heavy blows to body and then left jabs to face. Ivey jabs to face and then to body. Cooper jabs and falls to clinch. Ivey sends in right to body after series of jabs and follows swings with jabs to face. Cooper fell to defense while Ivey showed new life. Ivey's round.

Rd. 8—Ivey and Cooper mix fighting and Cooper comes back strong in taking the offensive and rushing Ivey to the ropes where he sends in a series of body and face blows. Both men resort to clinching and Ivey misses two right swings and clinches again. Cooper takes on new life and leads fighting by series of jabs and swings. Cooper rocks Ivey by two terrific left jabs and then follows with heavy right swing

With the proposed match between Arche Cooper, local fighter and Billy Conley, Pacific coast champion, Ada sport fans are promised a flinty encounter that borders on big league stuff and will assure local fellows of the ring of seeing the best of the county in the local ring.

Conley, who is managed by Sergeant Leo C. McMahon, blind fight promoter of Oklahoma City, issued his challenge here Friday night before the main bout between Cooper and Ivey. The draw between Cooper and Ivey leaves local enthusiasts to choose their contender for Conley, could the flinty encounter be arranged.

Conley came to Ada for his challenge to the winner of the Cooper-Ivey match highly recommended his records showing 34 knockouts to his credit, most of which were fought on the Pacific coast where he hung up his claim for championship in that community.

The Conley-McMahon combination is a recently organized one in the state and is reputed to be one of the strongest alliances in the state ring. McMahon who is totally blind, was at one time welterweight champion of the Allied Armies, before being blinded by mustard gas while serving with the Canadian army in the World War. McMahon claims Wisconsin as his home prior to his enlistment in the Canadian army and prior to that time claims to draw fights with Jack Britton, while he was at his best.

OKMULGEE WINS JUNIOR BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

OKMULGEE, March 24.—Okmulgee annexed the state junior high school 1923 basketball championship here tonight defeating "Mounds" 26 to 22 in the finals of the first annual state-wide basketball tournament.

Okmulgee has previously trounced Henryetta and Council Bluffs. Tonight's game was a fast and spirited contest, marked by keen rivalry on both sides. Seven schools took part in the tournament.

KANSAS AND NEBRASKA TIE FOR TRACK HONORS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 24.—University of Kansas and University of Nebraska were tied 15 to 15 at the end of the first five events in the second annual Missouri valley conference indoor track meet here tonight. The point scores of the other schools were: Ames 8; Washington, 7; Kansas Aggies 3; Missouri, 2.

California has a baseball college. Difference between it and some other.

to body. Cooper jabs and rushes Ivey to ropes and then takes lead in making fighting in clinch. Ivey shows effect of Cooper's offensive. Cooper's round.

Rd. 9—Cooper jabs to face and then to body before Ivey resorts to clinch. Cooper shows new strength and rushes Ivey to ropes with a series of jabs and heavy right swings. Both men miss heavy jabs. Cooper takes advantage of Ivey's in clinch and break. Cooper jabs to face and staggers Ivey, who rushes lead and rushes Cooper to ropes where he sends in series of effective blows. Ivey takes lead, clinch, and rushes Cooper to ropes. Draw.

Rd. 10—Cooper lands right swing and follows with left jabs to face and body. Cooper slips under ropes and Ivey takes the advantage and lands right as Cooper is regaining poise. Cooper takes offensive but Ivey clinches. Cooper uses right effectively and then jabs to body. Ivey is groggy and misses swings. Cooper again takes lead with jabs and then follows with swings. Ivey is swinging wildly at end of round. Cooper's round.

Cooper's weight was announced at 154 pounds and Ivey at 160 pounds.

An exhibition match was staged by Billy Conley, Pacific coast champion and Claude Spinks, local boxer, as semi-finals, the negro fighters having called off their match because of injuries of Battling Ivey. Conley showed all the stuff of a superior fighter and his agility in outwork and offensive fighting proved his contention for king honors. Conley challenged the winner of the Cooper-Ivey match.

Two local youngsters fought to a four-round draw.

WHAT IS GREATNESS?

What is greatness? We speak of the great men of the age, and as a matter of fact we do not know who the great men of the age are. Can you point to a single individual at present and really say he is a great man? You might do so, but your judgment might be as far wrong as the south pole is from the north.

Who are the great men of history? Christ naturally stands first among men, granting that you would not object to his being spoken of as a man. He was despised, forsaken, and killed. He was not considered a great man in his age.

Aristotle was a great man of Greece, but he did not receive the applause of the multitudes. Rome produced no really great man, unless it were Caesar, and he died by the assassin's blows and the citizenry rejoiced over his murdered body.

How do you determine the great men of history? Here is a rule that will work. Take any particular age, find the man who has most unmistakably affected the lives of succeeding generations, and you will find the greatest man of that age. Scan the pages of history, with this as a guide, and you will find very few so-called statesmen, few warriors, and few wealthy men. The men who have made their lives felt in history, as we read it, are those who have lived with a vision ever before them, those who have felt they had a message to give to the world and cared not particularly what handicaps were in the way, those whose hearts beat with a fervor to do something good and help others. In other words, to use a much overworked term, the men who have done most are those who have served best.

Christ has marched across the pages of history like a colossus, while the rich, the rulers and the high priests of that time have been forgotten.

Queen Elizabeth, Sir Walter Raleigh, King James I and others about the close of the sixteenth and the beginning of the seventeenth centuries were before the people and received the applause and the day by day honors, but in history they must give way to Shakespeare and Milton.

These illustrations are given to bear out the Biblical saying that he "who would save his life shall lose it." It is the same today as in the days of old. The man in business who sees the immediate dollar and ignores the great end of service, not only fails to serve but he also misses the dollar.

We do not believe that any great business which depends upon good will and value rendered can prosper when service does not go before profit. Naturally profit there must be, but when service is made the paramount thing, generally the profit will follow, granted, of course, that the management is efficient.

John Wanamaker is often spoken of as the prince of merchants. People have marveled at his great success. Below we give a few extracts from some of his writings, as we find them quoted in the Dearborn Independent. They remind one of the writings of Franklin, and they give an insight into the nature of the man who was able to build a great retail business. Is there not a message in the following extracts for all of us? We believe there is.

"We can only reach each other with sympathy, the biggest word among the three or four big words in the world.

"Let us be citizens first, and not merely bankers, lawyers, merchants and manufacturers.

"There are many croakers upon the edges of lakes and creeks; there they sit croaking and croaking; but they are only frogs after all.

"A man's true estate is not in houses, railroads, bonds and the like; it is in himself.

"I believe it is true that every baby is born with a song in its mouth.

"To stay by the lesson until it is learned and stay by the work undertaken until it is completed is the real thing.

"Why should people get old and cease to smile and sing the whole way through?

HOW ADA GROWS.

When one makes a survey of the building operations now under way in Ada he is really surprised at the extent of the building program, especially under present conditions.

However, this is in keeping with the history of the city. It is one place that has never experienced a boom. From the beginning there has been a steady, solid growth which has never stopped. At times this has been more rapid than other periods, but all the time some building has been going on and Ada was being spread over more of the map. Being built on a solid foundation of this kind Ada has never gone through the nerve-debilitating experience of towns that experienced mushroom booms which collapsed and left everything flat.

Yes, Ada is doing some building and the census of 1920 gave her fourteenth place among Oklahoma towns in point of population. During the preceding ten years she passed Durant, Frederick, Hugo and El Reno. Okmulgee was the only town that passed Ada during that decade. The population of Ada increased 85 percent in ten years and has not yet stopped growing.

The Forum of the Press

(Sulphur Times)
Bad news travels faster than good news. There is an old saying, "No news is good news." Let a man be converted at a church service and there is not much of a stir, but let a resident be convicted of some crime and the news leaps by word of mouth from one end of the community to the other. Sometimes are when neighbors of ours suffer misfortune! Troubles are bound to come to us all in some shape or form and what we say about our friends and acquaintances today may apply to us tomorrow. News is no respecter of persons.

We are prone to consider the ways of others not our ways when we should be watching our own step. What folks say of one another sometimes hurts more than anything they could have done. News, either good or bad, grows and becomes exaggerated and distorted with peddling. But bad news, given wings, may bring sorrow and ruin upon people who certainly are not deserving of a punishment beyond the penalty of their mistake.

More charity for others will mean more charity for ourselves and we will gradually come to take a keener delight in reporting something good of some person than something bad. Good is constructive, bad is destructive. Just before you are about to let out a bit of "bad news," stop and think of something good to say in place of it. The chances are ten to one you can and that you will.

(Chickasha Express)
"Fewer and better laws" is a slogan that has often been used in political campaigns, and the average citizen who sees it doesn't hesitate to say, "That's exactly right—I'm for it." But, in the face of this popular approval, congress and state legislatures go right on ahead grinding out laws by the ton and the quality is not improved. Good citizens and cranks, respectable bodies of business men and radicals, reformers with more zeal than common-sense and politicians bent upon riding into office by pleasing the popular ear—all have their pet ideas which they insist should be embodied in law in order to "save the country," and hence the law-mills keep on increasing their output. The menace of too much law—too many statutes insufficiently considered and hastily enacted—merits much more attention than it receives. The Chicago Tribune says:

"In 624 days the national legislative body enacted 931 laws. During the same period many state legislatures were grinding out more.

"There are already so many laws on the statutes, federal and state, that they cannot be enforced, and the result is we are in effect deprived of the constitutional guaranty which declares that no one shall be denied the equal protection of the laws. The most conscientious attorney-general cannot perform his whole duty, for none has means enough to enforce all the laws against all offenders. He must pick and choose, and if he is not singularly disinterested he will pick and choose for political or personal reasons.

"The multiplication of laws is one of the gravest dangers encountered in our history, and, unhappily it is a danger little regarded, either by legislators or laymen. On the contrary, there seems to be an increasing tendency to resort to law-

making as to the most trivial. Encroachments upon liberty of private judgment are feebly or not at all resisted, except by extremists and cranks, and there seems very little moral courage to withstand any hue and cry set up in the name of morality.

"It is futile to complain of non-enforcement of law while legislatures will pass almost any measure not vigorously resisted. The contrary rule should be followed; that is, no measure should be enacted unless the legislature is confident it is the expression of a general public demand, or unless the legislators are themselves convinced that it is required by the public good and can be effectively enforced.

Life at its wildest and New York at its best—which means its worst—figure in the plot of Warner Brothers' latest production, "The Beautiful and Damned," which comes to the McSwain Theatre, for Monday and Tuesday.

Marie Prevost, admired by thousands, both as a bathing beauty queen, and also as a star of screen-dam, has the starring role in this picture. She acts the part of a beautiful but selfish and cold flapper, the kind seen everywhere on the main streets of any American town.

"The Beautiful and Damned" was adapted for the screen from F. Scott Fitzgerald's "best seller" novel of the same name, which has been enjoying unusual popularity because of its treatment of flappers and the fast set, and which critics consider a great story.

It concerns Gloria Gilbert, a lovely flapper, and Anthony Patch, a young member of the idle class, who is waiting for the death of his grandfather, old Adam Patch, a millionaire and social reformer. He falls in love with and marries Gloria, and the two adopt as their motto, "wait 'till Grandpa Patch dies. Gloria is married but still a flapper. They begin a course of life which leads to dissipation and costly pleasures. Grandfather Patch, happy at the marriage of the confident that it means a new and pure life for Anthony, gets the surprise of his life when he pays him an unexpected visit and finds the home of the newlyweds the scene of reckless revelry and debauchery. He is so overcome with grief and rage that he dies a week later.

Gloria and Anthony attend the reading of the will, wondering how many millions they have inherited. Their confidence changes to con-

DEAR PEGGY:

I was down town today and saw the cutest things for Easter. The dearest little place cards in many different designs to hang on the glass—in butter fly, chicken and lilies and some crepe paper for Easter decorations and paper napkins. And such a wonderful line of Easter cards including some parchments. You must go down and see them.

The carnival given Friday night by the Verdian Girls was very successful. Eighteen dollars and ten cents was turned over to the P. T. A., which was half of the amount made. A program was given by the pupils, the orchestra played three delightful selections, which proved very interesting to the music lovers. A popularity contest was won by Ava Saunders, candidate from the eighth grade. A box of candy as presented to her. The zoo was under the supervision of Linn Cales, and proved interesting to old and young. Other attractions consisted of King Tut's Tomb, which consisted of articles collected by Mrs. J. B. Hill, which hold a high value, figure eight, and negro minstrel.

Drawn-Thread Work on Voile of Reseda Green

By MARY BROOKS PICKEN

THIS voile frock of cool almond green leaves little to be desired for midsummer afternoon wear, for its simple design seems almost as refreshing as its color and material. Drawn-thread work is used for decoration and to mark the top of the deep hem.

Groups of pin tucks placed at each shoulder give a little surplus fullness across the front, which is desirable in a material as sheer as voile. In the skirt, side plaits dispose of an abundance of fullness with very pleasing results.

The sash is of narrow ribbon tied at the center back and trimmed across the front with ribbon rosettes.

Gov. Walton Favors Text Book Bill

the senate amount to $28,367,660. 60, J. Carlock, chairman of the senate appropriations committee announced today.

Senator Carlock included in the total the appropriation of approximately fourteen million dollars provided in the institutional bill as it came from the senate appropriations committee.

If the institutional bill should pass the senate with house figures the total appropriations would amount to more than thirty million dollars, Senator Carlock said. There is every indication that items in the institutional bill will be increased over the amount fixed by the appropriation committee. The first first section measure adopted today boosted it by $80,000.

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 24.—There is no cause for censure of any public servant of the state in connection with the recent release of Xenophon Jones from the state penitentiary under guard, the special house investigating committee reported today.

The committee however, condemned the conduct of J. Butler French, Oklahoma City oil operator, who instituted the move to obtain the wealthy negro's release, declaring that he sought unsuccessfully to make himself the recipient of a reward of $10,000 for his services.

Failing to obtain service on James A. Harris, republican national committeeman for Oklahoma, who was wanted for questioning responsible for the delay in reporting to the house, the committee set out.

PALESTINE NOT FERTILE LANDS

Consul Claims Soil is not in Paying Condition for Agriculture.

(By the Associated Press)
JERUSALEM.—Addison E. Southard, American Consul here, has just completed an exhaustive survey of the commercial and agricultural resources of Palestine. He has also investigated the subjects of port development, hydro-electric resources, irrigation and banking. In view of the optimistic reports issued by those seeking to make the Jewish National Home in Palestine a success, it is interesting to note that the American Consul entertains serious doubts regarding the agricultural and industrial resources of the country.

"Approximately one-third of the area of Palestine proper," says he, "or roughly 3,000 square miles, is barren land capable of little, if any, agricultural development. Fully an additional fifth of the total area, or more than 2,000,000 acres, has definite agricultural possibilities; but irrigation and other more or less expensive requirements will considerably prejudice the profits to be obtained from farming. The country is sparsely settled, and much of the land has been left fallow for centuries. At the present time the estimated area under cultivation in all Palestine amounts to fewer than 1,000,000 acres."

American business men who recently visited Palestine have found confirmation of Mr. Southard's observations in the great stretches of rocky and barren land. Only in the broader valleys and plains is it at all fertile, and the Arabs who form 85 percent of the population, have a difficult time eking out an existence. It can hardly be expected, therefore, these American travelers believe, that the Jews of the world will be attracted to the so-called "National Home" set up in the Holy Land by Great Britain.

The number of Hebrews who have come to settle here from the United States and other countries is relatively small. Of the 700,000 population of Palestine, only 11 percent are Jewish. Those particular outposts for which Hebrews throughout all times have shown an especial predilection—clothing manufacture, mercantile, banking and money-changing—are singularly lacking in the Holy Land. Industrial activity is almost negligible. Hand-growing and souvenir-making are the principal pursuits.

Most of the Jews who have left America for what they believed to be "The Promised Land" have found it in Palestine difficult and expensive. Many of them have engaged in small farming and fruit culture. Others have set up small retail stores in Jaffa, Haifa, and other large towns. The main streets of Jerusalem and Jaffa now resemble busy retail centers in the East side of New York. The Hebrew and English languages vie with Arabic as the prevailing tongues in the commercial marts.

"Palestine," says Consul Southard in his report, "is a small country without demonstrated natural resources of any particular importance. Its population is small and will not for some years possess any considerable purchasing power. Within its own limits it will produce or consume little as compared with the average world political or commercial unit."

The Consul's statement that the local population neither produces nor consumes much explains why the world Jew has such reluctance in colonizing the Holy Land. The Arab population is proverbially poor and produces little beyond a few staples of the farm and vineyard. The Jew, who is essentially a merchant and trader, finds it impossible to live off the Arab, and he finds it equal-

Oil News

That Ada is the center of an oil developing campaign seldom equalled for scope of territory and intensity of drilling appears from the number of wells going down in proven territory and the number which are drilling and are to drill in wildcat territory.

The new wells in Seminole county are only thirty-five miles from Ada and only about fifteen miles north of the northern part of this county. These producers from deep sand have increased the interest in deep drilling south of the river, and indications are now several deep tests will go down this spring and summer.

Arrangements for the deep test northwest of Francis have been held up for the present. Whether these will be perfected immediately cannot now be determined.

Forde Harrison of Allen says a deep test is to be made between Allen and Calvin, though he did not know the name of the company. It is to start 24 inches. The hole is to go 1,000 feet if necessary.

The Coal county territory is to get a good play present activity indicates. Most of this territory is only from twenty to thirty-five miles from Ada.

In the Allen field, the Homaokla company has the rig up and is moving the tools in for a well in section 33-5-8.

In Coal county, Bearman has a well 790 feet deep in section 34-2-9, which is reported to be making 10,000,000 feet of gas daily. This well is further south than any well in southeastern Oklahoma to cause any interest for two or three years.

Just north of this, well in section 20-3-10 on the Childs farm, the Columbia Oil company has a good showing of gas at 900 feet.

R. C. Morrison and others in section 11-3-11, north of the old gas field, have a fifteen inch hole 890 feet. The well has been shut down for months. It is reported that this company has bought the old gas field and will put in a carbon plant either in the field or in Coffeyville.

The Kimberly interests are drilling in section 35-5-11 at 935 feet in Hughes county.

The Haskell interests are building a rig for a test in section 13-4-11.

It is impossible to exploit his own people.

American visitors usually leave Palestine with the conviction that if it were not for its historical and Biblical associations and traditions, the Holy Land would figure little in the world's life. There is a firm belief among disinterested Americans that Great Britain would willingly withdraw from its costly occupation of the country if it were not for security of the Suez Canal, which is only 200 miles away.

King Tut's Vault May Yet Have Written History of Days of Pharaohs of Nile

VALLEY OF THE KINGS, LUXOR, Egypt.—Among the wealth of antiquities found in the tomb of Tutankhamun no trace has yet been discovered of a single scrap of papyrus that will throw any light on the obscure history of Egypt during that monarch's reign. Indeed, not even the hieroglyphic inscriptions and pictorial legends on the walls of the mortuary chamber reveal any intelligible facts concerning the life and achievements of the King who ruled the Nile 1,350 years before Christ.

Most of the 30 or more "other royal tombs in the valley of the Kings are adorned with innumerable sculptures, bas-reliefs, paintings and tablet illustrative of the periods in which the Pharaohs reigned. These inscriptions and paintings are, moreover, of a much higher merit than the few which have been found in Tutankhamun's death chamber. They have been of invaluable service to the American and British archaeologists in piecing together, with the aid of papyrus documents found in the tomb, the fragmentary history of the Old and New Empire.

Perhaps next in value to the mummy and sarcophagus of Tutankhamun himself are some thirty-five sycamore chests found in the funeral repository. The archaeologists are hopeful that some of these may contain documents of papyrus which will reveal some new facts regarding the little known events of the departed sovereign's short reign. If found, they will be given to Prof. James Breasted, the great Egyptian scholar of the University of Chicago, for decipherment and interpretation.

The news from London that the influence of the British government may be exerted to prevent the removal of Tutankhamun's body from its burial place to a museum was received here with satisfaction and relief by Egyptians and others who are averse to what they term "body snatching" by foreign invaders. They declare there is as little justification for disturbing the ashes of the ancient Pharaoh as there would be in removing the dead from one of the royal tombs in Westminster Abbey.

In this connection it is pointed out that King Amenophis, who is interred a short distance from Tutankhamun, specially requested, by a written tablet in his sepulchral chamber, that his ashes be not disturbed. The plea, however, was not observed until the British authorities in Egypt intervened and succeeded in having the King's body returned from the Carlo museum to its original resting place in the Royal Necropolis. It is now the only royal mummy visible to tourists. It rests in the heart of the living rock of the Libyan mountains, through which a great tunnel was pierced by the ancients.

For this year is predicted in the report because of an increase in the number of hogs on farms and the small supply of corn on hand. It is noted that the soil is in fine shape and the moisture content is sufficient in most corn sections to bring the crop above ground quickly."

HOPE HIGH OVER STATE CROP AREA

Claim Prosperity Rides Over Agricultural Oklahoma Reports Show

(By the Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 19.—Hope rides high over agricultural Oklahoma. A new season is at hand, and the farm work it brings is already under way. Crops are being sown in practically all sections of the state, according to a report made public today by Carl H. Robinson, federal agricultural statistician attached to the state board of agriculture.

Corn planting has begun in some places, and will become general over the state by the end of the month, Robinson said. What crop prospects are good. Oats are practically all in the ground, except in very dry districts, he added, and some are already showing green.

Larger acreages than last year are expected in corn, cotton and broom corn, according to the report. Hay supplies are getting low and native pastures have not yet started to grow, except in favored localities, Robinson said, and alfalfa is "greening up" and feed is expected to prove ample to carry the stock along.

An increase in the corn acre-

county. "Taken all in all, the prospects for an average crop are good," the report said.

Germination of the oats already sown is also insured by the recent rains, Robinson said. Plowing for the planting of kaffir corn is progressing and a report from Comanche county says planting of this crop will begin there next week.

With reference to cotton prospects the report said: "The greater percentage of the cotton land has been turned and in some sections the land is ready for planting as soon as the ground warms up. Indications are for an increased acreage."

Abnormally high prices paid for broom corn last year have encouraged trial acreages in new territory and increased acreages in the former broom corn territory, according to the report, which adds, "the growing of broom corn will be extended beyond the limits devoted to its culture last year."

White potatoes are beginning to be planted in all the southern potato sections of the state, the reporter said, and sweet potatoes are being "bedded." Considerable millet and sudan grass is expected to be grown in the Osage country this year. The old crop of native pasture has not started to grow yet except in a few favorable sections," Robinson wrote. "Moisture is most ample in some sections and indications are for early pasturage this year. Wheat pasture is good now, especially in the north central portion of the state. The condition of pasture in the Osage country is much better than over the state as a whole."

"In the northwest, especially in extreme parts, the soil is still very dry. Showers have fallen, but they were not sufficient to break the long-continued drought. The western tier of counties is also needing moisture. The remainder of the state has had abundant rainfall for present needs. In fact some of the central and eastern counties have an excess of moisture and farm operations have been suspended until the soil becomes dry enough to work."

Skiers of Kristiania, Norway, travel to the Holmenkollen skiing ground in a special trolley car, their skis being chained to the outside.

Details of Annual Confederate Meet To Be Announced

Capt. Wyatt Webb is in receipt of information that the fare for Confederate Veterans to the New Orleans Convention of April 11, 12 and 13 will be a one-way fare for the round trip. It had been previously announced that a one cent a mile fare would be given, but this was in error.

Captain Webb also says the arrangements for the route have not been made. It was first thought they would go to Fort Worth and go with the rest of the Oklahoma delegation from that point. This arrangement may not be carried through, however. An announcement of the route will be given as soon as it is learned.

Today is the fourth anniversary of the present pastor and we are very anxious to have all the members present to hear the message. These have been happy years to me and it has been a joy to have been associated with such a splendid body of Christians in a common task. The subject today will be "Looking both ways four years." We will glance backward this morning and look at some of the accomplishments during the past four years and then look forward to some of the things we expect to accomplish during the next four years.

The Sunday School will begin at 9:45. We are expecting to have above five hundred people today and extend to you a cordial invitation to be one of them.

The Men's Bible Class will meet at the McSwain theatre at 9:45. Mr. L. A. Ellison is the teacher and you will greatly enjoy hearing him. Let's greet him with more than a hundred men this morning. If you have not been in the habit of attending Sunday School make a start today.

Mr. Longly Fentem will have charge of the choir at the church services. We emphasize congregational singing. If you sing we would be delighted to have you become a member of the choir.

The B. Y. P. U.'s will meet at 6:30. They have arranged splendid programs and all the young people are urged to attend. A part of the time will be given in hearing from our messengers who attended the recent State B. Y. P. U. Convention at Tulsa.

The evening services will begin at 7:45. The pastor will speak on the subject, "The Mode and the Significance of Baptism according to the New Testament." We are very anxious to have all the new members present and all others who would like to hear free and frank discussion of this subject without any abuse of those who hold views differing from ours. At the close of the services we will baptize thirty people.

The public is cordially invited to attend any or all of our services.
Clyde Calhoun Morris, Pastor.

The Twelfth Annual Meeting of the Woman's Missionary Conference will convene in Okmulgee, Wednesday, April 18, 1923. There will be executive meetings in the morning of the 18th and the Conference will open at 2 p. m. closing on Friday after the evening program.

Mrs. L. B. Norton, 315 E. 7th Street, Okmulgee, is the general chairman and all delegates names are to be sent to her.

Mrs. C. E. Castle, Pres.
Mrs. S. L. Smith, Secy.
A memorial to Miss Bennett will be built at Scarritt. This school was peculiarly her own work largely, and it will be fitting that Southern Methodism should let the Memorial to this great leader take the form of some building at Scarritt that will more greatly carry on the work to which she gave so richly of her time, talent and prayers.

The Mission Study Circle of the east side will meet with Mrs. Butcher at 721 E. 9th, Monday at three. The South side circle will meet with Mrs. R. C. Jeter at the same hour. The Young Matrons will meet at Mrs. J. L. Barringer with Mrs. Turner as hostess. There will be a meeting of the executive committee at Mrs. Jeter's at 2.

HOLSTEIN COWS COP NEW RECORD

Chicago, March 24.—The 1922 leaders in the seven classes of different ages of pure-bred Holstein cows produced an average of 29,055 pounds of milk and 1,250 pounds of butter in one year. In the full age and senior four-year classes previous records were broken. According to a report of the national headquarters of the Holstein-Friesian Association.

During the year, 18,000 cows were tested for production and since the establishment of the official test 95,000 cows have passed the production required for their age, the report stated. All tests are supervised by state colleges of agriculture. Last year, 113,772 Holsteins were registered with the association.

In the full age class, May Walker Oille Homestead, owned by the Minnesota Holstein Company at Austin, displaced Dutchees Skylark Ormsby, a Washington state cow, with a production of 31,610 pounds milk and 1,523 pounds butter. Grahamholm Colantha Pauline Segis, a Minnesota cow displaced another Minnesota cow in the senior four-year class with a record of 34,291 pounds milk and 1,426 pounds butter.

In the junior four-year class, Mamsell Johanna, owned by C. L. Spaulding of Warren, Minnesota, stood highest for the year with a record of 31,515 pounds milk and 1,317 pounds butter. Countess Matador Segis, the senior three-year champion from Washington, produced 25,817 pounds milk and 1,159 pounds butter. Junior three-year champion, Princess Malda Veeman, owned by Earl Graham of Compton, California, produced 29,629 pounds milk and 1,154 pounds butter. Colony Grebega Valgessa, senior two year champion produced 28,371 pounds milk and 1,095 pounds butter. She is owned by Colony farm, Escondido, B. C. In the junior two-year class Daisy Aggie Ormsby, owned by John Erickson of Waupaca, Wisconsin, was high cow for the year. She produced 22,151 pounds milk and 1,088 pounds butter.

Vilhjalmar Stefansson, Arctic explorer, has been granted a degree of master of arts at Harvard University.

BUILD NOW

Ada Enjoys Building Progress

Over Million Dollars to be Spent Here in Gigantic Program for City and Residence Buildings To be Erected During Season

APPROXIMATELY a half million dollars worth of construction work is now under way in Ada, according to the best information available. If forecasts by those who are close to building affairs can be taken as an index of what is to be done this Spring and Summer, the 1923 building program for Ada will exceed a million dollars and approach a million and a half. This, it is believed, will exceed that of any city in the state under twenty thousand inhabitants excepting the big oil centers.

The work at the cement plant is the largest single piece of construction work. The Memorial Hall, the Presbyterian church building, the paving of West Main and many residences make up the bulk of the present program.

What is in the immediate future? The Christian church congregation is planning to begin a new house of worship. This will run in the neighborhood of $75,000. The Baptist expect to begin work on their new $100,000 structure before the end of the year.

A compress which will cost many thousand dollars is to start in a short time and be ready for us this Fall. This will mean the addition of several families to the city and new residences will be required.

If the new glass factory locates here, from 100 to 150 new families will come in at once, necessitating the largest number of residences to be erected at one time in the history of the city. Of course, there is a possibility that the factory will not come, but the indications are quite encouraging.

The East Central State Teachers College is scheduled to get a new building from the present legislature. This appropriation will be available after July 1, and this building ought to be pretty well along before the "frost is on the pumpkin."

The oil developments continue at a fair pace, and the gross production of the county is on the upgrade. With the bringing in of the new pool at Wewoka, interest in the deep sands here has been intensified. Already arrangements have been made for a deep test at Bebee, and several deep tests are to be made in the northern and northeastern part of the county. The oil activity is adding much to the industrial and commercial life of the city, and as it grows this city will grow and more building will result.

The exact form of the new highway bill now before the legislature is not yet known, but it is generally believed that as a result of that measure considerable road building will result. This county will be in line for a good road building campaign. Especially desirable will be a bridge across the Canadian river, but it cannot be ascertained at this time whether this will be possible in 1923.

If enough cows are put on the farms of the county, a creamery will be erected by the Southern Ice and Utilities Company. This will mean more building not only in a plant, but in homes for the workers as well.

The Frisco railroad is increasing the force at the local yards, this number already running about seventy. It is believed more will be added from time to time.

The local brick plant has been enlarged and improved until it is one of the best in the state. This same company is anxious to put in a plant to manufacture a superior grade of face brick, but the right kind of shale has not yet been located.

These are but a few of the building project in sight. It all means that Ada is to grow, instead of standing still or going back. Real estate has slumped little even during the years of general business depression. Real estate men say the values cannot be expected to depreciate any more, but on the contrary will rise faster than in the past.

This section of The News was arranged to give you a comprehensive view of the situation as it is now. The advertisers are giving your their message to reinforce ours. We believe that 1923 will be a banner year for the little queen city of Southern Oklahoma, and also that a building program of homes at this time would be wise and would help the city as well as every person who builds a home of his own.

LUMBER DEALERS SAY SALES GOOD

Managers Claim Business Now
Period Last Year.

The lumber dealers of Ada report that business is better than at this time last year, although the town cannot be said to be on a boom. A great many minor improvements are being made by property owners and considering the general business conditions, the number of dwellings in course of erection is all that could be expected. Also, some building is going on in the rural districts. Of these the residence of Mrs. Bruno Mayer near Conway, is probably the best. This is a modern bungalow with electric lights, plumbing and running water that it is said will cost around $4,000.

The total cost of building projects now in course of construction in Ada and those already assured, runs well up into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. The improvements at the cement plant, the convention hall and Presbyterian church, already in progress together with the Waples-Platter wholesale house and compress already assured, besides the residences make a total that runs well into six figures. If to this is added the Hale-Halsell wholesale house recently completed, the figures are still more impressive. Indications are that both the Baptist and Christian churches will have new buildings under way before the end of the year.

Just what the new buildings at the cement plant will cost is not known. The memorial hall will cost $110,000, the Presbyterian church $50,000, the compress $75,000 and the Waples-Platter building may cost some $40,000 or $50,000. This building will probably be under construction within the next two or three weeks, the lots west of the Santa Fe tracks having already been cleared for it.

Many Residences Started.

Of the residences under construction, the West home on East 12th will contain some 6 or 7 rooms.

A. T. McAnnally is building a 4 or 5 room house on West 7th.

W. C. Woods is building a 5-room residence in Arlington addition.

A. D. Beryl completed a 4 or 5 room house three or four weeks ago.

J. G. Witherspoon is building a two-story home on East 12th.

Fred Bowles completed a 5 or 6 room house on East 15th last week.

Charley Johnson recently completed a 5-room residence on West 15th.

Roy Givens is building a 5-room

A visit to East Central Teachers College at Ada last week was all of a revelation. The present condition of that popular institution is a part of the miracle wrought here in Oklahoma during the past fifteen years. The most noticeable change is the remarkable increase in enrollment, but there are many other evidences of progress and improvement.

When the student body assembles in the college auditorium for chapel exercises it looks very much like a Summer term meeting, inasmuch as the Summer enrollment has always been the peak enrollment. The enrollment just now registers at 960—the largest by far that East Central has ever enjoyed. This does not include the pupils in the Training School nor students taking correspondence or extension work. If all these are included the school has an enrollment of more than 1600 for the present year. And this for a teachers college that is less than fifteen years old.

Another noticeable change apparent to one familiar with East Central and its past history is the marked difference in the average age of the students. A few years ago—only four years ago in fact—the students were men and women. Now as a rule they are boys and girls. President Linscheid states that the average age today is 19 years and 2 months. This change house on East 13th.

Mrs. Johnson is having two 5-room houses built on the site of

Gov. Byrd's old home on East 13th.

Joe Morse is remodeling and enlarging his home on West 8th.

Another project that is costing considerable money is the ball park. The concrete footings are in and work is now under way on the fence and grandstand.

T. B. Blake recently purchased a lot on West Main on which he expects to erect a commodious building to house his bottling work his business having reached a point where more room will be needed in the near future. He states, however, that he is not able to say at this time just when he will begin building operations.

Manila Practices Economy

(By the Associated Press)

MANILA, P. I., March 24.—For the first time in many years the city of Manila started the new year with a surplus of $165,500 realized by a process of strict economy. During several years past there either has been a deficit or an overdraft.

The expenditures for 1922 amounted to $3,560,000, which was $260,000 less than in the previous year.

There is no cure for the follies of youth but age.

is largely due to the heavy increase in high school graduations in Oklahoma. It is also partly due to the fact that students now take their normal training before beginning to teach, whereas they formerly taught for a number of years before beginning or finishing their professional training.

Not only is the attendance greater than ever before, but the proportion of students taking advanced work is greater than ever before. Both the senior and junior classes are the largest that ever enrolled in the Ada institution. More teachers are now doing practice work in the training department than ever before. And apparently the proportion of men enrolled is greater than ever before.

The low average age of the students might possibly lend force to the old argument heard so often from the unfortunates that our state schools are nothing but local high schools for the communities in which they are located. Indisputable figures, however, explode this argument insofar as East Central is concerned. The city of Ada maintains one of the best high schools in Oklahoma, and figures on file in the office of the state superintendent of education in Oklahoma City show that in proportion to population Ada has more students in her high school than are enrolled in Ardmore, Guthrie or Sapulpa.

Official Walton Inaugural Barbecue

A marvelously complete, amusing and absorbingly interesting pictorial history of practically every event leading up to and including "Jack" Walton's now world-famous inaugural barbecue. A dramatization produced by Dan V. Lackey, will be presented Monday and Tuesday at the American theatre. It is a moving photograph of ourselves and our neighbors as we participated in these ceremonies which were the most unique in America's political record.

Demonstrations that took place during the final days of the general election campaign, stupendous affairs, thrilling rabbit chases and possum hunts in which hundreds of animals were slain for the barbecue feast; events in which whole towns and communities took part in preparation for the climaxing ceremony; the feast itself at which scores of thousands of persons were fed their fill; the governor's inauguration; Indian dances, contests, parades and pageants—the countless multitudes of things that were done preliminary to and at the inaugural ceremonies are shown in this production with well-nigh perfect photography.

Some of the shots are superior from an artistic standpoint, and in one or two instances the cameraman injected rich comedy into the theme.

BRITISH SPINNERS NOW AT WAR WITH DYERS

MANCHESTER.—A protest has been made to the Master Cotton Spinners Association by British dyes against the action of the spinners in sending their goods to Belgium to be dyed. The trade has been affected seriously in Lancashire.

The manufacturers claim they are able to send the goods to Belgium to be dyed and then send them back to England at less cost than to have the work done here, and refuse to change their plans unless the price is decreased.

cities that have no state institution and that are similar in population to the city of Ada.

The bulk of East Central's students come from the East Central District, which is composed of the counties of Ponotoc, Johnson, Coal, Garvin, McClain, Pott, Seminole, Hughes, Oklahoma, Murray and Oklahoma. But every section of Oklahoma and a number of other states have representatives in the present student army at East Central.

The schedule of classes for the second semester shows a total of 102 classes daily. The number of pupils enrolled in each department is as follows: Agriculture 269; Drawing 63; Botany and Zoology 141; Chemistry and Physics 25; Education 384; English 585; Foreign Languages 64; History 394; Home Economics 40; Mathematics 179; Music 65; Physical Education 231; Penmanship 38.

The above figures are illuminating if one will only bear in mind that East Central has today practically the same teaching force that she had ten years ago. Recent figures showed that while the enrollment in this school for teachers had increased nearly 300 per cent the faculty had been increased only 11 per cent. The 585 English students mentioned above, were until a few weeks ago taught by two teachers. And this at a time when the study of English is being neglected the country over and in a state that made no ad valorem tax levy for 1922. It is worthy of the taxpayers' consideration that not one of them paid one penny of ad valorem taxes to support East Central for the current year.

NEW ENGLISH BIBLE IN OLD ENGLISH BIBLES

BOSTON, March 22.—Bibles that date back three hundred years are not uncommon in New England, where families here treasured the volumes for many generations. One of these bibles was printed in England in 1599 by "the deputies of Christopher Barker, printer to the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty." It is owned by Clarence Chesney, of Norwood, and has been in his family for generations.

Another bible, owned by Fred H. Harris, of Norfolk Downs, and published in London by "Robert Barker, printer to the King's Most Excellent Majesty" in 1614, has been in the Harris family since 1630.

Mrs. P. B. Laskey, of Marlborough, has a bible 232 years old, and Samuel J. Wilde, of Boston, has in Cambridge, England, in 1618.

It has been called to my attention that parties have asked donations in the interest of passage of a state bonus. The Norman Howard Post, American Legion, does not endorse such action and does not solicit financial aid on any such proposition. ELBERT REED 3-25-11 Post Commander

Convention Building to be
in Early Fall.

The erection of the Memorial Convention Hall is one of the largest building projects now under construction and boosts the expenditures for building purposes by $110,000. In the end it will furnish a fitting monument to the sacrifices of Pontotoc county's World war heroes.

The hall will be completed during the latter part of July or early August. Legion officials have been assured and plans have been arranged for the use of the hall on dates following the completion of the building.

At present brick masons are making rapid strides on the walls of the structure, the basement and first floor work having been practically completed. The remainder of the month and most of the next will be required to erect the walls of the building and add finishing touches.

A full crew of employees have been kept busy constantly during the favorable weather of the past weeks and it is believed that the contractors will not be further delayed by inclement weather during the month.

Several days of working time were lost during the latter part of February and early in March because of rains, which prevented the contractors in the plans for completing the hall late in June or early July as it had been originally stated.

The erection of the Memorial Convention Hall followed an active campaign in the city and was pushed through by the efforts of loyal members of the American Legion. Further delay was caused in the letting of the contract.

While the property of the Convention Hall will be placed in the hands of the Norman Howard Post American Legion, other municipal organizations will have a part to play in the affairs of the municipal building. Public entertainments, speakings and other affairs will be held there. The Norman Howard Post, American Legion, will establish club and meeting rooms in the building, which will cost approximately $3,000.

Excavation for the construction of the Memorial Convention Hall began in December but work was delayed at the offset by inclement weather. Work is being done under the supervision of Hill and sons contractors.

Few cities in the state can boast of convention halls or a municipal building to compare with the Ada structure and people of the city of Ada are to be complimented on the forward step they are taking to creating a closer municipal gathering spirit and also in erecting a fitting memorial to the ex-service man.

Parish Chapel
A real norther visited this community Sunday and Saturday night which killed the peach crop for this year and froze the early gardens.

School closed here Tuesday on account of sickness and won't open any more until the summer term begins.

Misses Gladys and Bernice Metcalf and Blanche Wood visited school at Summers Chapel Friday afternoon.

Miss Una Meredith who is sick with "flu" is reported some better. Also Miss Virgie Maddox is better. Brother Owens preached here Saturday night but church was omitted Sunday night on account of bad weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lamb were in Ada Saturday. Miss Irene Cantrell spent from Saturday until Monday with Miss Blanche Wood.

Howard Wood who has been sick was able to be out again Monday. Misses Gertrude and Zela Pennington have the flu. Also Mrs. Frona Pennington and two children are sick.

Mrs. Randolph Tucker is very sick.

TULSA, March 25.—High school commencement here will begin May 23, when the senior class play will be presented. It has been announced. According to Miss Isabella Roman, director of dramatics, the play to be given will probably be "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Tryouts for the play are to be held early in April. Two performances will be given here.

Build With Brick

Dollars that Do Not Shrink

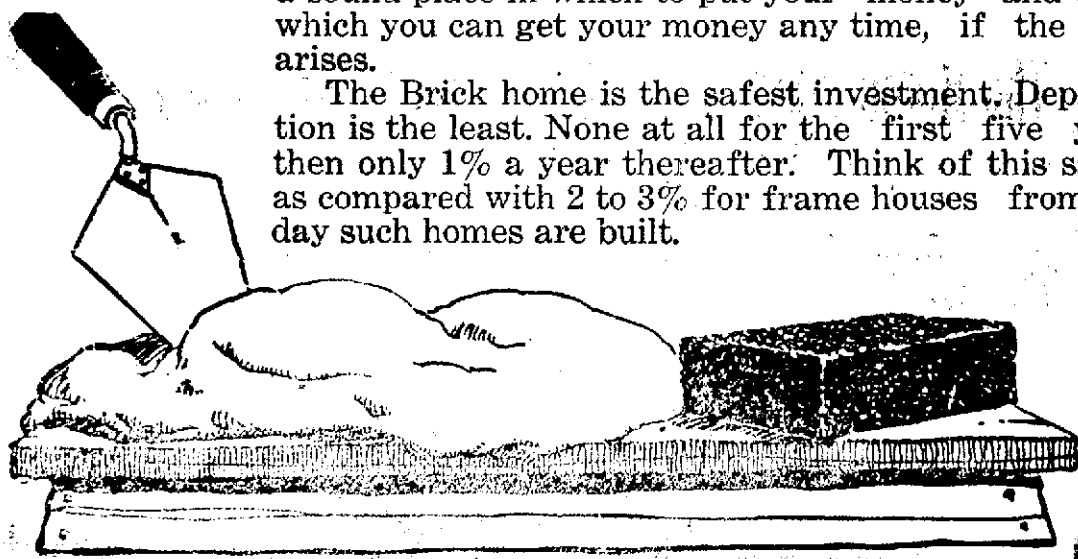

"What is my home going to be worth in 5 years, 10 years, or 20 years?" the shrewd home builder asks himself today.

"It may be necessary for me to sell. What will my house be worth when I have to dispose of it?"

These are questions every home builder should consider. Don't look at home building in the light of today only—look ahead.

Consider your home as you would a savings bank—a sound place in which to put your money and out of which you can get your money any time, if the need arises.

The Brick home is the safest investment. Depreciation is the least. None at all for the first five years, then only 1% a year thereafter. Think of this saving as compared with 2 to 3% for frame houses from the day such homes are built.

The Ideal Brick Hollow Wall —Its Saving

Ideal Wall is a new method of laying brick, which produces a hollow, dry wall and saves one-third of the expense of wall construction.

Without losing any of the advantages of solid masonry, such a permanence, stability, fireproofness, resistance to heat and cold, the Ideal Wall is the only masonry wall ever conceived that may safely be plastered directly on the Brick without the need for furring and lath.

The Ideal Brick Hollow Wall is made of standard brick.

Bag House and Storage Tanks to be Building Program of Local Plant.

Legislation or no legislation, the Oklahoma Portland Cement company of Ada is looking to the future with optimism and in the spirit building expansion.

The construction of a new bag house and twelve cement storage tanks is added proof to their assertion that they are looking to the future with the expansion of progress to be enjoyed by the city of Ada.

Although no definite figure can be obtained on the exact expense of the improvement at the cement plant, it is known that the improvement will mean an enormous expenditure and during its period of construction will make room for the employment of between 55 and 150 men and this in itself spells much in the prosperity felt through building.

The construction work now being done at the cement plant is under contract with the MacDonald Engineering company, with central offices at Chicago.

Superintendent Twichell stated that the project now under plans here is one of the largest projects for the year and at no other place in the entire southwest is there another project which equals in size and cost one under construction here.

While construction of twelve cement tanks will be postponed until the bag house is completed, plans are practically ready for the work and the blue prints indicate that the tanks will each be 35 feet in diameter and 80 feet high, an enormous construction needed only in a modern and busy plant, represented in the Oklahoma Portland Cement plant here.

The bag house now under construction measures 80 feet by 180 feet with an ample storage capacity. The structure will be one story high and made of concrete. Excavation of 15 feet was necessary for the construction of the bag house.

Construction of the bag house was begun January 15 but has suffered several set backs since the work was first started. Approximately 55 men are employed at the present job.

The construction of the cement storage tanks will depend on the rapidity in which the bag house is completed, owing to the fact that the storage tanks will be erected on the ground formerly occupied by the old bag house. It is believed that the bag house will be completed within the next three months, barring bad weather.

The construction of the cement storage tanks will require the employment of approximately 150 men, who will have an opportunity to work regularly through the period of the construction of the tanks.

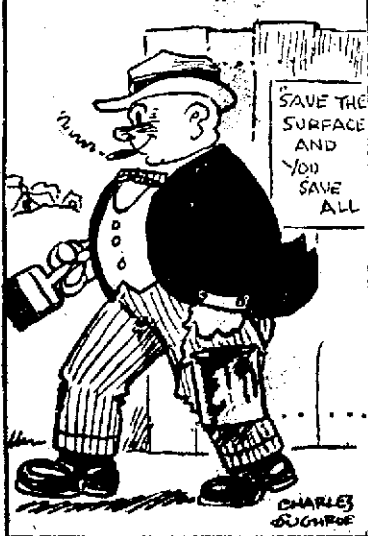

The sliding mould process will be used in the construction of the tanks, which makes the progress of the construction much faster. Frame work or the mould for the cement is raised after the concrete sets in this process until the top of the structure is reached and the base made.

The cement plant is making other improvements on their premises by the beautification of the grounds. Several men have been employed during the past few weeks to beautify the grounds and otherwise improve the general looks of the plant.

HONOLULU, T. H.—The report of the federal commission, which recently investigated labor conditions in the Hawaiian Islands in connection with the resolution pending in Congress to permit the importation of otherwise ineligible aliens to counteract an alleged labor shortage, was subjected to considerable criticism by the Japanese language newspapers here, according to translations on file with the territorial attorney-general.

The report said the commissioners had found no labor shortage in the pineapple or sugar industries, but that a shortage was apparent in the rice industry. The Japanese newspapers objected, particularly in their editorials, to the paragraph of the report which stated that attention should be called especially to the menace of alien domination, and that the present policy of parcel adoption and the importation of "picture brides" by the Japanese should be stopped because these practices have defeated the purpose of the "gentleman's agreement" to curtail common labor by admitting the supply to such an extent that it will soon overwhelm the territory, numerically, politically and commercially. The menace from a military standpoint can be verified fully by referring to the records of repeated federal departments. If these islands are to remain American, an assured commercial, political, industrial, commercial, social and educational life must also be American.

The Nippon Jiji expressed regret that "the members of the labor commission have swallowed the wicked propaganda of the interests and have based on the alleged Japanese menace in their report. We did not believe that the commission which investigated the actual conditions would make such a report. This is another instance of the policy of reckless propaganda, of men who care only for the end and not for the means." The Hawaii Hochi said that the report will "phase the capitalists, and it impresses one the Chinese coolies will be imported." Like the Nippon Jiji it believes that the commission "swallowed the materials fed to it by the agents of the sugar planters."

The Hochi continued: "The fact that the labor problem have distorted the facts and presented the false argument of Japanese domination has completely shattered the writer's strong faith in the labor leaders who, he believed, would never misrepresent the truth. In all classes there are honest and disinterested men. But the writer did not believe this applied to the leaders of labor organizations, which style themselves the creators of a new age."

The Hawaii Shimpu attacked the declaration of the report that the Japanese control the building trades as well as most of the small stores of Hawaii.

"It was pointed out that there are 177 Japanese merchandise stores as compared with 56 American and 29 Japanese theaters-companies against 6 American," the Shimpu said. "How ridiculous to compare an American firm like American Factors, or T. H. Davies and Co., with a small Japanese store, or to compare the new Hawaii or Princess theater with the Asahi or Park Japanese theaters."

"The report, after all, is nothing but misrepresentation, as far as the Japanese problem is concerned."

"Laborers in Hawaii can rest assured that the labor organizations on the mainland will not sanction a measure which will be of great advantage or benefit to the capitalists. The so-called Japanese menace is most annoying to the Japanese laborers here, but since the report has no material effect on the laborers they should not be restless and should keep up their movement for higher wages."

ROME.—Doctors of medicine of all nations to the number of 200 have been invited to join an excursion this summer to the principal thermal resorts of Italy. The journey will last a fortnight, begin in Naples, Medinot, and end at Naples. Interpreters will accompany the medical men, who will have a special train at their disposal and be housed in the best hotels.

The tallest trees known are the Australian eucalyptus.

Tomorrow

Depends on Today

Your standing in the community, business success, friendship, happiness, influence, individual character and ability and even the store-house of memories for leisure hours in the after years—all hinge on the present.

Tracing every attainment back to its basic element—all paths lead to HOME.

The Home is the "background" of the individual, the taining school in the virtues and the mould that shapes the attitude towards life. The child reared in a home that is consistently furnished and fit for inspection develops a sincerity that nothing can gainsay. The memories of home largely influence a child's respect and affection for his parents.

Your ability to think clearly—to "dream true"—to build rightly—depends on your attitude towards HOME. For whatever theories and doctrines may rise and fall—the home is ever the foundation of real culture and progress.

Your business status is largely determined by the success of your home. There you gain both relaxation and inspiration. Those who know you judge you by it—not so much as expressive of your finances as of showing your inherent taste and good judgment.

If you have a friend that you have known for years, who has visited you in your home and entertained you in his—one who is bound to you by the ties of intimacy and held by mutual respect—truly you have a real friend. Are you choosing the friends of the future by your friendliness in the present?

When Today has merged into the Land of the Past—your backward thoughts in idle moments should be the happier, your outlook on life should be the more inspired, your material success the greater, because of your HOME now.

Permit this Association to assist you in making that dream come true—A HOME OF YOUR VERY OWN.

In so doing, you keep home money at home.

BUILDERS OF ADA ADD MANY HOMES

Residence Growth Phenominal
Since Founding of
City,

The true growth of any city is measured by the building prosperity in its residence section and this fact has led to the contention that Ada is claiming its record for prosperity in a steady addition of residence buildings.

The steady growth of residence sections of the city has been especially noticeable of late, while building permits issued during the past three months have not exceeded the general run many buildings have been postponed and started during the past month while others have been completed recently.

On the outskirts of Ada, where building lots are sold far reasonable prices, bungalows are making their appearance like magic and add to the home-owning population of Ada.

Practically the entire list of new homes under construction and completed recently have been built from material purchased exclusively in Ada and from Ada merchants. Lumber yards have made attractive offers to prospective home owners and furnishers and decorators have helped pave the way.

Businesses created in the surrounding cities by men working in Ada have been a great help to the city. The building of homes has been a steady process and the city has been able to keep up with the demand.

The building of concrete sidewalks began the latter part of 1908 and that in itself added much to the comfort of the citizens as they made their way to and from their places of business.

However, with the coming of the Frisco railroad building operations took on real life. Few of the early settlers of the town had much money and they had to content themselves with modest cottages until their finances improved. As the town grew in importance and money became easier to obtain, the enterprising citizens improved their surroundings accordingly. Larger and better houses began going up and the improvement in the class of residences kept pace with the increasing prosperity of the young city.

The building of concrete sidewalks began the latter part of 1908 and that in itself added much to the comfort of the citizens as they made their way to and from their places of business.

In as much as many people are much interested in the double program which we tried to give at Colbert school house we will say that it was not a success. The trouble lay in improper connection and not in the theory. Prof. J. O. Wood of the Teachers College was handicapped in that he did not know how the aerial had been connected and because he did not know several other things, which would have known had the scout executive not had another program on hand at the same time. We know, however, that it will be possible to phone programs out to school houses through the amplifiers, connected with the radio receiving set that it will be a success. We will try this in at least two places in the county on Easter Sunday. We appreciate very much Mr. E. A. Stearns assistance in this matter. A large crowd of people gathered at the school house and we were very much pleased.

Troop Four and Five had a meeting Thursday night and several of the boys took their second class tests. This troop will go to the lodge Saturday night.

The court of Honor meeting at the Baptist Church was very well attended. Lewis Thomas, Stanley Dean, N. T. Heard, Jr., Geo. Kitchell, and Donald Montgomery were awarded merit badges. The following men were present to attend the Court of Honor meeting: Prof. J. L. Germany and O. E. Parker of the high school and Prof. E. C. Wilson and Prof. John Hatchett of the Teachers College and Mr. R. L. Holcomb.

Prof. E. C. Wilson awarded second class badges to Marvin Goddard, L. Malcome Graves and Raymond Young and made a very appropriate speech.

Grateful Refugees in Greece Given Food, Garments, Medicine Would Erect Statue to America

The Piraeus, port of Athens, has had sections for the past several months which would have seemed American except for the aspect of the laborers. Eight American Red Cross warehouses have handled more than $2,600,000 worth of food, blankets, clothing and medicine for the relief of the 1,000,000 refugees who fled before the Turks and came in literal helplessness to the shores of Greece.

The photograph above shows Captain Paul H. Vincent, of Erie, Pennsylvania, director of the warehouse operations of the Red Cross in Greece, and a group of Athenian laborers carrying bundles of blankets, weighing 200 pounds each, for transshipment to the islands of the Aegean.

Under the direction of Colonel William N. Haskell, the emergency situation, so far as the actually needy are concerned and with the provision that American aid is tendered only where concentration is too great for local aid to suffice, is being fully met. Judge John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, ordered the initiation of the program when the first large bands of refugees were reported as arriving last autumn, and the extent of American help has increased steadily with the need.

An example of the appreciation

shown in Greece toward America's latest adventure in good will through the medium of the Red Cross, is contained in a recent editorial of the Patras, a leading Athens newspaper.

"We should erect on the most central square of the capital of Greece," the Patras said, "a great statue of Pendeli marble, symbolizing American philanthropy, American goodness, American altruism."

Unless some prolongation of the actual emergency appears, America will have concluded one more chapter in her great volume of charity abroad by the time this year's harvest is garnered. After the harvest, according to observers in Greece, the poverty which remains will be that of an intrinsically unworkable situation. By then the Greek nation will have found by actual effort just how many of the refugees can be absorbed into the country's normal life, and local charity will have had time to marshal its considerable resources to aid the war-sent guests. Acceptance by the American Red Cross of further obligation would entail, unless there was a promise somewhere of permanent solution, a charity extending indefinitely and outside the proper scope of the organization's disaster emergency funds, which are being used.

appropriate speech. Prof. J. L. Germany gave a very interesting talk to the scouts receiving their merit badges.

Prof. Hatchett gave a very fine and helpful talk on birds of Oklahoma. It is mighty fine of these teachers and business men to give of their time to the scouts.

The Odd Fellows lodge at Fitzhugh assisted by the Red Cross gave a very fine banquet to the Boy Scouts of Lawrence and of Fitzhugh at their lodge rooms Wednesday night. Prof. Oliver Johns of the Fitzhugh schools, who is scoutmaster had the scouts give a demonstration of scouting and put on an initiation of tenderfoot scouts before a large group of people.

The boys did fine in their demonstration and received compliments. Prof. Johns has done a lot of fine work for those scouts. Eleven tenderfoots were initiated and received in his bad-ness. Cosby Huddle of Lawrence and Sterling Price also were awarded merit badges by the Court of Honor.

The Francis scouts had a good meeting Thursday night. R. L. Payne, troop committeeman was present and made the scouts a talk. The Francis scouts are keen to take on some troop in a baseball game.

Mr. W. G. Moser says that he knows a fine place for the scouts to camp this summer near Reagan Oklahoma. Sounds good doesn't it scouts?

The Allen scouts will give a public program soon. These scouts are in the harness all the time and they will sure have the record for work this year. Mr. Snipes is giving much time to them.

We will have something interesting for the scouts next week on Friday night. Be sure and reserve the date for scouting.

COUNTY SCHOOLS EMPLOYING TEACHERS

Supt. Floyd states that a number of school districts have employed teachers for the coming year.

The school board of Colbert high school signed contracts with W. W. Jones, Mrs. Jones, their daughter, Miss Mabel and Miss Eunice McAnnally. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have taught at non Valley for the past eight years and Miss Mabel has been teaching there for the past few years.

Rocky Chapel has employed Prof. Howard and Miss Tiny Creech for another year.

Earlin Haskins and wife will be at Summers Chapel again next year.

The Bebee board has contracted with Roy Stegall for another year.

A. S. Graham and wife, now at Maxwell, will be at Pecan Grove next year.

G. Harris and wife will remain at Blue Mound.

Mr. Floyd reports a good meeting at Blue Mound Friday night in the interest of forming a union graded school in conjunction with Franks and another school the central high school to be at Franks. A number of signatures were placed on a petition in favor of the plan.

The eighth grade examinations will be held April 12 and 13 in the schools of the county having the largest eighth grade classes.

The tenth annual county track and field meet will be held at Ada April 13 and 14. The rules, regulations and program have been out for sometime and from responses received Mr. Floyd anticipates a rousing time as the number of schools participating has grown year by year.

RUSH SPRINGS, March 25.—The Oklahoma state chamber of commerce organized the Rush Springs chamber of commerce here this week, under the direction of W. T. Driftwood on the Stream of Life

By SYLVIA D. BELL

Though it was a hot Sunday morning in June, the bedroom curtains were drawn. Evidently the girls intended sleeping late to make up for what they had lost during the week. A thin stream of sunlight pushed its way between the curtains and the window; lazily crossing the room, it lightly touched the meager furnishings, resting for a moment on the silken hose and crepe dresses hastily flung on a chair, then passing on to the faces of the sleepers. Pretty girls, they were; the one a vivid auburn type, the other a demure brunette.

The humble room, contrasted with the silken garments and bobbed heads, spoke of lightness of character. The furniture was cheap and plain, the walls were bare of pictures and the two or three books on the table were of the dime novel variety. Evidently, every penny the girls earned was spent for clothes and amusements.

Someone in the next room was playing a phonograph, and strains of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," filtered through the thin partition. Susie, of the auburn hair, stirred restlessly, then hastily grabbing a book from the table next to the bed, threw it at a door which at one time connected the two rooms.

"For the love of Mike," she cried angrily, "can that prayer meetin' stuff, will yer? Don't you know that any self-respecting person wants ter sleep on a Sunday mornin' after jazzin' all the week?"

The music stopped as suddenly as if the book had really hit the machine and destroyed it. Susie expected an angry retort, but, instead, there was

absolute silence. In the painful stillness that followed, it seemed as if someone had been hurt. She almost felt as if she had killed something, and waves of deep emotion filled her. She remembered feeling that way once when, as a child, in a moment of anger, she had stamped her feet on a beautiful rose, crushing out all its beauty and fragrance.

She tried to sleep again, but now that her rest had been broken she could not seem to compose herself. Finally, her restlessness getting the better of her, she roused her companion.

"Did you ever hear of such an ignorantus?" she complained, "trying to pull that Billy Sunday stuff on two jazz hounds like us."

"Oh, it's a 'him,' is it? Bald head and wooden leg, I suppose, or else one of those 'la-de-de' chaps."

"You're on the wrong track, my dear," laughed Felice. "He's as spiffy a looking lad as you'd want to see."

"Well, spiffy or not, he'd better not step foot in my back yard," warned Susie. "There's no room for any angel face around me."

After a long pause, during which she completed her toilet and had started breakfast, she turned to regard Felice, who was rousing her cheeks and penciling her eyebrows.

"Say, Felice. Don't you ever get tired of this?" She flung her arms apart in a gesture which took in the emptiness of the room.

"Depends on what you mean by 'this,'" retorted Felice.

"Why, livin' in one room, gettin' meals on a one lung gas stove and bein' cooped up away from the birds an' butterflies an' flowers."

"Birds an' butterflies don't mean anything in my young life," Felice answered. "It's poached eggs that holds my interest just now. I'm hungry enough to eat a leather flapjack."

"But, Felice, you don't understand. You've never lived in the country. You don't know what a glorious feelin' it is to sit on the cool green grass at night an' watch the fireflies an' listen to the hum of hundreds of small insects. You feel so peaceful an' calm, an' the little breezes that come feel like the touch of angel wings."

"Guess that hymn rather got on your nerves, didn't it, dearie?" Felice paused in her rather elaborate toilet. "Your prayer meetin' leader went by the door just as you were recitin' your little ditty. Guess he took it in, all right. If you look out the window you might get a chance to give him the once over."

Susie looked out and saw a neatly dressed young man of medium height. As he passed below her, she noted that he was not handsome, though he was of the type that had some "style and pep," as she expressed it.

The girls were not troubled any more with hymns being played; but one morning a week later as Felice opened the door to go to work she discovered a large bunch of lady's-slippers and Solomon's-seals. On it was pinned a note. "For one who is fond of the country!" it said.

"Here, my charming Cinderella," laughed Felice. "I guess this is meant for you."

"Oh, how wonderful!" exclaimed Susie. "Where do you suppose they came from? We used to have some just like these in the woods back of our house."

"Woman's intuition tells me," smiled Felice, "that 'angel face' has been snoopin' around here."

"Do you really think so?" Susie faltered. "Do you think he would be so nice after me being so horrid to him?"

"Evidently he goes by the Bible and believes in returnin' good for evil," Felice moved toward the door. "Well, if I don't get a move on I'll be losin' my job. And, Susie, dear, don't do too much day dreamin' today or you'll lose yours. By-by, dearie."

Many times that summer, Susie found flowers outside her door; and there were chance meetings, too, by which she learned that the giver's name was Charlie Ellison and that he had lived with his aunt in the country until he came to the city to work.

"And he always goes to church on Sundays," marvelled Susie in a confidential chat with Felice. "I told him if he played hymns 'cause he was lonesome that we wouldn't mind hearin' 'em once in a while, only for goodness sake to wait until after 9 o'clock Sunday mornin'."

Somehow, Felice began to feel that there was something back of the friendship between Susie and Charlie. Susie did not accompany her to dances now. She said they did not interest her and she got worse and worse, according to Felice, until one Sunday morning she announced that she was going to church with Charlie.

"Now, look here," Felice began when Susie returned. "I want to know about this Charlie business. If you're goin' to hitch up with him I want to know it. I don't want to be left in the lurch like a discarded shoe."

"Felice, dear, did you ever hear of driftwood?" Susie questioned. "That's what the minister preached about this mornin'. I couldn't quite get what he was aimin' at so I whispered to Charlie an' asked him, an' Felice, that's what you an' I are—driftwood—driftwood on the stream of life. An' by an' by, if we keep on goin', we'll get caught on the reefs an' go to smash, an' no one'll know or care what becomes of us."

"So I made up my mind I wouldn't be driftwood any longer. I am goin' to be good, strong wood with a sound heart, so when the right time comes I can make a bright, cheery fire on Charlie's hearth. An' I want you to stop driftin' toward the reefs, too, Felice. There's some one waitin' for you to provide light an' warmth for him, an' you can't do it if you're not sound an' true."

Felice turned toward Susie and smiled. "Those hymns an' sermons certainly do have a queer effect on you, but you sure have got a way of reachin' a person's soul if they've got any. So I'll try to stop driftin', Susie, an' send out a few green leaves an' blossoms instead, for I know that driftwood is dead—at the heart."

Ancient Stone Writings.

The site of one of the earliest Christian monasteries in Ireland has been found at Mahee Island, Strangford Lough, near Belfast. The ruins have been identified as those of Nendrum monastery, mentioned in Malrea's "Life of St. Patrick," writing before 699 A. D.

Extensive excavations have been carried out and valuable material, including some stones with writing, the exact meaning of which has not yet been ascertained, have been unearthed. Some of the writings are believed to be of Danish origin.

In Gede's "Ecclesiastical History" it is recorded that in 634 Pope Honorius wrote to certain bishops of the Irish church about the Paschal controversy and Pelagian heresy, and one of the bishops mentioned in this letter is Crenous, bishop of Nendrum. The island of Nendrum was afterwards named Mahee, after a bishop of the monastery.

Over in Virginia on the golf course of the Washington Country club is a particularly harassing hole. It is one of those complex, nerve-racking, plaguing stretches of ground that are replete with trouble-making conditions. Some time ago the writer, while playing with Charlie Michaelson of the New York World, asked his colored caddy if he had ever served in like capacity for a certain very distinguished official. The youngster replied that he had, and when the scribe asked him what Mr. So and So had said when he came to that particular hole he replied: "Deed, boss, I'm sorry, sah, but mah mother don't let me use that kin' of language."—Washington Star.

FRISCO RAILROAD HAS LARGE FORCE IN ADA

The Frisco railway is now employing approximately seventy men and women for its various lines of activity in Ada. The freight and passenger departments have fifteen employees, the three train crews have sixteen, and the three section gangs working out of Ada carry about thirty men. The mechanical department, which now does considerable shop work here, employs eight men.

Auditors and other drop into the city every few days, and this really amounts to one or two other employees.

I. McNair, the agent, says it is impossible to give any accurate estimate of the payroll, as the number varies and the rate of pay also varies.

Other work is to be added in the near future, it is believed, and this item in the industrial life of the city will continue to grow.

The roadmaster and his secretary also make their home here now.

CUSHING, March, 25. Jewelry valued at $1,500 found spread on the ground in a downtown alley on a recent morning, marked the return of luck to S. V. Rigsby, traveling salesman, here. Rigsby left his sample cases in his automobile while he called on a customer. When he returned to the machine, one case, his personal property and the only un-insured case of the lot, was missing. Police said they believed their arrival frightened the robbers from the scene while in the midst of a division of the jewelry.

MARIE WANTS TO VISIT IN U. S.

BUCHAREST.—Queen Marie of Roumania hopes some time in the near future to realize her long-cherished wish to visit the United States. While political and economic conditions in Roumania are not so encouraging as they might be, the queen believes her people can spare her for a few months to enable her to accept the oft-tendered hospitality of the American people. Heretofore the marriage of her three eldest children, her own coronation and the continued unsettledness of internal affairs in Greater Roumania have kept the queen from crossing the Atlantic.
"I do not desire my visit to your country to be a hurried one," she said to the correspondent. "I want the Americans to feel I have come to see as many of them as possible, without distinction. And I want to see the United States from coast to coast. I have received hundreds of the most generous letters urging me to come. It is a journey upon which I have set my whole heart, and I hope before long that my ambition will be fulfilled."
"I have many American friends, and have kept in my heart an eternal gratitude for the way their Red Cross and other organizations helped us during and after the war. I want through them to know America's great heart, her sympathy and her ideals. I have worked hard in hand with the devoted American women you have sent to Roumania, and the remembrance of their aid to my people is a blessed one."
The queen extended a warm invitation to Americans to visit her country, saying they would be given a most cordial welcome at her hands. She said the mutual interest which America and Roumania feel in each other should be made a vital thing, and that she was eager to be the channel through which the sentiment of trust and affection between the two peoples should be maintained.
Samuel J. Hill, the road-builder of the Pacific Northwest and Colonel Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., have offered to conduct the queen on a tour throughout the United States. Mr. Hill accompanied the king and queen of the Belgians on their journey to America and also followed Marshal Joffre around the world. Colonel Anderson is an old-time friend of Queen Marie, having been identified with her in Red Cross work in Roumania during and after the war.

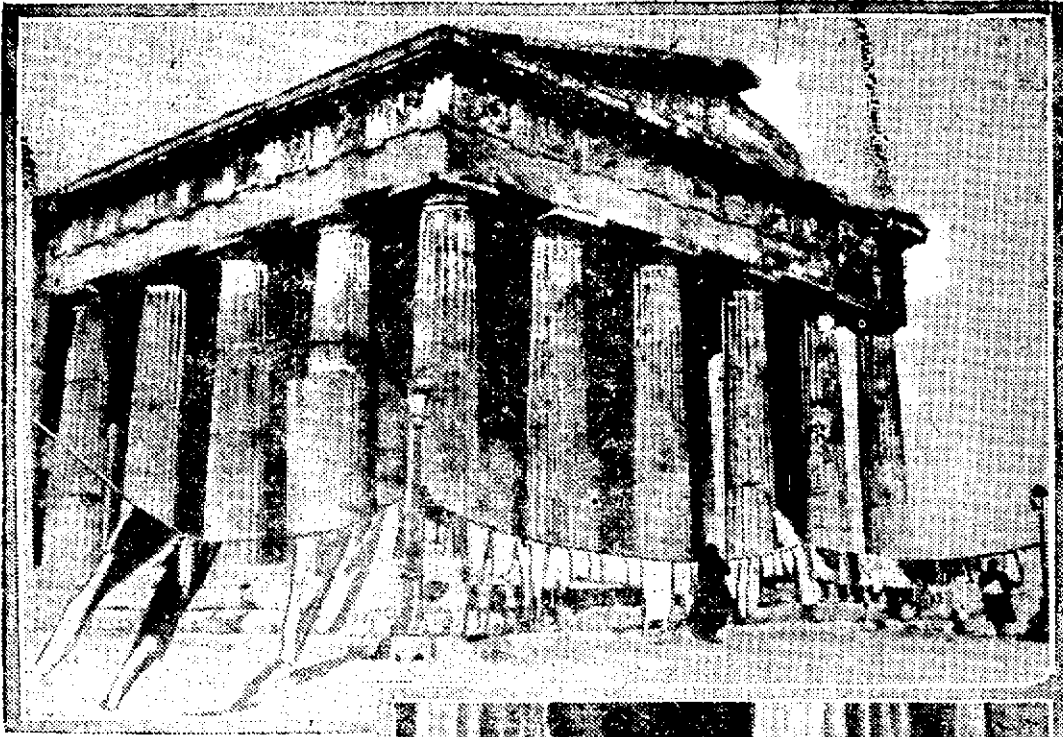

STREET TRAFFIC PLAN IS TALKED

CHICAGO, March 23.—Technical experts of the Chicago Plan Commission are working out a comprehensive street plan for the city that will segregate various kinds of traffic and provide specific streets for specified varieties of traffic.
One system of thoroughfares will be restricted to light rapid-moving vehicles and another to heavy slow-moving ones. The width of the streets will be adjusted to the types and volume of traffic they will be called upon to bear, and pavements of all streets will be especially designed to accommodate the kind of traffic that will use them.
An ingenious color scheme has been proposed which will compel traffic to use the proper streets. By this scheme anyone at any time can tell instantly whether a vehicle is on the proper street, and, if not, can report the violation of the ordinance to the proper city authority. The idea is that all trucks of similar capacity shall bear easily distinguishable signs of the same kind. For instance, all vehicles of five tons capacity would bear a red plate or sign. The streets over which such a truck could pass would be marked by signs bearing the same color. All concerns using vehicles of any description would be furnished with a city map showing by similar colors the classification of every thoroughfare in the city, and the allowable weight of loads on the different classes of pavements.
The cost of installing street signs, and of maintaining an adequate force to compel compliance with such regulatory measures until the system becomes self-operative, would be but a small fraction of the annual sum now alleged to be wasted by the destruction of pavements long before they should outlive their usefulness, according to the plan.
Light traffic streets would be paved with less expensive pavement than now demanded to bear their traffic, and often the width of the pavement could be decreased, resulting in still more saving to the taxpayer and the city in general.
At the same time the commission believes of the city and its people could be much better served than is possible at present.

Ancient Pillars Support Flapping Refugee Rags; American Red Cross Aids

Between the pillars of the Temple of Theseus, in Athens, said to be the most perfectly preserved of all the beautiful edifices erected by the ancients, Greek and Armenian refugees cook and wash and hang their clothes to dry. All Greece today presents strange contrasts of glorious relics and modern misery. More than 1,000,000 homeless, jobless refugees have inundated the port towns of Greece.

The American Red Cross has accepted full responsibility on behalf of American charity for aiding in the refugee emergency. Out of its disaster emergency fund the organization has purchased $2,000,000 worth of food, medicine, blankets and other supplies and sent them to Greece.

A staff of experienced American executives is handling the distribution of America's gift through the Red Cross to the stricken refugees. American doctors, using Red Cross supplies, have thrown a sanitary cordon around the port towns and have successfully warded off the invasion of cholera, typhus and smallpox that menaced all Greece. Judge John Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, has put the entire Greek program under the direction of Colonel William N. Haskell, who gained a world reputation for efficient administration of the American Relief Administration in Russia and other great American charitable efforts.

Colonel Haskell and his associates in the field report that all of the needy among the refugees are being aided, that actual suffering has therefore been virtually obliterated and that the problem will rapidly resolve itself into one of permanent solution rather than charity. When the summer harvest comes in, Colonel Haskell believes, America will have done a generous duty so far as emergency help is concerned, and international authorities must find the way to end what need remains, a need due to the presence of 1,000,000 unassimilated additions to the population of a nation whose government frankly pleads inability to absorb the influx.

Wolves Now Haunt Dreary Plains of Republic of Tartar

KAZAN.—The wolves have come back to the steppes. In the cold winter nights on the wind-swept plains of the Tartar republic, the nomadic tribes report, more wolves have been seen this year than for decades past. They have grown so bold that they howl at the very doors of the dug-outs or mud houses that the wandering Tatars and Bashkir people inhabit in the winter in place of their summer tents.
In the Tartar Republic, the Tatars and Bashkir territories, more than 40,000 head of cattle have already been destroyed by the wolves this winter. This destruction among live stock, already depleted by the famine, is so serious that the government has launched a campaign throughout the province to kill the wolves. Huge hunts are being organized. The population has very few rifles, and little or no ammunition on hand, therefore, it is considered probable that soldiers of the Red Army will be used in a wolf drive.

GERMANY BUILDS UP TRADE PLAN

Despite War and Loss of Island Possessions Her Trade Increases.

(By the Associated Press.)
BERLIN, Germany, has rapidly regained her trade in the Far East in spite of the fact that her islands in the Pacific were taken away by the Versailles Treaty, and business was interrupted for years by war conditions and the demarcation and internment of its business men.
For the first nine months of 1922, Germany's total foreign goods valued at $6,000,000 yen. In 1913, Germany exports to Japan for the entire twelve months aggregated 65,000,000 yen. The yen is worth about fifty cents.
In 1921, Germany sold China goods valued at 25,000,000 marks. An increase is anticipated in the figures for 1922 which German exporters believe will make the year's business greater than that of 1914, which was 28,000,000 marks. The mark is worth about one dollar and forty cents.

Before the war Germany had between four and five thousand citizens in China engaged in various commercial pursuits. It is estimated now that two-thirds of these are again in China, endeavoring to re-establish their business connections. German consuls have been back in all the principal business centers of China for some time, including the Tsingtau concession which Japan wrested from Germany at the beginning of the great war, and which has recently been evacuated by the Japanese and turned back to China.
Germany's ambitious plans for vast territorial possessions in the Pacific, which might form the basis for great naval and commercial power, have been defeated, at least for the present, by the loss of Tsingtau, the Marshall and Caroline Islands, New Guinea and other South Sea possessions. But German steamship lines have resumed their sailings to the Orient and are making an effort to regain their lost business.

Siberia Cooperates to Bring Monopoly of Trade to Soviet

VLADIVOSTOK, Mr. L. Serebriakoff, former assistant minister of communications, has been sent here as the representative of the department of labor and defense. This is the highest department of the state and comprises the most highly placed communists.
On January 20, the customs house was closed for all commercial operations, and no goods can be imported until it has been proved that they are not in the category of those whose import has been forbidden by order of the Soviet government.
The opinion was expressed at a meeting of the Far Eastern board of communications that the monopoly of foreign trade by the government as political weapon against the capitalist countries, would not give the same result in the Far East as it would in the Western front, owing to the fact that the one nation whose frontiers march with those of Russia is China, and the political opinion of China is dictated by the Western World.

CITIZENS WANT ISLAND DOMAIN

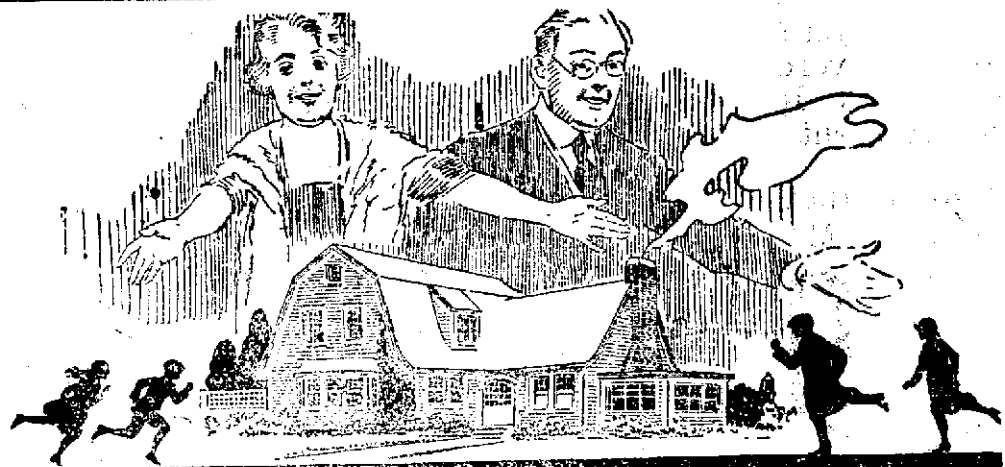

People Have Misconception of Life on South Sea Islands.

HONOLULU, T. H.—The United States harbors a large number of citizens who would be kings, according to letters applying for royal jobs which have found their way to Governor R. Farrington. They come as a result of an apparently widespread misconception of the South Seas.
The applicant got busy after reading a mainland newspaper article headed "Rulers Wanted for Islands in South Seas," and the erroneous information that "details might be obtained from the American Consul at Honolulu." The deluge of letters that followed found their way, in the absence of an American Consul at Honolulu, to the American governor of the American Territory of Hawaii.
The newspaper article was part of a series entitled "Life as It Really is in the South Seas." The first article, according to information here, began with the question: "How would you like to be the ruler of a South Sea Island?" Apparently the number of American citizens who crave to don royal paraphernalia in some far-off palm-lined, tropic island is legion. The applicants included insurance salesmen, farmers, university students, oil men, cowboys, clerks and bankers. The position of king was described as not arduous, hours not long, and with continued series of "tall glasses of amber rum punch" always at the elbow of the monarch. The only disadvantage to the job was given as "the loneliness, which grows."

One applicant wrote: "Seeing recently in one of our Texas papers an article in regards to kings' jobs in the South Sea Islands, would you kindly furnish me with the information in regards to King's job

in said islands? What part of the islands are men wanted, what experience is necessary, if transportation is furnished, what salary is paid, and under whom does the applicant work if awarded a position? Is it a U. S. Government position, or is it a local concern? Any other information you can furnish will be appreciated."
Another applicant states his qualifications in these words: "My dear Consul: This story appeals to the writer, and if there is anything to it would be pleased to get in touch with the makers of kings. Have had lots of experience handling men and conducting business, and am sure I could learn how to make copra. If you know anything about this, put me next and the favor will be appreciated."

Governor Farrington will answer all the applicants.
OKLAHOMA CITY, March 25.—Peach and pear crops in Oklahoma, although hard hit by recent cold weather, will survive in some parts of the state, according to a report being received by John A. Whitehurst, president of the state board of agriculture. Early reports were to the effect that both crops were practically a total loss. An estimate of $2,000,000 damage to the two fruits is approximately correct, Whitehurst said.
That oats which had already sprouted were in some sections of the state severely damaged, was also shown by recent reports, other sections reporting that a loss had been escaped because the seeds had not begun to grow.

Ada Builds New Churches

City Falls in Line With Program to Erect Three New Temples of Worship

Three new church spires will lift their imposing example heavenward in testimony to the building growth of the city of Ada in the near future as a result of the progressive spirit of Presbyterian, Christian and Baptist church congregations.

These three church edifices will testify to the willingness of the citizens of Ada to invest $215,000 in the future in order that they may offer this and other generations a more fitting place of worship.

Heads of the three church congregations have all devised different methods of obtaining funds for the erection of their church buildings but funds in every instance must come from the pocketbook of the church members and the progressive citizen, who believes that the erection of better churches is an investment for better community life.

While only one church is at hand view of their goal before the end of the year. The Presbyterian church is the only one at present under construction.

Presbyterians Building Now Building operations on the Presbyterian church began last June, some six weeks after the arrival of Dr. Whitwell as pastor. He jokingly states that he had to build in order to restore the harmony in the neighborhood, which was being destroyed by the crowding of the numerous frogs that inhabited a pond on the site of the new structure.

Often the erection of a church means a vigorous drive, but realizing the financial condition prevailing here at the time, he stated that his plan would be to go ahead without asking pledges, each member contributing monthly whatever he could. This has averaged about $1,000 per month and the work has never stopped, except when the weather made it impossible to carry on.

No contract was let. The pastor, Dr. Whitwell, has personally supervised every detail of the work. Workers on the building have made liberal donations of labor and all dealers in building materials have made very favorable prices. The result will be that the denomination will have a $50,000 house at an actual outlay of $40,000.

The first money spent in the operations was a fund that had been built up by the Ladies Auxiliary. Dr. Whitwell hopes that the financial condition of the community will be such that the building may be completed by January 1, and the work is going forward with that end in view.

For several months the basement has been used for the purposes of worship and the roof will be put on before there is any lessening of the activities. Meanwhile the contributors will continue their monthly payments and in course of time pay off every obligation no one being put into a strain.

The Christian church next to follow with the building bug. With Reverend F. G. Davis, pastor of the First Christian Church, leading his congregation in their decision to strike in the interest of an adequate building as a fitting place of worship.

Quietly and deliberately the followers planned their new church and at the following Sunday services announced to Ada that they were ready to turn and start plans for construction of a new church after almost a score of years of worship in the old church, which had long been considered past its zenith of service.

The Christian congregation decided on purely business methods in the raising of funds for their church and that of financing on a building loan proposition. Money for the construction of the church is borrowed with payments monthly for a period of ten years, after which time the interest is taken up and the church made the permanent property of its followers.

No outside subscription has been asked for at the present time and no call visits have been made to members of the church. The completed structure will cost approximately $75,000, of which amount $37,000 has already been pledged and $2,000 in cash in the hands of the building committee.

The proposed structure will be 90 by 130 feet and will seat 1,200 people when the balconies are filled. The main auditorium will seat 500 persons. Thirty Sunday school rooms and assembly rooms with complete gymnasium and janitor quarters will constitute one of the most modern churches possible for the money expended.

While no date is set for the beginning of the construction of the church, it is believed that excavation will be started within the next two months.

Christian Church Next

The Christian church next to follow with the building bug. With Reverend F. G. Davis, pastor of the First Christian Church, leading his congregation in their decision to strike in the interest of an adequate building as a fitting place of worship.

Quietly and deliberately the followers planned their new church and at the following Sunday services announced to Ada that they were ready to turn and start plans for construction of a new church after almost a score of years of worship in the old church, which had long been considered past its zenith of service.

Baptists to Build

The Baptist congregation, not to be outdone by other churches which caught the building fever, recently decided on plans that will eventually leave them with a church costing approximately $100,000 and stand out as a monument to the city in years to come.

The congregation, under the leadership of Reverend C. C. Morris feel that there is no time like the present for building churches and rely upon the pride of the Baptist denomination to carry out the financial end of the church building project.

Reverend Morris has been considering pushing the building idea for some time and feel that now is the time to strike for a better temple of worship for his congregation.

No definite plans have been outlined for raising the funds for building the new church but this matter will be ironed out in the near future.

The church will be started in October of the present year, Reverend Morris said.

JONES CHAPEL

All the farmers are getting ready to plant their corn.

The freeze which came Saturday night did some damage to the gardens and the fruit.

Miss Fairrest Shilling of Ada spent Saturday night with Opal Gwaliney.

Miss Carrie Mosier spent Friday afternoon with Miss Anna Norton. Mr. Danham and wife of New Bethel were visiting relatives here the past week.

W. W. Norton and W. A. Norton and wife motored to Atwood Saturday and while there visited John Adams and family.

Henry McGee, a long time resident of this district who first moved out of our community the past year to Pickett district passed away last Monday night. He leaves a wife and six children and a host of friends in this community to mourn his death. His family loved him, yes, but the angels in heaven loved him best and called him to yonder shining shore to rest. We sympathize with his bereaved family.

Miss Anna Norton was very ill last week but is better now.

Miss Birdie and Koncie Casey of near Steedman spent Saturday night with their grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Casey.

Jess Golden and wife and Misses Carrie Mosier and Edna Herrin, also Mr. John Welch and Murray Golden attended the show at the McSwain theater Monday night.

Mrs. Ballard and her daughter Rosa visited Anna Norton Monday. Everyone come out to Sunday school Sunday and singing Sunday night.

Luxor Awakens to Greet Tourists of all Nations After Sleep of Many Ages

VALLEY OF THE KINGS, LUXOR, EGYPT.—(By the Associated Press).—Luxor, like King Tutankhamun, has been roused from its repose of 3,000 years and is taking on something of the habits and characteristics of a twentieth century town. For ages a conventional stopping place for Nile excursion steamers and tourists, it has lately become a center for people of all classes, including students, college professors, antiquarians, doctors, undertakers, dressmakers and souvenir hunters. The newly-found tomb of Tutankhamun is the magnet that draws them all. Tourists are attracted here out of curiosity, but professional men and women, undertakers, embalmers, dressmakers and milliners, come in the hopes of getting new ideas for their business from the mummy chamber of the ancient king.

To modern undertakers the skill of the ancient Egyptians in preserving their dead against the ravages of the ages is a source of amazement and mystery, and many of them have applied to Howard Carter, discoverer of Tutankhamun, for the privilege of examining the Pharaoh's body when it is divested of its garb of gold and its bituminized bandages.

Embalming in ancient times was a much more elaborate and expensive process than it is today. It required three months for its completion and cost $1,500. It was a luxury that could be afforded only by the rich. The ancients believed that mummifications in this life was the only sure means of their resurrection in the next. Patient efforts were made by the poor to secure eternal life to their dead. American archaeologists in Luxor have lately found skeletons of humble peasants placed near the graves of the royal dead. Their relatives, it appears, too poor to pay for embalming, placed the bodies near the graves of the nobles in the hope that their poor frames would partake of the sacredness of the nobility and thus rise with them in the next life.

The first step in embalming a body in Pharaonic days was to place it in a powerful saline solution for three months. The intestines were then removed by means of a sharp-edged stone, the brain, heart and liver were taken out and the body impregnated with myrrh, acacia, bitumen and aromatic oils. It was then wrapped in hundreds of yards of linen soaked in preservative. The anointing of the mummy was accompanied by prayers and incantations to the gods, led by the high priests.

Herbert E. Winlop, director of excavation at Thebes for the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art, showed the correspondent a 4,200-year-old Egyptian princess that he unearthed last week in the Valley of the Queens. Allowing for natural emaciation and shrinkage, the body is amazingly well preserved. The teeth and hair are intact. The neck, wrists and ankles bear a series of slight indentures, indicating, according to Mr. Winlop, that her ancient highness wore a necklace, bracelets and anklets which undoubtedly had been stripped from her by tomb-robbers soon after her interment.

The royal mummy, Mr. Winlop said was that of a woman of 22 or 23, who undoubtedly had been a favorite in the court of one of the Amenhotep kings. Her bosom and arms were delicately tattooed with heraldic figures, indicating her noble lineage. Over the lower part of the abdomen was a long seared brand which the American expert said probably had been inflicted with a red-hot iron by the doctors of that time as a counter-irritant to relieve the pain due to an organic malady from which the princess suffered.

In one flood in Holland in the 15th century 72 villages were inundated and about 100,000 persons drowned.

A giant tree recently found in New Zealand has a trunk 22 feet in diameter. Its age is estimated at 2,000 years.

Build That Home of CONCRETE

And it will be as "Everlasting as Its Memory"

There's no word in the language that is more beautiful than HOME; no word that brings to mind such wonderful memories and associations. First thoughts are of the home of our childhood, its structure and general appearance; the surroundings each of which recalls some incident of bygone days.

In time the children grow to men and women and take their places in the world's busy life. Many must cast their lot in distant places, but few are privileged to remain around the old home hearth. Yet, no matter where they roam, there is always the longing for another glimpse, for a few more hours, back in the home of the long ago. The impulse quickens into action. A long journey again into a world of childhood, and what a sight to greet the eye.

The old house, weather beaten and almost fallen down, can but bring a pang of keenest sorrow. The home of childhood days has become a prey to the ravages of time, it presents a picture that haunts the memory; one that would be banished from the mind, were it possible.

You who plan to build a home in these modern times can build of a material that defies the wear and tear of time; of a material that grows stronger and more durable with each passing year.

The ancients learned its secret when the world was young and their buildings have stood thru the ages, for for CONCRETE is synonymous with PERMANANCY.

CONCRETE is a combination of cement, stone and sand. CEMENT is manufactured from limestone, shale and gypsum; the other two are used just as Nature furnishes them. The mind of man cannot conceive the distant age of their creation. What Nature spends untold years in building cannot be destroyed in a brief few years. AND EVERY INGREDIENT OF CONCRETE is of Nature's oldest work.

Build that HOME of CONCRETE, and in after years there'll be no pang of sorrow for the tots now at your knee. The HOME will still present the old appearance—the very sight of it will bid the wanderer welcome—it will indeed be HOME again.
